Vardaro Receives Monetary Award for Cost-Saving Suggestion

Curtis E. Vardaro, HVAC mechanic in UNCW's physical plant, was presented with a check by Chancellor James R. Leutze in the amount of $2250 from UNCW through the Employee Suggestion System for the state of North Carolina.

Employed with UNCW since 1988, Vardaro's cost-saving suggestion involved the purchase of replacement purge units for chillers. UNCW currently has nine of these purge units that remove air, moisture and non-condensable gases from low-pressure air conditioning systems. Due to inefficiency, UNCW was required to replace them with high efficiency units.

Rather than replacing each unit at a cost of $60,000, Vardaro suggested that UNCW buy two units (one for each type of Freon) and put them on a mobile unit to use whenever needed.

Vardaro's suggestion will save UNCW approximately $40,000 over a one-year period.

The Employee Suggestion System exists to encourage efficiency and cost savings in government, and carries a monetary award based on a percentage of the savings up to $5000. Suggestions are shared statewide and applied wherever possible.

Mann Named Women's Golf Coach

Jann Mann, director of the Golf Advantage Schools and the Teaching Center at Pinehurst Resort and Country Club in Pinehurst, N.C., has been named UNCW's women's golf coach.

Mann becomes only the second coach in the 15-year history of the program. She takes over the helm from longtime coach Lea Dudley, who resigned earlier this summer.

"I am very excited about coming to UNCW," says Mann. "I'm looking forward to meeting and working with the players. I expect the program to continue its growth and develop even further."

A native of Jacksonville, N.C., Mann, who holds Class "A" membership in both the Professional Golf Association

(PGA) and Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA), began her golf career in 1984 as an assistant professional at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club in Carolina Beach, N.C.

"We know our golf program will be in excellent hands with Jan," says Paul Miller, UNCW's athletic director. "She has a wealth of experience in teaching and should take the program to another level. She will also be a valuable asset when we host the national championship in the spring."

Mann takes over one of UNCW's most successful women's programs. The women's golf team captured the AIAW national championship in the spring of 1982 and has won three East Coast Conference titles.

Donovan to Direct Athletic Development

Kevin Donovan, a 1984 graduate of UNCW, has returned to his alma mater in the newly created position of assistant athletic director for development.

Donovan, 31, has worked the last six years as a corporate and sports law attorney with the firm of Purcell, Ries, Shannon, Mulcahy and O'Neill in Bedminster, N.J. He has also been affiliated with Ribis Graham and Curtin in Morristown, N.J., where he was involved in the legal representation of the New York Giants and Yankees. He also served as a judicial law clerk for the Honorable N. Peter Conforti in Morristown.

"We are delighted to have Kevin join our athletic management team," said Paul Miller, athletic director. "He brings a strong background in fund raising to the position and will head up a strong push in that area for us."

Donovan earned his bachelor's degree in political science and completed his law degree at Wake Forest in 1988. The New Jersey native has been active in several organizations, working as a volunteer for Seton Hall University's fund raising programs and holding membership in the Sports and Entertainment Division of the American Bar and New Jersey State Bar Associations.

"The opportunity to return to UNCW at such an exciting time in its athletic growth is truly an honor," said Donovan. "Fund raising efforts are becoming more and more vital in collegiate athletics and will be critical in the continued growth and success of UNCW's athletic program."

Announcements

ADVANCEMENT CAR WASH

University Advancement is having their car wash TODAY from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., in front of the University Center for those departments that matched Advancement's 100-percent participation in the Loyalty Fund. Participating departments have been notified.

FACULTY/STAFF GOLF TOURNAMENT

The faculty and staff golf tournament will be at 8:45 a.m., July 25, 1994, at the Olde Point Golf and Country Club. Teams of 3-4 people (depending on the number of entries) will play captain's choice. An entry fee of $25 per person will include green fees, cart, meal, trophies, sodas and door prizes. Handicaps will determine A, B, C or D players. Contact ext. 3405 for more details.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Members of the university community are invited to a reception from 10:30-11:30 a.m., Friday, July 29, in Alderman Hall, Room 215, for Corliss Bradley and Diane Brann who will be leaving the university to accept positions in the Wilmington area. Please join the Office of Research Administration in wishing them well with their new careers.

SYMPHONY TICKETS NOW ON SALE

The Wilmington Symphony Orchestra is selling season subscriptions for its 1994-95 concert series. The orchestra, under the direction of Steven Errante, will perform all five concerts (Nov. 5, Dec. 5, Feb. 11, March 25 and April 29) in Kenan Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Season tickets are $48 for adults, $40 for senior citizens and $60 for a parent subscription. For more information, call the symphony office at 791-9262 or Kenan Box Office at 791-9695.

PLACING CAMPUS ANNOUNCEMENTS ON VIDEOTEX

An arrangement has been created so that pre-subscribed users can place urgent campus announcements onto Videotex via e-mail. The Videotex announcement will expire after seven days.

'Send:' the announcement 'To:' VTXBULLET. The e-mail message will be displayed on Videotex without additional editing by any other staff member. Please use upper and lower case when typing your message and review it carefully for errors and sensitivity to your entire audience. The "Subj:" line of your e-mail will be the title of your announcement on Videotex. Select your title carefully and maintain a 42-character limit.

Please do not "Forward" messages from other e-mail accounts since this will retain all of the VAX forwarding descriptions and make the announcement less attractive. The message will appear on Videotex within four hours, when the next automated cycle runs. The VAX login message will be updated with the date and time of the latest entry. Please note that it will only be displayed when a user logs in, not if they are already on the VAX. This service is restricted to faculty and staff providers only. Announcements of student interest must be placed by a faculty or staff sponsor. To subscribe as a bulletin provider, contact Bill Pate at ext. 3526 or via e-mail to PATE.

ORIENTATION

The 1994 fall orientation programs will be held August 21-22 for freshmen and August 22-23 for transfers. Departments who have materials for distribution should send them to Alderman Hall, Room 101 the week of August 8-12 only. Materials will not be accepted before or after this week. Approximately 400 freshmen, 450 transfers and 350 parents are expected.

HOST A STUDENT PROGRAM

United Christian Campus Ministry (UCCM) is sponsoring a host family program for new students beginning with the 1994 fall semester. During orientation, about 27 students submitted interest cards indicating the desire to participate. International students will also have the opportunity to participate when they arrive on campus in August.

UCCM would like to gain the support and participation of UNCW faculty and staff by asking for volunteers to sponsor a student by spending time with them at least once a month in activities of mutual interest, having an occasional meal or seeing the local sites. Call Bob Haywood at 799-8497 or Nannette White at ext. 4137 for more information.

CAPE FEAR WRITING PROJECT

The 1994 Cape Fear Writing Project was awarded $15,000 from the National Writing Project at the University of California at Berkeley. The project, based at UNCW and co-coordinated by the English Department, School of Education and the State Department of Public Instruction is one of eight North Carolina project sites. This summer, the Cape Fear Writing Project will hold a three-week writing institute from July 5-22 for 19 area public school teachers.

CPA REVIEW

A CPA review course for candidates preparing to take the November 1994 Uniform CPA Examination will be offered 6-10 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, August 9 through October 27, in Cameron Hall, Room 214.

The "Conviser Duffy CPA Review" will be presented by UNCW's Department of Accountancy and Business Law, Cameron School of Business Administration, in association with the Division for Public Service and Extended Education.

For more information or to register, call 1-800-274-3926 or contact Richard A. Roscher at ext. 3507.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Terry Theodore, fine arts, had an article titled "Atalaya: Architectural Genius or Folly?" published in the May 27 issue of The Lowcountry Companion. Atalaya, inspired by 12th century Mediterranean Moorish fortresses, was the unusual South Carolina winter home of New Yorkers Archer and Anna Huntington who created world-famous Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet.

Yaqi Yang, graduate student, mathematical sciences, presented the paper "Bayesian inference for nonlinear errors-in-variables regression via Gibbs sampling," at the meeting "Interface: Computing Science and Statistics," June 15-18, in Research Triangle Park. This work was done under the supervision of Dr. Cynthia DeSouza, mathematical sciences.

Dr. Luther D. Lawson, Cameron School of Business Administration, has had his article "Do Student Attributes, Prior Economics Training and Course Prerequisites Affect the Learner's Principles of Economics Grade?" accepted for publication in the Southwestern Economic Review (Vol. 22, No. 1, Spring 1995).

A review by Richard Golsan, Texas A&M, of Dr. P.J. Lapaire's book Montherlant et la parole, in the South Atlantic Review (May 1994) describes this work of criticism as "unquestionably one of the finest studies of Montherlant's dramatic oeuvre published in recent years."

Dr. Grace Burton, curricular studies, addressed the national sales representatives of Harcourt Brace School Publishing July 7-8, in San Antonio, Texas. The title of her presentation was "The Meaning of Constructivism in School Mathematics." Burton is one of three authors of the just-published Anytime Math program, a constructivist approach to primary (K-2) mathematics. During June, she met in Orlando with Harcourt Brace editors to plan a grade 3-8 mathematics series based on the same philosophy.

Dr. Kimon Bird, biology, has an article on "Use of in vitro propagation of Ruppia maritima for seagrass meadow restoration" in the current issue of Journal of Coastal Research. Other authors are Jerilyn Jewett-Smith, University of Tampa, and Mark Fonseca, National Marine Fisheries Service.

Dr. Lewis E. Nance and Dr. Pamela J. Seaton, chemistry, have received a $17,740 grant for their proposal "Upgrade of Multinuclear NMR (Nuclear Magnetic Resonance) Spectrometer." The grant was funded by the National Science Foundation.

Belk Beery's Nationally Renowned Fashion Show Aids Kenan Auditorium Adopt-a-Seat Campaign

Belk Beery has named UNCW's Kenan Auditorium Adopt-A-Seat campaign as this year's recipient of proceeds from the 1994 Belk Beery "Horizon Fashion Show."

Fashion on the Horizon is a theatrical runway experience sponsored by Belk Inc. The traveling fashion show mixes a broad variety of Belk fashion with unique and theatrical runway performances. The show travels across the country adopting charities and organizations, donating all its proceeds

The fashion event will kick off the auditorium's Adopt-A-Seat campaign August 30 and 31, 1994. Activities begin with a sponsor/VIP preview reception at Kenan House hosted by Chancellor and Mrs. James Leutze at 7:30 p.m., August 30. At 6:30 p.m., August 31, there will be a sponsor/VIP pre-show dinner at the University Center Ballroom. Immediately following, at 8 p.m., the Belk Beery Horizon Fashion Show will begin in Kenan Auditorium. Following the show, there will be a sponsor/VIP Afterglow and Silent Auction from 9:30-11 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. Tickets are $15 for the fashion show only and $25 for the Afterglow Silent Auction. Sponsorship packages are available.

The Adopt-A-Seat campaign is co-sponsored by Belk Beery, Wilmington and UNCW Sterling Performances. The campaign will help Kenan Auditorium replace its auditorium seats which are original to the building's construction in 1970. The renovations will provide more access for wheelchairs, better flexibility in staging and more comfort to all the audience members. For ticket information, contact Kenan Auditorium at ext. 3442 or 3218.

Legislative Increase and Compensated Bonus

Eligible SPA employees will receive a 4-percent legislative increase in their July 29 paycheck. SPA employees employed by July 1, 1994, will also receive a one-time 1 percent compensated bonus.

The compensated bonus will be combined with the regular pay. The bonus pay is separately identified on the July pay stub in the OTHER PAY column and the combined total in the GROSS PAY column.

EPA employees will receive pay raises, retroactive to July 1, and the 1 percent compensated bonus in their August 31 pay.

For questions regarding paychecks, call Jane Hauser at ext. 3163 or Jan Lion at ext. 3227. For questions regarding EPA contracts, call Sandy Ward at ext. 3339.

A Message From Chancellor Leutze 1994 Fall Convocation

On August 24, 1994, at 10:30 a.m., in Kenan Auditorium, the university will hold fall convocation. This will be an event to mark the beginning of our academic year and a time to honor several persons for their outstanding achievements.

This ceremony is one event to which we invite all members of the university community to attend and share our vision for progress.

In addition to the ceremony, a continental breakfast has been arranged at 9 a.m., under the tent outside Kenan Auditorium (rain site is Center Stage Cafe). We hope you will participate in this as another part of the university's attempt to create a sense of "community" among all members of our family.

To provide for your attendance at these events, I am asking supervisors to operate their offices from 9 a.m.-12 noon, at minimum staff levels. We look forward to this as a memorable day. Please join in celebrating the beginning of the academic year

UNCW's Response to Inaccurate Remarks

In lieu of the edited version the Star-News printed of my Letter to the Editor, I thought the campus community would be interested in reading the un-edited version as follows.

Editor:

This letter is in response to the segment in your Monday, July 18, Political Notes titled, "Empty Classrooms, idle teachers."

At UNCW, faculty teach. Our primary focus is quality undergraduate education, and we are continually striving to train and reward our faculty for excellence in the classroom. Printing unsubstantiated allegations that UNCW's tenured professors are "so busy writing books and getting published, they don't spend any time teaching kids," is irresponsible journalism and is unfair to an outstanding faculty. It is also ironic that you would print such a gross misrepresentation only three days after UNCW faxed information on faculty teaching loads to you at the request of reporter Kevin Brewer.

To set the record straight, I will recap the information provided to Mr. Brewer. During the 1993-94 academic year 3,245 course sections were taught at UNCW. More than one quarter of all course sections were taught by full professors. More than three quarters were taught by faculty with rank of assistant professor or higher. More than 85 percent of all sections were taught by full-time faculty. More than half of all sections were taught by full-time faculty members. Fewer than one percent of all courses were taught by graduate assistants, and then only under close faculty supervision and after extensive teacher training.

I also point out that the number of evening courses offered at UNCW has continued to increase as additional faculty resources have become available. We expect to offer nearly 100 evening undergraduate classes and labs in the fall, the majority at the 100- and 200-levels, as well as around 40 graduate classes. A student can now fulfill all of UNCW's Basic Studies requirements by attending evening classes.

All of our full-time faculty carry a full workload in classroom instruction, student advising and mentoring, direction of individual student research projects, and other teaching-related activities. Surveys show that this load is equivalent of a 54-hour work week (cited as the national average for university faculty by the executive director of the State Higher Education Executive Officers in a research report published in October 1992).

In the past year alone, most full-time UNCW faculty taught between 200 and 400 students each, some faculty with even higher enrollments. In fact, UNCW has one of the highest student-faculty ratios in the UNC system. At the same time, faculty perform valuable service to the university and to the community, in addition to conducting research that enriches their own classes as well as the classes of others.

I invite you and Ms. Sandra Barone to spend a day with a professor at UNCW and see for yourselves what happens during the course of that day. Also, you might spend a Saturday afternoon at a hospice with one of our psychology faculty, or an evening any week with a professor who is tutoring in Wilmington's Crossroads program or join any of a number of other faculty actively involved in public service efforts during their "off-campus" hours.

In the meantime, I hope that I have corrected some of the misconceptions fostered by the opinions cited in your column.

Yours truly,

Marvin K. Moss

Goodbye to Summer Hours

Summer hours will end Friday, August 12. The university will return to its normal 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule beginning Monday, August 15.

Also, the next Campus Communique will be distributed on August 25. The normal schedule for the 1994-95 academic year will resume on that date with the return of a weekly Campus Communique. The deadline for submissions will remain NOON TUESDAYS.

Announcements

SEANC MEMBERSHIP BLITZ

SEANC will be holding a membership blitz from 7:30-10:30 a.m., August 15, in the University Center, Center Stage Cafe. Everyone is invited, and a light breakfast will be available. Representatives from Raleigh will also be in attendance.

ARTS IN ACTION

"Icons: Housewives and Other Goddesses," an exhibit by Sandra H. Hily, will be displayed in the University Union through September 23.

FACULTY AND STAFF DIRECTORY

The 1994-95 faculty and staff directory will again be combined with the student directory. This combined directory is an important source for colleagues and students. Information regarding home address, home telephone and spouse's name can only be included in the directory with your permission. Faculty/staff phone directory verification forms will be sent to all faculty and staff next week. You may indicate your preference for the release of personal information on this form.

FALL REGISTRATION

Fall registration is expected to be very heavy at the Cashier's Office on August 17, 23 and 24 and the afternoon of August 22. Student activity also is expected to be heavy on September 6 and 12 due to the release of student loan checks and refunds. In order to accommodate university needs without significant delays, please take all university business to Peggy Ann Dallmer's office through the Student Accounts entrance during those peak times. Please call ext. 3143 with any questions.

FACULTY/STAFF GOLF TOURNAMENT

The 1994 Faculty/Staff Golf Tournament was a huge success. Forty-four players turned out to participate in search of that first-place gold. Art Goodwin, Doug Johnson, Don Sloan and Eddy Cavanaugh were members of the winning team.

REGALIA SALE

The UNCW Bookstore and Oak Hall Regalia Company will be having their Fall Regalia Sale August 30-31, in the bookstore. Custom regalia will be offered at a 20-percent discount. Call ext. 3054 to make your appointment for measuring.

1994 FALL CONVOCAION

A Message From Chancellor Leutze

On August 24, 1994, at 10:30 a.m., in Kenan Auditorium, the university will hold fall convocation. This will be an event to mark the beginning of our academic year and a time to honor several persons for their outstanding achievements.

This ceremony is one event where we invite all members of the university community to attend and share our vision for progress.

In addition to the ceremony, a continental breakfast has been arranged at 9 a.m., under the tent outside Kenan Auditorium (rain site is Center Stage Cafe). We hope you will participate in this as another part of the university's attempt to create a sense of "community" among all members of our family.

To provide for your attendance at these events, I am asking supervisors to operate their offices from 9 a.m.-12 noon, at minimum staff levels. We look forward to this as a memorable day. Please join in celebrating the beginning of the academic year.

FALL CRAFT SHOW

To boost participation for the craft show, it has been decided to invite employee's immediate family to participate. The craft show will be held November 5-6. If interested, please contact Maryann at ext. 3415 or e-mail to STRICKLANDM.

PERSONNEL AND TITLE CHANGES

The following personnel and title changes are announced for the Office of the Provost/VCAA:

Dr. Jo Ann Seiple, from assistant to associate vice chancellor for academic affairs for academic policies and programs.

Dr. Dick Ward, from director of the Center for Teaching Excellence and director of the Science and Math Education Center to assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs for information technology and special academic programs.

Dr. Carol Ellis, faculty assistant to the provost (half-time basis with teaching duties in the English Department).

Dr. David Miller, interim director of enrollment management for fiscal year 1994-95.

Dr. Denis Carter remains associate vice chancellor for academic affairs for budgets and operations.

Position descriptions and responsibilities for these people will be available from the provost's office shortly.

OFFICES RELOCATE

The Student Organizations Office and the UNCW Volunteers! program have relocated from the Campus Activities Office to the Leadership Center in the University Union, Room 212. Student Organizations can be reached at ext. 3877 and the UNCW Volunteers! program can be reached at ext. 3925.

Trustees Recognize Wentworth for Excellent Teaching

Dr. Michael D. Wentworth, associate professor of English, has been honored with the UNCW Board of Trustees Teaching Excellence Award. The Board of Trustees based their choice on the recommendation of an anonymous committee made up of UNCW faculty members. In addition to the honor, Wentworth received $1,500 in cash.

In selecting him for the award, the committee singled out several accomplishments. These include a long history of exceptional student evaluations of his teaching, his leadership as a mentor to numerous colleagues and new faculty, and in particular, his philosophy and approach to teaching, providing more than 20 different new and cross-disciplinary courses during his service at UNCW.

Wentworth has been frequently recognized with awards in the past for his teaching, including a Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award for the College of Arts and Sciences, the English Department Teaching Excellence Award and the Phi Eta Sigma Outstanding Educator Award.

During his presentation of Wentworth to the board, Chancellor James R. Leutze applauded Wentworth's hard work and commented on the satisfaction he must feel in knowing that others recognize and value his efforts. "I am certainly among them," Leutze said in issuing his congratulations.

In presenting Wentworth to the trustees, Leutze excerpted several quotes from nomination letters. One English major wrote of Wentworth, "He makes learning fun, and he does not simply lecture to the class, but involves everyone individually. He incorporates popular culture into his teaching to help students relate easier to his classes. For instance, in British literature, he involved pop music lyrics and related them to 14-century love poems."

Another student wrote that Wentworth provided support, encouragement and inspiration to her when she was an extremely shy and nervous freshman. "He always made time for my problems or questions, and he never made me feel as if my concerns were trivial or meaningless. Thanks to him, I left English 101 a more confident and capable writer and student. I have often heard that it only takes one good teacher to change the life of a student. While I have encountered many good teachers over the years, it is Dr. Wentworth who has had the most profound effect upon my academic career."

A 1992 UNCW graduate wrote, "Dr. Wentworth's approach to teaching is uniquely his own. He is engaging and animated and always entertaining ... His comments both in class and on assignments are encouraging and constructively critical. He encourages new and independent thoughts. I cannot remember a single instance when he has caused me to feel ignorant or inadequate. He is never condescending."

His colleagues in the English Department echoed praise from his students. A letter from other former chairs of the department singled out his concern for students outside the classroom. They also noted his efforts to mentor junior faculty, offering formative evaluations to help them improve their classroom effectiveness, and mentioned the extraordinary variety of courses he teaches.

"His more than two dozen offerings have ranged from introductory composition to graduate literature courses. His interests span the continents and the centuries, with classes as diverse as Elizabethan Literature and The Beat Generation in American Culture. He constantly expands his range and still performs, invariably, at the highest level."

Wentworth joined UNCW in 1983. His previous college teaching experience included the University of Kansas and Northland College, Ashland, Wisc. He holds a doctorate in English from Bowling Green State University (1979), an M.A. in English from Eastern Michigan University (1971) and a B.A. in English from the University of Kansas (1969).

The Trustees' Teaching Excellence Award was begun in 1978 to recognize "demonstrated mastery of an enthusiasm for the subject taught, resoluteness in maintaining high academic standards, a genuine interest in each student's intellectual and creative development and an ability to foster respect for diverse points of view and an openness to learning."

Letter from the Chancellor

Dear Campus Employees,

I wanted to write to thank you all for the hard work that went into getting the campus ready for fall. The grounds look great, the buildings are sparkling and everyone seemed happy to greet our new arrivals and the returnees. I was especially pleased with the response by the parents to our Move-in '94 program. They not only welcomed the help provided by our 250 volunteers, but they also took it to mean that their children were coming into a supportive environment. The positive first impressions that we presented should help the students get off to a good start; it is always easier to deal with people when they are in a good mood.

This is a great university because we have so many fine people working here. We certainly got things off and running smoothly and that could not have happened without the contribution of many, many people.

Thanks again.

With all good wishes,

James R. Leutze

Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Awardees Announced

At Fall Convocation, five professors received the Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award which recognizes outstanding teaching in the classroom. The recipients each received a $750 award and a distinguished teaching medallion.

The recipients were: Dr. Hathia Hayes, associate professor of curricular studies; Dr. Luther D. Lawson, associate professor of economics and finance; Dr. Melton A. McLaurin, professor of history; Dr. Patricia A. Turrisi, assistant professor of philosophy and religion; and Dr. James D. Johnson, associate professor of psychology.

A colleague wrote of Dr. Hayes, "She sets a standard for quality teaching and encourages her peers to reach for excellence. She is also a learner herself, in the truest sense of the word. Among her many contributions to education in our region, Dr. Hayes has recently played a crucial role in establishing Professional Development Schools in Brunswick and Duplin Counties. She was selected for this award for her dedication and commitment to supporting students' learning."

A colleague wrote, "Professor Lawson is a faculty member who maintains a serious high level, constant commitment to quality education. He is a superb role model for his younger colleagues as well as for his students. I believe he is an excellent example of our commitment to excellence in education here at UNCW and will represent the Cameron School of Business and UNCW well as this year's award recipient."

Dr. McLaurin's colleagues wrote when nominating him, "(He) sums up a teaching philosophy developed over 27 years in the classroom by saying that a teacher has three responsibilities to his students: to be prepared, to be fair and to attempt to motivate students to achieve all that they can." Also, "He is himself an exceptionally effective communicator, and he devotes much time and effort to fostering the communications skills of his students to elucidate the connection between clarity of thought and clarity of expression."

A colleague nominating Dr. Turrisi wrote, "(She) is an innovative teacher who has developed new courses during each of the eight years she has been at UNCW. Her teaching has included interdisciplinary courses for the SHS minor, team-taught courses and distance learning through the use of fiber optics and multi-media presentations. In each of those different classroom styles, she demonstrates excellence and generates intellectual excitement in her students."

In nominating Dr. Johnson for this award one of his colleagues wrote, "Dr. James Johnson is an exemplar of teaching excellence within the classroom setting, as a research teacher, and as a person who shares his teaching skills with colleagues . . . (He) demands and receives the best from those he teaches.

He inspires, rewards and gives credit to his students. He cares about the teaching process and it is apparent to all who come in contact with him."

Employee Appreciation Week

Governor James B. Hunt, Jr., has proclaimed September 12-16 "State Employee Appreciation Week."

To express appreciation to the dedicated and hard-working employees of UNCW, the university has planned a week of special events to include walking tours of campus, a breakfast, picnic lunch, ice cream sundae party, auxiliary fair and crazy hat contest.

Watch the Campus Communique for details. More information can be obtained by calling ext. 3006.

Announcements

WILMINGTON BOYS CHOIR

Auditions for boys ages 8-16 of UNCW faculty and staff will be held for the Wilmington Boys Choir at 4:30 p.m., September 6, in Kenan Hall, Room 116. No experience is necessary. Call Sandy Errante at 799-5073 for details.

NAME/LOCATION CHANGES

LivWELL and ALTERNATIVES! have merged to form the Wellness Promotion Center. This office is now responsible for providing the campus community with educational services to promote, support and affirm healthy living behaviors. These services will address health education topics (nutrition, fitness, other lifestyle issues); alcohol, tobacco and other drugs; healthy relationships and sexual wellness. Sexual assault education services will also be available from this office through the Reach Out! program. The Wellness Promotion Center is located on the second floor of Westside Hall. For more information, call ext. 4137.

ARTS IN ACTION

The Arts in Action Committee which meets monthly to select campus cultural events is seeking new members. It is responsible for "Local Limelight" each Thursday in the Hawk's Nest, monthly theater productions, artist exhibits and demonstrations, international film series and poetry readings. More information can be obtained by calling ext. 3827. The first meeting will be at 11 a.m., September 13, in the Leadership Center.

KEATING TO PERFORM

Vicky Pratt Keating an award-winning singer and songwriter from Washington, D.C. will perform at 8 p.m., September 1, in the University Center, Center Stage Cafe. Admission is free for anyone who wants to attend.

VOLUNTEER FOR THE VOLUNTEERS

The UNCW Volunteers! Office is currently recruiting volunteers for the 1994-95 school year. For any faculty or staff member interested in volunteering, please contact the UNCW Volunteers! Office at ext. 3925.

KINGS DOMINION

Discount coupons for admission to Kings Dominion theme park in Doswell, Va., are now available to UNCW faculty and staff. The coupons, provided by the Chamber of Commerce, offer a $13.50 discount on the $26.95 admission price and must be used between September 3 and October 23. Coupons may be picked up in Human Resources.

LEADERSHOPS

Dr. Steve Harper is presenting the first of a series of "Leadershops," one-hour leadership workshops for students, faculty and staff, from 4-5 p.m., September 7, in the Leadership Center. His topic is "The Impact of Leadership Style on the Character of an Organization." Since every organization develops its own distinct "character" (like an individual's personality), it affects the challenges it pursues, its objectives, the type of people it attracts, how decisions are made, how innovative it is, and the types of rewards it offers. This program explores the role that a leader's vision, values and example may play in the development of an organization's character. For more information or to register, call ext. 3877.

FACULTY MEETING

The fall 1994 faculty meeting has been rescheduled for 4 p.m., Thursday, September 22 in Cameron Auditorium (Room 105).

LOCAL LIMELIGHT

The first "Local Limelight" of the semester will feature Nick Ponos and Duke Ladd outside the Hawk's Nest at noon TODAY. They will offer a varied program with a "big band" sound! Call ext. 3827 for more information.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERIES

Dr. Terry Theodore, fine arts, will host the first film presentation for the upcoming International Film Series sponsored by Campus Activities, Arts in Action. Children of Paradise, the 1945 classic, will be presented at 7 p.m., September 4, at the Center Stage Cafe. Children of Paradise is a timeless masterpiece of filmmaking.

THANK YOU

The sponsors of the "Welcome to UNCW" cookout for UNCW gay, lesbian, bisexual students, their friends and allies wish to thank the many members of the university faculty, staff and administrators who participated. The picnic was a great success thanks to those who shared their time and energy to meet and welcome our students.

UNCW Fall Convocation

Dr. James R. Leutze originated convocation at UNCW in 1992 as part of the university's pursuit of its sacred duty of discovering and imparting knowledge. Held at colleges and universities throughout the world, convocation is a formal ceremony used to bring members of the college or university community together for important announcements or recognitions. At UNCW, Dr. Leutze says, we have a convocation at the beginning of the year to give substance to our commitment to the shared joy of teaching and learning. At UNCW's convocation, awards are presented to faculty members recognizing them for their outstanding achievements. The Award for Faculty Scholarship, the Board of Trustees Teaching Excellence Award, the Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Awards and three Distinguished Teaching Professorships were awarded this year.

A Great Beginning

The following is a summary of Chancellor Leutze's remarks at convocation:

Dr. Leutze opened the convocation ceremony with a welcome to the faculty, staff and guests in Kenan Auditorium. He said that it will be an exciting year and that we are off to a great beginning with Move In '94. Over 250 volunteers helped move the new freshmen into on-campus housing, and it was music to our ears, Dr. Leutze said, to hear the words from one parent, "They didn't do this at ECU." He thanked staff for their contributions to the smooth opening.

This is the best freshman class we have ever had, on paper, and we had a larger number apply with fewer being accepted, Dr. Leutze said. He said that this is a high-powered class with 84 percent listing UNCW as their first choice, up from 69 percent in 1991. Dr. Leutze quoted other impressive statistics:

40 percent of the freshmen chose UNCW based on its academic reputation, up from 20 percent in 1991; 78 percent said they plan to graduate in four years, versus 66 percent in 1991; the number of freshmen who planned to transfer dropped 50 percent from 1993.

The freshman class is a highly motivated, intelligent class with high goals, he said. The university's goal is to have an average SAT of 980 by 1997, and we are well on our way to that goal with a jump from 935 in 1993 to 967 in 1994. UNCW currently ranks fifth in the UNC system for SAT averages. He said our goal for a four-year graduation rate was set at 30 percent for 1997, and we have already made it up to 29.2 percent this year. Our fund-raising goal was set at $15 million by 1997, Dr. Leutze said, and we have already reached $14.6 million to date.

"The UNCW team is getting better," he said, "but we are also being rightly recognized for how good we've always been." Dr. Leutze praised the faculty as one of our primary distinctions. He recognized Dr. Jerry Shinn, our O. Max Gardner Award winner, the first ever on this campus. We have also gone from $3 million in 1990-91 to more than $7 million in research grants this year. Dr. Leutze also praised the psychology department as it welcomes its first 12 graduate students. He complemented them on their work in drug and substance abuse, their work on anger and its influence on behavior including spouse abuse, and Dr. James Johnson's work on pop music and its behavioral effects.

Discere Aude

The following is excerpted from Dr. Gerald Shinn's convocation address:

Fellow students and colleagues welcome to the 1994 convocation of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. For returning students and faculty: welcome back. For transfer students, new staff, faculty and administrators, welcome to your new heuristic home. To the freshman class of 1994, we extend a special welcome because you are our silver wedding anniversary class. For, on July 1, 1969, Wilmington College married the consolidated University of North Carolina. The freshman class of 1994, henceforth to be known as our sterling class, will be called upon specially to help us celebrate our 25 incredible years of wedding bliss. We have come a long, long way. We still have much to do. Like North Carolina's official son, the Old North State: we were once weak, we are strong and now we are working on becoming great. . . A university . . . by nature and design, composed of diversity in its student body, faculty, staff and administration. Here at [UNCW] we celebrate our diversity in order to fulfill our underlying unity of purpose. Our unity of purpose is encapsulated in the unique motto of the [UNCW]: Discere Aude. . .

Discere, an infinitive, comes from a Latin verb meaning to learn by discovering firsthand. Aude, an imperative, comes from the verb audio and means be courageous. Consequently, the essential meaning of Discere Aude is in order to discover truth firsthand, be courageous! Don't be afraid of anything or anybody. What a splendid motto for a university which has as its task the discovery of truth wherever she leads, no matter the risks encountered. . .

There are three corollary concepts that emanate from Discere Aude: know yourself, think for yourself . . . and operate at an optimum level . . .

Welcome to the beginning of an auspicious and exciting university year as we celebrate our silver anniversary. Let us all work together in our community of learning to practice Discere Aude by knowing ourselves and thinking for ourselves through free inquiry. May truth, beauty and freedom surround you always.

Distinguished Teaching Professorships

The Distinguished Teaching Professorships recognize and reward faculty who have made outstanding contributions to the instructional program at UNCW. The academic deans solicit nominations from each department or school and all full-time tenured professors are eligible to be nominated. Recipients of this award receive a $5,000 annual stipend for each of three years and a Distinguished Teaching Medallion. The three recipients of the 1994 Distinguished Teaching Professorships are: Dr. Kenneth Spackman, Dr. Carol Pilgrim and Dr. Luther Lawson.

Dr. Kenneth Spackman is an associate professor in the Department of Mathematical Sciences with a specialty in number theory. He joined the UNCW faculty in August of 1983. Dr. Spackman received a bachelor's degree from Pennsylvania State University in 1969, a master's degree in 1974 and a doctorate in 1977, both from the University of Colorado. Dr. Spackman has served as thesis advisor on curriculum committees at both departmental and university levels and been a Pi Mu Epsilon faculty advisor for several years. One of his colleagues wrote in nominating him, "Students praise his organization, his fast-paced, interesting lectures, and his fairness. Peers rate his course materials, assignments and tests as superior and have high regard for his teaching integrity."

Dr. Carol A. Pilgrim, associate professor of psychology at UNCW since 1986, studies basic processes of learning and behavior. In nominating her for this honor, a colleague wrote, "Dr. Carol Pilgrim has a rather remarkable and innovative approach to teaching. She employs distinctive pedagogical techniques in her classes. She applies the science of psychology effectively to facilitate the learning process." Pilgrim received a bachelor's degree from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and her master's degree and doctorate from the University of Florida in 1987. She won the Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award in 1992 and is a former recipient of the College of Arts and Sciences Excellence in Teaching Award. She is a nationally recognized expert on teaching women breast self-examination and physicians and nurses clinical breast examination skills. Pilgrim directs several honors theses every year where at least one student receives a UNCW undergraduate research fellowship.

Dr. Luther D. Lawson is an associate professor of economics with a specialty in labor economics, industrial organization and manpower studies in the Cameron School of Business. In nominating Lawson for this award, a colleague writes, "Dr. Luther Lawson's philosophy and style of teaching provide an environment that encourages students to employ independent thinking, requires them to be logical and analytical, and to develop the ability to think through and solve complex problems." Lawson earned his undergraduate and master's degrees at Indiana State and his doctorate in economics at the University of Tennessee. He has been on the UNCW faculty since 1983. Lawson serves as faculty advisor to numerous student organizations including Phi Beta Lambda, Alpha Phi Omega and Beta Gamma Sigma. He also serves as area coordinator for Junior Achievement and as a member of the CSBA Teaching Effectiveness Committee and the MBA Restructure Team. Lawson is a recipient of the 1994 Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award. He was awarded a scholarship to conduct research in economic education as a United Carolina Bank Faculty Fellow.

Award for Faculty Scholarship

Recipients of the Award for Faculty Scholarship shall stand out among faculty as persons who have made, and continue to make, significant contributions to the university and the academic community through their commitment to scholarship, research and creativity. They must have also fostered interest and involvement of students and colleagues in scholarship and creative work. A current full-time UNCW faculty member may be nominated by any member of the faculty. As the 1994 recipient of the Award for Faculty Scholarship, Dr. Joan D. Willey received a $1,500 award and a UNCW Medallion.

Dr. Willey is a professor of chemistry, graduate coordinator for the chemistry department, oceanography program coordinator and was appointed interim dean of the UNCW Graduate School in July 1994. Her specialty is chemical oceanography, and she has been teaching at UNCW since 1977. Willey received her bachelor's degree from Duke University in 1969 and a doctoral degree in chemical oceanography from Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia, in 1975. A prolific scholar, Willey has had several articles, technical reports, theses and abstracts published in scientific journals and other publications.

A colleague nominating Dr. Willey wrote, "Dr. Willey's record amply illustrates that she is an excellent candidate for this honor . . . Dr. Willey has served the scientific profession in many visible capacities. These involvements have enhanced UNCW's regional and national research reputations . . . Dr. Willey is thoughtful, focused and self-motivated in her teaching, research and service activities. She encourages and facilitates the professional endeavors of her colleagues and students. She is a compassionate and genuine individual who is dedicated to the pursuit of a scholarly academic career. We, at UNCW, are fortunate to have Dr. Joan D. Willey as one of our most productive and valuable faculty members."

LIFELONG LEARNING CONFERENCE

The MBA Chapter of the UNCW Alumni Association is pleased to announce the 2nd Annual Cameron School of Business Administration Lifelong Learning Conference September 17. The theme for the conference is "Resizing American Business: Evolution of a New Era." For more information, call 392-1578 or 392-0020.

SASASAAS

UNCW is a member of the Southern Atlantic States Association for Asian and African Studies (SASASAAS), a consortium of almost 30 other institutions whose purpose is to stimulate and enhance the study of Asia and Africa. SASASAAS has expanded to include East Asia, Southeast Asia, West Asia and Africa. SASASAAS supports faculty teaching, funds activities dealing with Asian and African studies on member campuses, provides audiovisual resources and directs a study abroad program in China. A library of films and videos on Asia and Africa, housed at Appalachian State University, are available for faculty use (a full listing of these titles is available in Randall Library or from the Office of International Programs). Use of these films and videos (which is free) may be arranged through Interlibrary Borrowing. The videos and films include titles on history, art and religion, and political, social and economic institutions. They range geographically from Africa through the Islamic world and into South Asia, Southeast Asia (including Vietnam and the Philippines), as well as China, Korea and Japan. Minigrants for the purpose of enriching teaching about Asia and Africa are also available. For more information, please contact Dr. Joe Wilson at ext. 3410 before Sept. 23.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Gur Saran Adhar, mathematical sciences, participated in a National Science Foundation sponsored workshop for faculty enhancement on "Integrated Engineering Workstations" at Bucknell University. The workshop covered recent advances in the "real-time data acquisition and control" technology using computers for monitoring, measurement, testing and control of chemical engineering processes, and mechanical engineering systems.

A research article titled "Asymptotic Periodicity in Logistic Equations with Discrete Delays" by Dr. Wei Feng and Dr. Xin Lu in the Mathematical Sciences Department has been accepted for publication by the journal Nonlinear Analysis, Theory, Methods and Applications. This paper gives mathematical discussions and computational simulations for the long-term and oscillatory behavior in an ecological system with time-delay effects.

Dr. Terry Theodore, professor of theatre in the Fine Arts Department, published "Tom Yawkey Wildlife Center" in the August 5 issue of The Low Country Companion. Developed by the late Boston Red Sox owner, the center spreads over many thousands of acres in South Carolina.

Dr. Randall K. Hanson and Dr. Joanne Rockness, Cameron School of Business Administration, have had their article "Gaining a New Balance in the Courts" published in the August, 1994, issue of the Journal of Accountancy.

Dr. Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, and his former MS student, Robert Toonen, have had their paper titled "Foundations of Gregariousness" published in the August 18 issue of the international science journal Nature. The issue includes a color photograph of marine tubeworms taken by Stephan Bullard, an undergraduate who worked on the project in Pawlik's lab and is now in the Marine Science Ph.D. program at UNCCH. Rob Toonen finished his masters and is now in a Ph.D. program at UC-Davis.

Dr. Subramanyam Kasala, mathematical sciences, attended the spring Research Conference on Statistics in Industry and Technology and presented a paper titled "An Exact and Conservative Confidence Regions in Multivariate Calibration." Kasala also attended the 26th Symposium on the Interface: Computing Science and Statistics and a conference on directions in sequential analysis. He presented a paper titled "Determination of the Order of an ARIMA Processes" at the Joint Statistical Meetings in Toronto, Canada, and jointly published a paper with T. Mathew titled "An Exact Confidence Region in Multivariate Calibration" in the Annals of Statistics, 1994, vol. 22.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Michael Bogan/Human Resources; Suzanne Cavanaugh/Research Administration; Peter D'Annibale/Financial Aid; Julie Davis/Public Service; Frederick O'Lary/NURC; Michael Shaw/Physical Plant.

Shared Leave

Shared Leave has been requested by Mary Harvey, NURC, to help her avoid leave without pay during her maternity leave. Please call ext. 3161 to donate.

Insurance Enrollment

Open enrollment period for medical insurance runs through September 2. The State of North Carolina added a new HMO (PCP) effective October 1. Information was mailed to home addresses the first week of August. If you have questions, please contact ext. 3713.

Temporary Hourly Timesheets

Timesheets for temporary work are due by 5 p.m., Thursday, September 1. Please turn them into Human Resources.

Purchasing

Effective immediately, new subscriptions can be processed by check request. Hopefully, this change to match new subscription handling to renewals will aid in ease of handling.

Purchasing requests your cooperation in sending the pink or partial receiving copy of purchase orders no later than one day following receipt of your merchandise or service. Your signature on the "Material Received" line is required for verification of receipt. If you suspect an order is not correct or does not belong to you, notify ext. 3156. If an order appears to be correct, receiving must be verified right away. If a delay is encountered, due to installation or assembly to verify "correctness," receiving must still be verified and problems addressed when they arise. Receiving processes control vendor payments. Slow vendor payments may result in poor vendor relations. We ask for your cooperation so that we can process and receive your orders in the most effective manner possible. Call or e-mail Mary Forsythe with any comments or questions.

403(b) Plans

Several new investment accounts are now available in the 403 (b) Supplemental Retirement Accounts through TIAA/CREF and VALIC. Any current VALIC participant who would like to move money from one or more existing accounts to one or more of the new funds may do so without restriction until the end of September. Contact John Pezzoni at VALIC 1-800-448-2542. TIAA/CREF participants may call the Participant Information Center at 1-800-842-2776 to request information, allocate or transfer funds.

Retirement Enhancements

Effective July 1, 1994, the multiplier used in determining retirement for state retirement participants was increased from 1.71 percent to 1.73 percent. This means that an employee with 30 years contributing service whose average final compensation is $30,000 will receive a maximum retirement benefit of $15,570 ($30,000x.0173x30). Additionally, the penalty for early retirement benefits was reduced. Benefits for employees who meet the criteria for early retirement benefits will be reduced by the lesser of the following: 5% per year for service under 30 years or 3% per year of age from age 60-65 and 5% per year of age below 60.

Effective January 1, 1995, the amount a retiree can earn from return to state employment was increased. A retiree may earn in any calendar year, an amount equal to 50 percent of compensation during the 12 months prior to retirement of $20,000, whichever is greater. Participants in the Optional Retirement Plan (ORP) will enjoy an increase in the employer contribution to the ORP carrier from 6.50 percent to 6.58 percent. Employee contributions for both plans remains at 6 percent, tax deferred. For questions, call ext. 3006, 3713 or 3698.

I.D.'s Required for Use of UNCW Recreation Area

UNCW students, faculty and staff must show a valid (UNCW) I.D. for use of the UNCW Recreation Area (formerly the Residence Life Recreation Area). A campus-wide effort has been made to ensure the safety and security of the campus community while using this area. A security officer will check I.D.s from 4-11 p.m., Sunday - Friday, and 2-9 p.m. on Saturdays. Policies and rules for this area will be printed in next week's Campus Communique.

EXCITING TEACHING OPPORTUNITY

As part of the effort to help freshmen in their transition to UNCW and the university environment, Student Academic Support Programs coordinates the offering of sections of a course GCAC 101, Freshman Seminar

This credit-bearing course is offered spring and fall semesters and has several goals - introducing students to the UNCW campus, helping them develop good study skills and attitudes, encouraging them to explore a career and/or major and providing an environment where issues of importance to college freshmen can be discussed. GCAC 101 is open to all freshmen, regardless of grade point average and is taught by faculty and staff.

If you have had experience in teaching such a course and would like to be a freshman seminar instructor at UNCW, or if you would enjoy trying a new experience, please call Grace Burton at ext. 3363 before September 20 for more information.

STUDENTS WITH DIABETES

The educational/support group for students with diabetes will be at 6:30 p.m., September 15, in the University Center, Room 104. Students will have the opportunity to share ideas and strategies and learn about new developments in the diabetes arena. Call ext. 3280 for more information.

BIOLOGY SEMINAR

Dr. Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, will present a seminar titled: "So You Want to be a Marine Biologist: Preparing for Graduate School and Beyond" to the UNCW Biology Club at 5 p.m., Tuesday, September 13, in Friday Hall, Room 151. This seminar is specifically targeted at freshmen and sophomores who are interested in careers in marine biology; however, everyone is invited to attend.

Loyalty Fund Annual Report

In appreciation, we want to recognize and thank those individuals who generously participated in the 1993-94 Loyalty Fund.

For the second consecutive year, the campus community has risen to the challenge of helping to financially support UNCW. Because of our example, prospective donors now realize that we are doing our part to generate necessary funding for our research, equipment and programs.

Three departments met the 100-percent participation challenge: University Advancement, Financial Reporting and the Chancellor's Office. Congratulations and thanks to these areas for taking seriously the importance of continued giving.

In the 1993-94 giving year (7/1/93 to 6/30/94), TOTAL DOLLARS RE-CEIVED FROM FACULTY AND STAFF WAS $38,971. Faculty giving was $23,321 (including one single gift of $10,000) and staff giving totalled $15,650. This year's (July 1, 1994 to June 30, 1995) goal is $75,000 for faculty and staff giving. If campus employees would each set aside one quarter (25¢) a day, we would exceed our goal. And all of that money will be used here on campus!

Within the next two weeks you will be receiving the new Loyalty Fund information and may again elect to utilize payroll deduction or make a lump sum gift. All gifts should be directed to Barbie Cowan, Loyalty Fund Coordinator, Alderman Hall, Room 108.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Steven Miller, National Undersea Research Center, recently presented a paper titled "High resolution spatial and temporal oceanographic and water quality monitoring off Key Largo, Florida" at the 1994 Joint Meeting of the American Society of Limnology and Oceanography and the Phycological Society of America, held in Miami, Fla. Dr. Miller also was a co-author on a second paper with Dr. Dennis Hanusak, Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution, titled "Spatial and temporal variability in the elemental composition of the benthic macroalgae in the Florida Keys." The work was funded by a grant from the National Undersea Research Center.

Dr. Mark Galizio, psychology, recently published a paper with UNCW graduate Beth Gregg, titled "Opioid Drugs and Timeout From Avoidance" in the journal Behavioural Pharmacology. Galizio also presented a paper at the Annual Meeting of the College on Problems of Drug Dependence titled "Drugs of Abuse and the Extinction of Negatively-reinforced Behavior" with UNCW graduates Margaret Liborio and Ashley Thomas, and UNCW student Allison Forney. He recently presented a week-long workshop for substance abuse counselors on the "Psychology of Addiction" at the Southeastern School on Drug and Alcohol Problems in Athens, Ga.

Donnalee Frega, English, published an interview with author Tim McLaurin in the Spring 1994 issue of The Southern Quarterly.

Charles Maimone, auxiliary services, has been selected as district coordinator by the Board of Directors of the Southern Association of College Auxiliary Services. During his three-year term, he will represent colleges and universities in North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Dr. Jonathan Geller, biological sciences, has been awarded a five-year National Science Foundation Young Investigator Award for $125,000 from the Biological Oceanography Program at NSF. The award is to support research on marine biological diversity and conservation. Dr. Geller has also been awarded $19,000 from the North Carolina Cooperative Institute for Fisheries Oceanography for the project "Development of molecular techniques for the detection of genetic and species diversity in marine populations." AP-PCR coupled to heteroduplex mobility assay." Along with co-author Dennis Powers of Stanford University, Dr. Geller has recently published a paper in the journal Nautilus (Vol. 108, suppl. 2) titled "Site directed mutagenesis with the polymerase chain reaction for the detection of sibling species of Mytilus."

During August, Dr. Paul G. Shottsberger, mathematical sciences, attended a 10-day NATO-sponsored institute on supporting learning in computer environments. The workshop was held at Heriot-Watt University in Edinburgh, Scotland, and covered various aspects of computer-supported teaching and learning. Topics included the creation of constructivist learning environments, use of telecommunications in the delivery of instruction and educational resources available through the Internet. The 75 participants in the institute included university faculty and students, researchers and administrators from 20 NATO and cooperating countries.

Dr. Karan B. Smith, mathematical sciences, has had her article "Studying Different Methods of Technology Integration for Teaching Problem Solving with Systems of Equations and Inequalities and Linear Programming" accepted for publication in the Journal of Computers in Mathematics and Science Teaching.

A research paper titled "Dynamics of Two-Level Systems in Glasses" by Dr. Moorad Alexanian, physics, has been accepted for publication in The Physical Review B (Condensed Matter). The work describes low-energy excitations in amorphous solids and was done in collaboration with Dr. Subir K. Bose of the University of Central Florida.

Dr. Charles B. Dodson, English, has been appointed by the College English Association to serve on its task force for the Standards Project for English Language Art (SPELA). This is a joint project by the CEA, the National Council of Teachers of English, the Center for the Study of Reading (University of Illinois) and the International Reading Association. Its purpose is to develop standards for the teaching and learning of English language arts in elementary, middle and secondary schools.

Dr. Robert Kieber and Dr. Pamela Seaton, chemistry, presented a paper titled "Biological Production of Formaldehyde in the Marine Environment" at the 208th national meeting of the American Chemical Society held in Washington, D.C., August 21-26, 1994.

Dr. Melton A. McLaurin, history, has been awarded a $63,248 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grant will be used to offer high school teachers and English professors nationwide a chance to participate in a summer seminar, hosted by UNCW.

Dr. Gabriel Lugo, mathematical studies, Dr. Charles R. Ward, assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs, and Dr. Eleanor Wright, curricular studies, participated in a brain-storming session at Western Carolina University July 28-30 as the sixth annual Carolina Colloquy focused on teaching awards and teaching centers.

Update on Minority and Women Recruitment at UNCW

"The 1994 recruitment year represented substantial progress for both minorities and women at UNC Wilmington and puts UNCW among the forefront of the University of North Carolina's 16-campus system in this area," announced Chancellor James R. Leutze. "As an educational institution, UNCW must recruit the best minds available to teach our students. If we want to attract the best talent, we must learn to recognize that talent is truly diverse and create a diverse community in order to do so."

Objectives

Each year the university analyzes its recruitment and employment patterns to monitor the progress of women and minorities in compliance with state and federal guidelines for public employers. "Our objective is for our employee population to look like the appropriate labor market," said Sam Connally, assistant to the chancellor for equal employment opportunity and affirmative action. "Whenever our work force includes fewer women or minorities than the labor market where we recruit, we establish good faith objectives to increase their representation at UNCW, then monitor our progress from year to year."

Statistics

Reports are filed yearly with the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs, the federal agency with oversight responsibility for affirmative action programs. These reports disclose that the representation of women at UNCW increased from 1993 to 1994 in 11 out of 17 job groups by an average of 19.3 percent. Prior under-utilization of women was eliminated in the computing and information systems and skilled crafts job groups. During the same period, the representation of minorities increased in 10 out of 17 job groups by an average of 33.9 percent. Prior under-utilization of minorities was eliminated in the professional/non-faculty job group

"As an educational institution, UNCW must recruit the best minds available to teach our students. If we want to attract the best talent, we must learn to recognize that talent is truly diverse and create a diverse community in order to do so."

— Chancellor James R. Leutze

Current Recruitment

From January to June 1994, when most new faculty are recruited for the year, the university filled 33 assistant professor and lecturer positions. Of these, 13 were filled by women and eight were filled by minorities. "Based on their availability in the faculty labor market, we would have expected to recruit 12 women and six minorities — so we were ahead in both categories," commented Connally.

During the same period, the university also recruited three senior academic administrators including two women and one minority — again exceeding the representation of women and minorities in the executive labor market. Dr. Virginia Adams, the new dean of the School of Nursing, represents the first African-American to serve as an academic dean at UNCW. Three of five academic deans are presently female, including Dr. Carolyn Simmons, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Joan Willey, interim dean of the Graduate School.

In the staff support area, the university recruited 43 new employees in technical, office support, skilled crafts and service/maintenance positions. Of these, 27 were female and 17 were minorities. Based on labor market availability, the university expected to recruit 25 women and 12 minorities.

"The remarkable feature of our current recruiting cycle is that the university posted net gains in the representation of both minorities and women in all job groups concurrently," commented Connally. "This is a significant breakthrough for the university in promoting diversity on campus."

Letter From Chancellor Leutze

Dear Friends,

I thank each of you for responding to the challenges of beginning the new school year at UNCW. It is my hope that each of you will continue this enthusiasm by supporting our 1994 State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC). As most of you know, the SECC annual effort is not part of the United Way; it is an independent organization whose sole purpose is to provide North Carolina state employees the opportunity to contribute to the charity of their choice. It is the only charitable giving program authorized to solicit state government employees through payroll deduction. Last year our UNCW family contributed $21,171 to many different organizations through this community effort. If each of us supports this effort, we can help even more people this year.

I am pleased that Gene Huguelot, director of library services, has agreed to serve as chairman of this year's campus campaign which begins September 15. At that time, each of us will receive a brochure and pledge/payroll deduction form from a departmental volunteer. If you review this material, you will find more than 200 agencies throughout the state which qualify for membership through the SECC. While giving is totally voluntary, this is a wonderful opportunity for each of us to find and designate our support to an agency whose mission matches our interests. Also, by being part of the SECC, our UNCW contributions will be included as part of the total community effort.

Please join me and hundreds of your colleagues who will be supporting the 1994 SECC. This is another way the UNCW family provides leadership for the community.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Janet Ellerby, English, has published a chapter titled "Conversation and the Fitzgeralds: Conflict or Collaboration?" in The Text and Beyond: Essays in Literary Linguistics (University of Alabama). Her essay uses social linguistics to analyze the autobiographical significance of Scott and Zelda's fiction.

Dr. Harry F. Smith, mathematical sciences, was a selected participant in an NSF-sponsored workshop at Georgia State University, August 21-25. The workshop was devoted to advanced pedagogical methods for teaching computer graphics, in particular starting out with three-dimensional graphics rather than two-dimensional.

Randall K. Hanson, business law, and Dr. Rebecca Porterfield, management and marketing, have had their article titled "Employee Empowerment at Risk: Effects of Recent NLRB Rulings" accepted for publication in the Academy of Management Executive (to be released in 1995).

Dr. Terry Theodore, fine arts, published an interview with best-selling author William Baldwin ("The Hard to Catch Mercy") for the September issue of The Lowcountry Companion. His latest novel Elephant with Man will be published shortly.

An article by Dr. Kathleen A. Johnson, English, titled "The Framing of History: Jorge Semprun's La deuxième mort de Ramon Mercader" has been accepted for publication in the January 1995 issue of French Forum.

The one-act play, It Falls like a Stone, by Kelly Easton, English student, was performed in June at the fourth annual Virginia Woolf Conference held at Bard College. Easton also is part of a trio which was recently awarded a Hal Prince Fellowship for the development of a new musical.

Dr. Arthur J. Spivack, earth sciences, recently delivered an invited lecture at a meeting of the European Geochemistry Association held in Amsterdam. The lecture was titled, "The Isotopic Composition of the Oceanic Crust: The Mantle/Ocean Connection." Dr. Spivack is also the co-author of a paper to be delivered at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of America, titled "Isotopic Constraints on the Formation of Martinique."

Dane Evans, a senior in earth sciences, received a summer research fellowship from the Scripps Institution of Oceanography. The competitively awarded fellowship, is aimed at introducing students in the basic sciences to marine research.

Dr. Andrew F. Clark, history, has had his book The Historical Dictionary of Senegal published by Scarecrow Press (Metuchen, N.J.). This book includes an overview of Senegalese history, statistical tables, extended references and a comprehensive bibliography.

Dr. Robert E. Tyndall, dean of the School of Education, received an award for leadership from the Consortium for the Advancement of Public Education (CAPE). The award was presented at the Southeast Regional Leadership Conference held in June. Tyndall was cited for visionary leadership, dedication and profound contributions to the field of education.

Dr. Ann R. Crawford, specialty studies, presented a paper "Technology in the Teaching and Learning of First Year Algebra" at the 1994 International Symposium on Mathematics/Science Education and Technology, Emerging Issues and Trends, on July 21-23, in San Diego, Calif. Crawford also has been awarded a $35,000 grant from the Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Higher Education Program to fund in-service training for middle grades mathematics teachers during the 1995-96 school year. Crawford will be working with educators from Brunswick, New Hanover and Pender County schools.

Dr. Marlene M. Rosenkoetter, nursing, has been listed on the international health care consultant rosters with the World Health Organization for the Eastern Mediterranean, Alexandria, Egypt; World Health Organization for Southeast Asia, New Delhi, India; and the World Health Organization for the Western Pacific, Manila, Philippines.

Records Management Workshop

On October 4, Ed Southern, chief records analyst for the state agencies of North Carolina, will conduct two presentations on records management in state government, including consideration of some of the legal and ethical issues surrounding the creation, use and disposal of public records. The presentations will be held in the University Center, Ballroom 4

10 a.m.-Noon, Session I: Records Management and Your Responsibilities Regarding Public Records. The presentation will specifically cover public access to records, pertinent laws, the protection of essential records, disposition of records, the handling of electronic and computerized records, and the determination of retention periods for records. The information provided will enable the university's offices and departments to reduce their vulnerability to frivolous litigation, to reduce cost and to improve administrative efficiency.

1:30-3 p.m., Session II: Files and Filing. This workshop will provide step-by-step procedures for organizing and maintaining subject files in an efficient, easy-to-use system. The presentation will cover: organizing files by the function they perform; color-coding files to increase retrieval speed and reduce misfiles; eliminating "general," "miscellaneous" and "alphabetical" files; and in general, creating a well-organized filing system in which all office personnel can quickly and easily find information. This training is designed for staff who perform or supervise filing operations, for department heads or for anyone else who desires something better than a strictly alphabetical filing system

It is recommended that staff members plan to attend both morning and afternoon sessions. To register, call ext. 3270 or ext. 3276.

UNCW Hits the Charts

UNCW jumped dramatically in U S News & World Report's America's Best Colleges. Up from 25th last year, UNCW ranks 14th among approximately 150 regional universities in the South

This jump in the ratings is representative of UNCW's formal goal to become the best teaching university in the Southeast by the year 2000.

"It is always encouraging to do well in these national popularity contests. They may not mean any more than the sports rating polls, but I'll tell you this, I'd rather be in the top 15 than in the bottom 15. Furthermore, a jump of 11 places in the rankings is a lot better than a drop of 11 places," said Chancellor Leutze

Indicative of UNCW's commitment to improving, 40 percent of this year's freshman class chose UNCW because of its highly regarded academic reputation. That is double the 1991 percentage. Eighty-four percent of the freshmen listed UNCW as their first choice, up from 69 percent in 1991. Currently ranked fifth in the UNC system for SAT averages of incoming freshmen, UNCW jumped from an average score of 935 in 1993 to 967 in 1994.

"UNCW's jump in the ratings indicates that the things being done under Chancellor Leutze's leadership are paying off," said Dr. Eugene Wright, Jr., chairman, UNCW Board of Trustees. "We are attracting top-notch faculty and students, growing more and better programs, and gaining visibility and a national reputation."

To arrive at the rankings, U.S. News did a reputational survey of officials at some 1,400 accredited four-year colleges and universities. The resulting reputational rankings were combined with educational data that had been provided by the colleges. These included statistics that measured student selectivity, faculty resources, financial resources, graduation rates and alumni satisfaction. The schools were divided into categories based upon classifications maintained by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Ratajczak to Speak at UNCW

Dr. Donald Ratajczak, one of the leading economic forecasters in the United States, will be speaking to UNCW students about the "Outlook for the National Economy" at 4 p.m., September 26, in Cameron Hall Auditorium. The talk is open to the public on a space available basis. His visit is sponsored by Morgan Keegan and the Cameron School of Business.

Dr. Ratajczak is a professor of economics at Georgia State University and is the director of Georgia State's Economic Forecasting Center. He has been heralded by the media as an expert forecaster of the Consumer Price Index, which indicates inflation, and keeps a close eye on economics in the southeastern states. His command of CPI forecasting has made him popular and influential with everyone from bondtraders to the media. For information, please call ext. 3419.

Experts to Examine Voting Equality

UNCW is sponsoring a conference on Districts and Voting Equality September 23-24. The issue of congressional districting has been very controversial during the recent past and will peak as an issue during the next few months.

A diverse group of expert panelists will focus on this issue from its geographic, judicial and political perspectives. The Saturday morning panel will examine the legal debate surrounding the recent court decision in Shaw v. Hunt and will feature panelists Robinson Everette, plaintiff; Edwin Speas, N.C. Senior Deputy Attorney General; Dayna L. Cunningham, NAACP Legal Defense Fund; and Michael Hess, chief counsel, Republican National Committee.

The conference will feature a free public lecture by Professor Abigail Thernstrom, nationally known scholar and educator on minority voting rights, from 8-9 p.m., Friday, September 23, in Cameron Hall Auditorium and a luncheon address by NCCU Chancellor Julius Chambers.

The issue at stake is how to create a fair electoral system based on majority rule while respecting the rights of the minority. The issue of representation was the most divisive and controversial at the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and it has now returned to the forefront of political controversy and discourse. Representation of the people in their government, by what method, to what end and to whose benefit has again become a significant issue in the public dialogue.

This workshop will be held from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., September 26-27, in the Human Resources Training Room. Cost is $125. There are 10 seats, so register early.

Purchasing Workshop

September 29, 2-4 p.m., Human Resources Training Room.

To register for these workshops, please call Human Resources.

The following workshops have changed from the training manual dates, please make these corrections.

Introduction to Quality Management, September 29, 2-4:30 p.m., University Union, Room 201.

Student Timesheets

The student timesheet deadline for September is 10 a.m., Thursday, September 29. Hours worked on September 30 should be included on the October timesheet. Incomplete or late timesheets will not be processed causing a delay in payment.

Purchasing Reminders

1. Process new subscription orders with a check request.

2. Requisitions for emergencies must be hand-carried to purchasing, not electronically inputted or faxed. Purchasing cannot be responsible for unclear copy. Clearly print or type the information to minimize the risk of mistakes.

3. Competition must be obtained for orders exceeding $500 in cost.

Purchasing will determine the vendor for your procurement needs. Any materials or services ordered previous to Purchasing approval is the ordering individual's responsibility. Let Purchasing work for you. Tell us what you want, and we will get it for the best price within the time constraints you have to work with.

Table Caster Problem

There is a potential problem with the Barricks 4000 series tables with casters. Most often these tables are purchased for either a computer or typewriter. The manufacturer has notified Purchasing that the caster insert weld may break. These units must be removed from service right away to eliminate any risk of injury. JOY Distributors will be in contact with us to replace the legs with casters by October 1. If you have a Barricks 4000 series table with casters, please notify Purchasing at ext. 3154 or via e-mail to FORSYTHEM.

Student Absences

The Office of the Dean of Students cannot and does not excuse student absences in cases of emergency (e.g., extended illness, hospitalization, death in family, etc.). If the student or parents are unable to contact instructors directly, a member of our staff will notify the department of the information that is provided to us. Our notification serves to relay the information and is not a verification.

Intramural Sports

Intramural sports provides students, faculty and staff opportunities to participate in organized individual and team sports. Upcoming intramurals and sign up dates include: Par 3 golf, Sept. 19-24, Sunday Ultimate, Sept. 9-27; and Spikefest, Sept. 26-30.

Construction on New Science Building to Begin Soon

The Science Building was designed, monies were found, bids were sent and contracts have been signed. UNCW's Science Building will soon become a reality. Made possible by the passing of the bond issue last November, the new Science Building will cost $18,522,900.

Groundbreaking

The "Earth-shaking Groundbreaking" Ceremony will be at noon, Friday, September 30, on the building site in the clearing between Cameron and Wagoner Halls. As part of UNCW's Family Weekend, the Groundbreaking Celebration will be held at 6 p.m., September 30, in the same location as the groundbreaking. Food, refreshments and live music will set the tone; members of the chemistry and biology faculty also will have exhibits on display to add to the festivities.

Site Preparation

Site preparation will begin shortly. Because fill dirt will be arriving from off campus, heavy truck traffic is expected mid-October. The site has been chosen and designed to cut the least number of trees. Other than some heavier-than-normal traffic for a few weeks, no one should be disrupted or inconvenienced. The building site will handle all extra parking for contractors and machinery; therefore, no one should be displaced during the construction.

Science Building Specifics

The new Science Building will house the chemistry and biology departments and will be 100,000 square feet, imagine

Cameron Hall is 60,000 square feet. "The modified Georgian-style construction will blend well with the campus and will be ready for occupancy in approximately 20 months," said Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs Bob Walton.

Why does UNCW need this building?

For several years, UNCW has operated with severe space constraints throughout the university. In 1991, UNCW ranked first in having the most crowded academic facilities in the UNC system. In fact, since the fall of 1988, UNCW's student body has increased 25 percent with no increase in square footage for academic facilities. Space is at a premium for classrooms, faculty offices, work areas for graduate students and science laboratories.

Family Weekend

Cape Fear Memorial Hospital and UNCW present Family Weekend Sept. 30-Oct. 1 at UNCW. UNCW's fifth annual Family Weekend will be filled with activities for all ages and interests. "This is the most comprehensive Family Weekend ever," said Alumni Director Pat Corcoran. "There is something for everybody."

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30

12 Noon, Earth-shaking

Groundbreaking Ceremony for the new Science Building, on the building site between Cameron and Wagoner Halls.

2-3 p.m., Dr. Laela Sayigh, "Dolphin Communication: Fact and Fiction," Morton Hall, Room 100.

6 p.m., Earth-shaking Groundbreaking Celebration with food, live music and refreshments, on the building site between Cameron and Wagoner Halls (rain location: University Center Ballroom).

SATURDAY, OCT. 1

1 p.m., Soccer match, UNCW vs. William & Mary, Brooks Field, $2.

4 p.m., Free outdoor concert by Wilmington Symphony Orchestra, beneath the pines between Kenan Auditorium and Kenan Hall (rain location: Kenan Auditorium), music to include selections from The Lion King and Phantom of the Opera.

All events are free (except for a $2 admission to the soccer match) and open to the public. For information, call Alumni Relations at 251-2681.

"Artistic Property and Aesthetic Propriety: The Relations Between the Law and the Arts," 7 p.m., October 3, in Randall Library Auditorium. Reception to follow in the Honors Program Office.

WHY DO GOOD STUDENTS DO BAD THINGS?

Students, faculty and staff are invited to the presentation "Why Do Good Students Do Bad Things?" at 7:30 p.m., October 4, in the University Center Ballroom. This program, presented by Ed King of Bradley University, looks at the paradox of human nature — our separateness from one another and our need for each other — as a means to achieving better communication and interpersonal relationships. For more information, call ext. 3577.

DISCOVER CAMPUS

Discover Outdoor Programs invites all faculty and staff to join them in celebrating the fall temperatures while canoeing on Greenfield Lake and Holley Shelter Creek. Greenfield Lake: Sept. 30 and Oct. 21, 3 'til dark, Holley Shelter Creek: Oct. 8, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Call ext. 4052 for more information.

GLOBAL VOLUNTEERS

UNCW Global Volunteers meets at 5 p.m. Wednesdays, in the University Union, Room 103. Each year the group plans a service-learning trip to experience a different culture and do volunteer work. All faculty, staff and students are invited to participate. For more information, call Bob Haywood at 799-8497 or UNCW Leadership Center at ext. 3877.

ARTS IN ACTION

Arts in Action presents the Frank Bongiorno Jazz Group from 12-1 p.m., September 29, in the Hawk's Nest. Don't miss the sounds of this UNCW group and the comfortable atmosphere of the Hawk's Nest.

Arts in Action continues with its International Film Series at 7 p.m., October 1, in the Center Stage Cafe with the film La Strada. This Oscar-winning film stars Giulietta Masina, who gives the performance of a lifetime as Gelsimona, the tragic waif who is enslaved by her love for an abusive circus strongman.

Carol Thomas will give a jewelry and bead-making demonstration from 11 a.m.-2 p.m., October 3, in the University Union lobby. Thomas's works will be on display from September 26-October 3 in the University Union display case.

Arts in Action and the English Department present "An Evening with Fern Dayve," contemporary international poetry, at 8 p.m., October 5, in Cameron Hall, Room 100.

The Hawk's Nest comes alive from noon-1 p.m., October 6, with the performance of a Bavarian Band.

LEADERSHIP FOR THE 21ST CENTURY

Eric Liu will speak on "Leadership for the 21st Century" at 7 p.m., October 20, in the University Center Ballroom. As the founder and editor of The Next Progressive, a journal of political thought and opinion written by people in their twenties, Liu has become one of the most articulate leaders of his generation. Currently, he writes speeches for President Clinton and National Security Advisor Anthony Lake. Free tickets are available at the University Union Information Center. For information, call ext. 3877.

JAZZ ENSEMBLE CONCERT

The Jazz Ensembles will present their first concert of the 1994-95 year at 8 p.m., September 30, in Kenan Auditorium. For more information, call ext. 3390.

SUMMER INTERNSHIPS

The Institute of Government will have 28 full-time paid internships available for undergraduate students during the summer of 1995. Applications and supporting materials must be postmarked or hand delivered by January 23, 1995, to the Institute of Government. Call Career Services at ext. 3174 or stop by University Union, Room 106, for applications and information.

ART EXHIBIT

An exhibit featuring the art work of Wilmington resident Susan Baehmann will be on display in the University Center from October 1-November 11. The exhibit is titled "Prints and Pastels: Land Seascapes from the South and North."

INFORMATION HIGHWAY

UNCW was one of the 16 sites in North Carolina that participated in Vision Carolina over the past three years. Vision Carolina was a project sponsored by Southern Bell and Northern Telecom to demonstrate the effectiveness and viability of distance learning in both rural and urban areas of the state. Vision Carolina was also the pilot for the N.C. Information Highway (NCIH). Currently, there are approximately 40 sites on the NCIH. The goal is to interconnect 3,400 sites in the state including elementary and secondary school systems, community colleges, the university system, libraries, hospitals, correction facilities and local and state government agencies. Eventually, private businesses will be provided access to the NCIH.

UNCW has two distance learning facilities available for faculty use. The former Vision Carolina site is located on the second floor of Randall Library and is of typical design found at NCIH sites across the state. The second room is located in Westside Hall. Both rooms will seat 25-30 students and are equipped with full hypermedia/multimedia computer workstations with projection capabilities with the classroom and over the network. The Westside Hall facility has a sophisticated control room that will allow both sites to broadcast/receive programming simultaneously.

UNCW faculty have the opportunity to develop and team-teach courses with their peers at other UNC campuses; or elect to originate courses to other campuses or receive courses that other campuses may be broadcasting. There are many opportunities for outreach to the county schools, community colleges and health care providers. The distance learning classrooms are equipped with state-of-the-art computing equipment which will facilitate individual faculty in developing and presenting courses. For more information, call ext. 3138.

TELECONFERENCE TO FOCUS ON STUDENT LEARNING

The Division of Student Affairs will host a teleconference, "Focus on Student Learning: Imperatives for Student Affairs," from 11 a.m.-1 p.m., Sept. 30, in the Center Stage Cafe. The student learning imperative is an exciting new model that represents a proposed shift in the focus of student affairs administration toward a rededication in improving student learning as well as personal development. At a two-day invitational symposium at Bowling Green State University (Sept. 30-Oct. 1), student affairs leaders from across the nation will focus on issues the student learning imperative pose for student affairs administrators. The teleconference will begin with the symposium keynote address by George Kuh, principal author of The Student Learning Imperative, followed with response by a distinguished panel of nationally known leaders. The teleconference will conclude with a summary and synthesis by Dr. Patrick Terenzini, professor at Pennsylvania State University and co-author of the recent book How College Affects Students. The teleconference is open to all university members.

VISUAL PROGRAMMING

Dr. Harry F. Smith, mathematical sciences, will give a talk on "Visual Programming" at 3 p.m., October 5, in Bear Hall, Room 200. The talk will include impressive work done by Summer Ventures students.

SEGREGATED HISTORY

The History Department will kick off this academic year's public programs with a talk by Melton McLaurin at 8 p.m., October 4, in Cameron Hall Auditorium. Melton will speak on "Segregated History: The Use and Abuses of the Past."

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Janet Ellerby, English, has published an essay titled "Conceptualizing the Postmodern Enigma" in Teaching Wallace Stevens (University of Tennessee). Her essay discusses how certain Stevens' poems are helpful in illustrating the limitations of language, a concern central to postmodern deconstructionist theory.

Tom Macie, fine arts, recently completed interior design and renovation work for a 4,000 square-foot building that will be the new home to Modular Graphic Services, 621 North 4th Street, Wilmington. His work included computer-drafted plans of the structure and details for new construction and construction supervision.

Dr. Ravij Badarinathi, production and decision sciences, gave a seminar titled "The Calculation of Posterior Distributions by Data Augmentation" on September 13 at the Indian Statistical Institute in Calcutta, India. Currently a Faculty Reassignment Award winner, he is spending six months doing research at the Institute in Calcutta.

Dr. Paul A. Thayer, earth sciences, was awarded a $30,000 U.S. Department of Energy Faculty Research Fellowship at the Savannah River Laboratory during the 1994 summer. Thayer conducted research on computer modeling of contaminant flow and transport and will present the results at the Geological Society of America meeting in Seattle, Wash., in October.

Potter Sidney Luck Chosen as 1994 North Carolina Living Treasure

Sidney G. Luck, nationally known traditional potter of Seagrove, has been chosen as the 1994 Living Treasure of North Carolina by the Institute for Human Potential at UNCW.

Owner of a pottery shop, Luck's Ware, Luck is following a family tradition of turning pottery in Seagrove. In 1955 when Luck was 10 years old, his father re-opened his grandfather's pottery shop, built an electric wheel and became his teacher. Thirty-two years and many pieces of pottery later, Luck built his own shop where he worked part-time. In 1990, he left his high school teaching job to fulfill his dream of devoting full-time to turning pottery.

Presently, his artwork is in private collections and shows throughout the United States.

"The purpose of the Living Treasure award is to recognize talent and master craftsmanship in North Carolina," said Dr. Gerald Shunn, UNCW professor of philosophy and religion and director of the UNCW Institute for Human Potential. This is the eighth year the award has been presented.

On Thursday, October 6 (TODAY), Luck will demonstrate his craft in the lobby of the University Center from 2-4 p.m. The demonstration is free and open to the public.

Centura Pledges $50,000 to Capital Campaign

Chairman of the Board and CEO of Centura Bank Robert R. Mauldin announced a corporate gift of $50,000 to establish the Centura Bank Faculty Development Endowment Fund at UNCW. The $50,000 will be paid equally over a five-year term.

This contribution to UNCW's five-year, $15 million Capital Campaign brings the total pledged and contributed to-date to $14.8 million. In response to the announcement made by Mauldin, Chancellor Leutze said, "Support by North Carolina's banking community has been critical to the success of our capital campaign. We are very pleased that Centura Bank has added UNCW and its faculty to those they actively support."

Mauldin presented Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Marvin Moss with the gift at the fall faculty meeting on September 22. "This is the first such gift of this magnitude strictly for faculty development. We are most grateful for the generosity of Centura Bank," said Provost Moss.

Other representatives from Centura Bank who attended were Senior Vice President Vinton Fountain, Regional Executive Scott Custer and Chairman of Centura's Wilmington Board Harold Wells. Fountain said Centura Bank is pleased to make this commitment to the university. "We firmly support UNCW's contribution to the local community as well as the citizens of

EMPLOYEES RECEIVE SPECIAL RECOGNITION FROM GOVERNOR

Jeffrey Brown, carpenter, and Curtis Vardaro, HVAC mechanic, were two of the 11 state workers who were recipients of the 1993-94 Ralph W. Kettner Award. They received $1,000 in recognition of their money-saving ideas submitted and adopted during the past fiscal year.

Vardaro had previously received $2,250 for his suggestion to purchase two mobile units to remove air and moisture from air conditioning systems, an idea that saved the university $40,000. Brown previously received $1,230 for his suggestion to resurface blackboards rather than purchase new ones, a suggestion that saved the university $4,920.

HALME TO READ POETRY

Poet and UNCW Assistant Professor of English Kathleen S. Halme will read from her recently published chapbook, The Everlasting Universe of Things, at 4 p.m., October 9, at St. John's Museum of Art. Faculty and Staff

Dr. Martin Posey, biology, and Dr. David Eggleston, North Carolina State University, have received a grant (administered through NCSU) from the Cooperative Institute for Fisheries Oceanography to study the relative value of oyster, seagrass and sandflat habitat for juvenile blue crabs. The work will be conducted at several locations along the North Carolina coast including sites in Beaufort and the Wilmington area.

Dr. Judith Hayn, specialty studies, has been appointed to the Higher Education Committee of the North Carolina Association of Educators.

Dr. Cem Canel and Dr. Richard Mathieu, production and decision sciences, had their paper "Development of Information Systems in a FMS: Lessons from the User Involvement Literature in MIS" accepted for presentation at the Decision Sciences Institute National Meeting to be held November 20-22 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Dr. Cem Canel, production and decision sciences, had his paper "A Branch and Bound Algorithm for the Multi-Period International Facilities Location Problem," accepted for presentation at the Decision Sciences Institute National Meeting to be held November 20-22 in Honolulu, Hawaii. The paper is co-authored by Dr. B. M. Khumawala of the University of Houston. Also chosen for presentation "Location Strategy: By Chance or By Choice" at the Decision Sciences Institute National Meeting. The paper is co-authored by Dr. F. Karakaya of University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth.

Dr. Cem Canel and Dr. Ravija Badarinathi, production and decision sciences, had their paper "Dynamic Facilities Location: A Heuristic Solution Procedure with a Comparative Analysis" accepted for presentation at the Decision Sciences Institute National Meeting to be held November 20-22 in Honolulu, Hawaii. The paper is co-authored by Dr. B.M. Khumawala of the University of Houston.

Dr. Charles (Brooks) Dodson, English, addressed the Wilmington Lions Club September 15 on the subject of change in the English language.

Dr. Michael S. Smith, earth sciences, presented (with Dr. Richard A. Laws) the paper "Legislative Fiscal Responsibility and the Modern Geoscience Undergraduate: A Case Study for North Carolina" at the 1994 American Geophysical Union Chapman Conference on "Scrutiny of Undergraduate Geoscience Education: Is the Viability of the Geosciences in Jeopardy?"

Dr. Barry Wray, production and decision sciences, and Dr. David Bejou, management and marketing, had their article "Application of Artificial Neural Network in Marketing: Determinants of Customer Loyalty in Buyer-Seller Relationships," accepted for publication in the proceedings of the 1994 Annual Meeting of the Decision Sciences Institute.

Dr. David Bejou, management and marketing, had his article "Tourism Destination Marketing Alliances: An International Comparison" accepted for publication in Annals of Tourism Research: A Social Science Journal. This article was co-authored with professor Adrian Palmer of the De Monfort University.

James Ford, Darlene Treadway, Mike Shaw, Troy Kelly, Jody Pierce, Greg Corbett, Tim Necaise and Robert Warren, grounds section, attended the third annual Southeastern Turfgrass Conference held at Wrightsville Beach. Presentations were made by leaders in the turf industry on such topics as disease and weed management, seed selection, fire ant control, ornamental grasses and OSHA regulations. Following presentations, conference members toured the UNCW campus. At the athletic fields, Greg Corbett, Cain Pellom, Troy Kelly and Anthony Brown proudly displayed the equipment used in the grounds operations.

Dr. Ina Samanta Markham, production and decision sciences, had the article "Self-Management and Self-Leadership Re-examined: Levels of Analysis Perspective" accepted for publication in the journal Leadership Quarterly. Co-authors were Dr. Steven E. Markham and Dr. Christopher P. Neck of Virginia Tech.

Dr. James Reeves, chemistry, has been selected to serve on the 1997 General Chemistry Examinations Committee of the ACS Division of Chemical Education's Examination Institute. Along with 20 other chemical educators from around the country, Reeves will be responsible for drafting and reviewing 140 questions that will comprise the 1997 American Chemical Society General Chemistry Exam. This exam is taken annually by thousands of chemistry students and is the standard by which many chemistry departments judge the effectiveness of their general chemistry instruction.

Paul A. Thayer, earth sciences, was awarded a $30,000 U.S. Department of Energy Faculty Research Fellowship at the Savannah River Laboratory during the 1994 summer. Thayer conducted research on computer modeling of contaminant flow and transport and will present the results at the Geological Society of America Meeting in Seattle, Wash., this month.

Dr. Bruce C. McKinney, communication studies, as president of the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, a non-profit mediation center, has announced that the center has reached an agreement for court-referred mediation with District Attorney Gerald Spivey. The district attorney and the center have agreed to 17 offenses that will be referred to mediation before they are prosecuted. Offenses that will be referred include communicating threats, harassing phone calls, domestic criminal trespass, injury to real property and disorderly conduct. The center is a member of the Mediation Network of North Carolina which has recognized Dr. McKinney's COM 223 class, Mediation and Conflict Management, as meeting the 20-hour mediator training program offered by the network.

Make Education Your Business

In an increasingly demanding and competitive workplace, the individual without a solid education and basic skills is almost guaranteed to fail. Unfortunately, too many young students drop out of school or graduate without the skills to compete in the workplace. Representatives of New Hanover County businesses and the public schools have joined forces to make sure that all students finish school with a quality education. The Student Success Committee, part of the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, recruits business men and women to volunteer in schools and after school programs throughout the county. To get involved, call 341-4713.

UNCW Career Day

How is Career Day like an aerobics class? You've got to build up maximum strength to get the full benefit UNCW Career Day '94 will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., October 19, in Trask Coliseum. More than 70 organizations representing business, industry, the armed services, graduate and professional schools, hospitals, federal government and state agencies will be available.

Freshman and sophomores will get experience working with Career Day employer representatives and gathering information, while juniors, seniors and graduate students move closer to making the right connections.

"Recruiting from students attending Career Day has become more common as many companies find it more efficient than traditional recruiting," said James Braye, director of the Career Services Center. With this stronger emphasis on Career Day, Braye encourages students to gather information, fill out applications and bring copies of resumes if they have one.

Helping students prepare resumes is one function of the Career Services Center. The center, which is located in University Center, Room 106, also offers individual career counseling, full-time and part-time job listings, interview and job career training, as well as programs to help students identify their strengths leading toward a major and a career path. Workshops are offered throughout each semester. This event is open to UNCW students, faculty, staff, alumni and administrators.

For additional information, contact ext. 3174.

Words of Wisdom

Highlights excerpted from Dr. Gerald Shimm's acceptance speech for the O. Max Gardner Award.

... Hugh Anderson, professor of Greek at that smaller institution newly sprung up on the fringes of the Chapel Hill campus, was in the habit of absconding with his students to the coffee shop after class. On one such occasion, the question arose: What makes a university? Being students, we were convinced that having a basketball or football team with a national reputation was an absolute and primary requirement. Hugh scoffed at this and remarked that the National Football League, therefore, must be chock full of universities. He then shared with us a historical view of what creates and maintains a genuine and vibrant university.

First, academic excellence. It is pursued continually. High standards of teaching research and learning in the primary sources are never relaxed. Without academic excellence, one may bear the name of university, but it will not be a university.

Second, distinctiveness: a university has to have one or more cutting edges, or fields of expertise, which make it stand out in bold relief from all others.

Third, dignity: a university must conduct the everyday search for truth with openness, maturity and integrity in order that it may be esteemed for what it does.

Fourth, international tradition... To become a viable university... one needs to attract students, faculty, staff and administration from the four corners of the globe.

Fifth, a love and pursuit of freedom...

Where there is no openness and no freedom to research, there is no learning of any consequence. At a genuine university, no one has figured everything out and everyone is on the search to discover at least some small aspect of the truth, which, no doubt, the next generation will call into question.

Let us, consequently, dedicate ourselves to... helping students, young and old, experience the joy and excitement of free inquiry.

UNCW Celebrates UN Day

United Nations Day on Monday, October 24, marks the 50th year of the United Nations. UNCW will participate in the celebration with a series of films and a guest speaker. Many of the 70 UNCW students from other nations will be involved in activities throughout the day.

Starting at 10 a.m., October 24, a series of films about UN activities will be shown in the University Center Ballroom. They include On Common Ground: A Tour of the UN, About the United Nations: A Series and Palestine 1890s-1990s.

At 7:30 p.m., October 24, Donald Bergstrom, a man who spent over a quarter of a century in important UN work in the East and West, will lecture on "The United Nations: A Half Century of Unheralded Achievement." Bergstrom has been UN Representative in Manila and Sri Lanka. He also was principle advisor of the Inter-Agency Procurement Services Office.

All events are free and open to the public. For more information, call ext 3407.

Interactive Teleconference to be Broadcast at UNCW

The National Association of Student Personnel Administrators will present a live, interactive teleconference from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., October 26, in the University Center Ballroom titled "Look Who's Coming to College: A New Understanding of Today's Students."

Much attention has been paid lately to the characteristics, values, attitudes and beliefs of the post-Baby Boom generation. The teleconference will address issues and concerns of college students today; implications of changing demographics, social and economic trends; and implications and recommendations for programs, policies and services on our campuses.

This program is free. Participants are asked to arrive by 1:20 p.m. for an introduction. For information, call ext. 3117.

Bicycle Pedaling Program

Bicycle Works, located on Fountain Drive, has given four bicycles with baskets to UNCW for use by faculty, staff and student workers for errands on campus.

The bicycles are located in Alderman Hall, Room 108; Cameron Hall, Room 100D; Hoggard Hall, Room 226; and the University Union Information Center.

To use a bike, go to one of the above locations with a valid UNCW I.D., sign out with estimated length of use and return the bike to the original location.

Until locks can be acquired, please leave bikes in a safe environment.

For more information, please call ext. 3169.

Annual Asian Culture Dinner Meeting to Focus on Science

The Annual Asian Culture Dinner Meeting will be at 6 p.m., Thursday, October 27, in the University Center Ballroom.

Dr. Earl R. MacCormac, consulting professor of radiology at Duke University Medical Center, will be the guest speaker. "Science and Culture in India and the Pacific Rim" will be the topic of his lecture.

Dr. MacCormac was formally a Fulbright professor at the University of Madras in India.

The dinner also will include a Philippine Candle Dance and a traditional Chinese dance.

The event is sponsored by the Asian American Faculty Association and the UNCW Human Relations Committee.

Takaezu Named National Living Treasure

Toshiko Takaezu, internationally esteemed contemporary ceramic artist of Quakertown, New Jersey, has been named the 1995 National Living Treasure by UNCW's Institute for Human Potential.

Chancellor James R. Leutze will present the National Living Treasure Award to Takaezu at a banquet at 7 p.m., November 1, in the University Center Ballroom. Takaezu was nominated for the award by New Jersey Governor Christine Whitman.

UNCW's Institute for Human Potential designed this award to celebrate Americans who are exceptional artists in traditional handicrafts using wood, glass, ceramics, metal and textiles. To select this year's recipient, North Carolina Governor Jim Hunt solicited nominations from each state and territorial governor. A committee of 42 individuals from eight states and three countries chose the winner.

As National Living Treasure, Takaezu will receive a bronze medal designed by Stephen D. LeQuire, associate professor of fine arts at UNCW.

An innovator in the ceramic closed form, Takaezu's artwork moved from small utilitarian forms to larger, monumental forms as she explored the creative possibilities of clay. In 1957, she began molding a teapot which evolved into an abstract two-spouted museum piece. Later, working with a three-spouted teapot, she saw the suggestion of a mask with two eyes and a nose and developed that idea. In subsequent artwork, the spouts became smaller and smaller until there was just one air hole at the top, thus, a closed form.

An oversized kiln built into her home studio allowed Takaezu to expand the dimensions of her artwork. Trunks of the "Tree-Man Forest" stand as high as 70 inches. These abstract "trees" with no branches resulted from her visits to the Devastation Forest in her native Hawaii.

Takaezu began her ceramic career with her job at Hawaii Potter's Guild in Honolulu. She studied at the Honolulu Academy of Arts and the University of Hawaii. She completed her education at Michigan's Cranbrook Academy of Art and later taught there.

Takaezu was on the faculty of Princeton University from 1966 to 1992, when she retired to work in her home in Quakertown.

From California to Czechoslovakia, Takaezu's work has been featured in more than 35 one-person and more than 30 group exhibits. Public collections which include her work are the Smithsonian Institution, Metropolitan Museum of Art and Bangkok Museum.

Takaezu's work is currently on display in the Night Gallery of Spirit Square in Charlotte, N.C., and in the Perimeter Gallery in Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Gerald Shinn, professor of philosophy and director of the Institute for Human Potential, founded the award. "It is time that we sought excellence in our country, and this is one small attempt to prize it," Shinn said.

To Be Indian in N.C.

"To Be Indian in Modern North Carolina" will be the topic of a lecture by Richard Welch, editor of the Cherokee One-Feather, at 8 p.m., November 1, in Cameron Hall Auditorium.

Dr. David Miller, HPER, and Dr. Earl Sheridan (deceased), had the fifth edition of Fitness: A Lifetime Commitment published by Allyn & Bacon. The book is used in college/university fitness and foundation of physical activity courses.

Dr. Ned H. Martin, chemistry, attended the Southeastern Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society October 16-19 in Birmingham, Ala. He presented a paper co-authored by former chemistry honors student Charles Marschke and senior chemistry major Chris Cottle on "Molecular Orbital Calculations on the Charge-Transfer Interactions Between Amines and Singlet Oxygen." He also presented a poster on "Integration of Molecular Modeling into the Chemistry Curriculum at UNCW."

Philip Gerard, English, delivered the third annual Earle E. Thorpe Memorial Lecture at the Stagville Center for African-American studies in Durham on October 2. His lecture, titled "True Fiction & False History: Who Tells Us the Stories We Live By?" was followed by a West African libation ceremony at Horton Grove slave quarters, honoring the memory of the late Dr. Thorpe. Gerard's novel, Cape Fear Rising, now in its second printing, has been honored by the North Carolina Society of Historians with its Historical Fiction Book Award to be presented November 5 in Asheville. Cape Fear Rising made the best seller list of the Black Consciousness Symposium, a national book club for African Americans. Gerard also took part in a panel discussion on "Novels of Community" at the Southern Festival of Books in Nashville, Tenn., in which he discussed his aims in writing the novel and the responsibility of the writer to the community in which he lives. Gerard's third novel, Desert Kill, was published by William Morrow & Co., New York, in July and is now in its second printing. A British edition will be published by Pilatus Press. The novel was optioned by Morning Star Productions for film.

Dr. Gabriel Lugo and Dr. Russell Herman, mathematical sciences, were invited to N.C. State University to participate in the Teaching, Technology, and Mathematics Seminar. Their joint presentation titled "Multimedia Instruction in Mathematics: MCP Project" focused on the multimedia calculus classes that have been taught at UNCW for the past two years. Drs. Lugo and Herman have also been invited to give a two-hour presentation "Fostering Multimedia Instruction in Mathematics: Part I Hypermedia Calculus, Part II Multimedia - Substance or Glitz?" at the Seventh Annual International Conference on Technology in Collegiate Mathematics November 17-20. This conference is expected to attract more than 2,000 mathematics educators.

Dr. Russell Herman, mathematical sciences, attended the 10th Workshop on Nonlinear Evolution Equations and Dynamical Systems, September 11-18, at the Los Alamos National Laboratory, Los Alamos, New Mexico. He also presented the talk "Numerically Induced Soliton Perturbations" at the conference. This series of workshops began in 1980 as a result of the Pugwash Conferences as an effort to open communications between the East and the West. This year was the first year that it was held in this country, and it was particularly significant that it was held at Los Alamos.

Dr. Donna Lee King, sociology, was among 12 sociologists invited to participate in a workshop on "Methodological Issues of Fieldwork in Sociological Research with Children." Her presentation, "Using Children's Drawings in Sociological Research," was based on her research on children's concerns about environmental crisis. The workshop was jointly sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the American Sociological Association.

Dr. Stephen Pullum, communication studies, presented a paper titled "So You've Been Asked to Teach Communication Theory: What Now?" at the annual Carolinas Speech Communication Association Convention held in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Dr. Larry Usilton, history, presented a paper titled "Edward II's Men-at-Arms and Their Corrodies" before the Ninth International Conference on Medievalism at Montana State University in September.

Dr. Robert Y. George, biological sciences, presented "Pressure-Induced Metabolic Adaptive Strategies in Deep Sea Megafauna" at the Seventh International Deep Sea Biology Symposium in Crete, Greece. Dr. George was elected to chair the organizing committee of the 1997 International Symposium on "History of Deep Sea Oceanography" under the sponsorship of the Society of History of Oceanography.

Cecil W. (Woody) Sutton, Division of Public Service and Extended Education, has been promoted to program coordinator for distance education and will assist Hunter Thompson in facilitating UNCW's migration to the N.C. Information Highway. Sutton, a 1992 graduate of UNCW, was program assistant for youth programs and conferences for two years.

Supplemental Health Plans (AFLAC)

October is open enrollment for supplemental health coverage (cancer and intensive care). Detailed information was distributed to all employees last week. For more information, call ext. 3713.

Preregistration Reminder

Preregistration for spring 1995 begins the end of October and runs through November 15. Students planning to preregister must have a "0" balance on their student account and have no other outstanding debts with the university. Payments to clear student accounts can be made at the Cashier's Office in Hinton James Hall. Contact the appropriate office where the debt incurred to clear other outstanding debts.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The student timesheet deadline for October is 10 a.m., Friday, October 28. Hours worked on October 31 should be reported on the November timesheet. Timesheets must be in the Payroll Office (Alderman Hall, Room 217) by 10 a.m. A large volume of timesheets are being received with missing and/or incorrect account numbers, social security numbers and signatures. Incorrect/incomplete timesheets will be returned to the department unprocessed causing a delay in payment. No exceptions will be made for late timesheets.

Interested persons should call the Office of Research Administration at ext. 3810.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Christopher Spell/Mathematical Sciences; Gay Davis/Institutional Research; Tiffany Ward/Printing Services.

Shared Leave

Your shared leave donations have helped many of your fellow employees through their illness and recovery by lifting the burden of financial hardship. But one of our new employees, Vanessa Hopfer, who is on the night housekeeping staff, has been home recovering from surgery and many complications since September. She will not be receiving a paycheck this month because she has not been with UNCW long enough to build up any sick leave, and we did not receive the 240 hours of shared leave to avoid leave without pay. Please share some leave with another UNCW employee who desperately needs our help! Others in the program include Michelle Dickens, Systems & Procedures; and Mary Harvey. Please call ext. 3161 for more information.

Postal News

- Postal Services has received a shipment of commemorative stamps including "Wonders of the Sea," "Legends of the West" and the 1994 Christmas stamps. These and other stamp purchases may be made at the post office window or through the stamps-by-mail order program.

- Departments wishing to conduct student surveys should call Postal Services at ext. 3734.

- To expedite interdepartmental mail delivery, please include addressee's name and department. Building names and room numbers should not be used. Mailings sent to the student mailboxes should be in box number order.

- Call ext. 3734 for paper-shredding services.

Peoples Savings Bank Establishes $25,000 Scholarship

Peoples Savings Bank has established a $25,000 permanent endowment fund at UNCW earmarked for undergraduate academic scholarships in the Cameron School of Business.

Donald F. Pelling, president of Peoples Savings Bank, said, "We are delighted to be able to establish a scholarship for business majors. We feel this is an excellent way of investing in the youth of the community we serve."

Recipients of the Peoples Scholarship will be chosen by the dean of the Cameron School of Business Administration. Preference will be given to students majoring in economics or finance from New Hanover or Pender Counties.

Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Dr. Marvin K. Moss said, "UNCW is very pleased to receive this gift on behalf of its undergraduate business majors. Such endowments are crucial to the university's attracting and retaining excellent students, and we are grateful for People's investment in this effort."

Peoples is one of the oldest financial institutions in the United States. Established in 1906, Peoples is headquartered in Wilmington with three locations in the Wilmington area and one in Hampstead.

UNCW Alumni Association Seeks Nominees for Awards

Do you know someone who has made an outstanding contribution to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington or the surrounding community? Then why not take a few minutes to recognize that person by nominating him or her for one of two awards sponsored by the UNCW Alumni Association.

The Alumni Association is currently seeking nominations for its 1995 Alumnus of the Year and Distinguished Citizen of the Year awards.

The Alumnus of the Year Award is open to all UNCW alumni. The Distinguished Citizen Award is open to anyone and may be for service to the university or to the community.

Nominations can be made by writing a letter of recommendation to the UNCW Alumni Association board of directors. Specify the award category and describe why you think the nominee merits the award. Include the nominee's name, address, telephone number and work place.

Letters should be mailed to Pat Corcoran, alumni relations director, Wise Alumni House, 1713 Market Street, Wilmington, N.C. 28403. Additional information can be obtained by calling the alumni office at 251-2682.

Deadline for nominations is November 10.

The winners will be recognized at an awards banquet sponsored by the UNCW Alumni Association on February 17 in the University Center Ballroom.

PASSPORT SERIES

The passport series at Kenan Auditorium has been included on the list of events that are half price for UNCW faculty and staff. Reserved seats are regularly $7; however, with a UNCW I.D., faculty and staff can reserve two seats for the same price. Now, UNCW students can attend the "armchair" travel films free of charge with a valid UNCW I.D. Kenan Box Office can take orders by phone with Visa or MasterCard at ext. 3500. Window sales are available Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and one hour before each performance.

PANSIES TO BE PLANTED

The Grounds Section is in the process of planting the campus annual beds with pansies. Approximately 5,000 pansies will be planted on campus to provide color through late April. Members of the Grounds Section are responsible for the installation and maintenance of their designated beds.

The bed location and grounds member responsible for it are as follows: Randall and Riegel wings, directory-Jody Pierce; Wagoner Hall and Housing Office-Anthony Brown; front circle and walk-Greg Corbett, Morton Hall circle and Social and Behavioral Sciences Building circle-Melvin Jackson; Trask Coliseum and Nixon Annex-Darlene Treadway; Randall Library-Robert Cole; Hinton James, Alderman and Westside Hall, University Union-Troy Kelly; University Union courtyard-Cain Pellom, Burney Bookstore planters-Mike Shaw

THANKSGIVING INVITE

Not going home for Thanksgiving? You are invited to eat gobbles with the Beasley bunch at 12 noon, Thursday, November 24. For more information, call Joanie at ext. 3536 or 791-9653.

AN ALUMNI THANKS

The UNCW Alumni Association would like to extend their sincere thanks to everyone who contributed and participated in the second UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Tournament. The tournament was a smashing success. We hope the golf tournament, renamed "The Cape Fear Alumni Classic," continues to grow.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION SEEKS BOARD MEMBERS

The UNCW Alumni Association is looking for people interested in serving on its board of directors. Five full-time positions (three-year terms) and seven alternate positions (one-year terms) will be filled in February.

The positions are open to anyone who has ever attended UNCW or Wilmington College. Potential board members should be active in UNCW alumni events, be contributing members of the alumni association and be willing to attend quarterly board meetings.

Resumes should be forwarded by December 31 to Richard Pratt, nominations committee chairman, or Pat Corcoran, alumni relations director, Wise Alumni House, 1713 Market Street, Wilmington, N.C. 28403. For more information, call 251-2682.

ALUMNI TALKS ABOUT LIFE IN JOURNALISM

Gene Warren '50 will be the featured speaker at the fall UNCW Alumni Lecture Series program. The title of his talk will be "The Joy of a Life in Journalism." The program will begin at 7 p.m., November 8, in Cameron Hall Auditorium.

Warren worked as sports editor and columnist for Greensboro Daily News for nearly 14 years before going on to Pembroke State University where he spent the next 25 years as public information director. He retired in March 1994.

WRITING PROPOSALS

Dr. Stephen Mosier, director of Research Services, UNCG, will offer a proposal writing workshop titled "The Art of Writing a Proposal" from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., November 8. The seminar is designed for those individuals who are just beginning to write proposals.

Interested persons should contact the Office of Research Administration at ext. 3810 to register for the workshop or to obtain additional information. Due to the interactive nature of the workshop, enrollment is limited.

ATTENTION HUNTERS AND STAMP COLLECTORS

Migratory bird hunting and conservation stamps are now available at UNCW Postal Services. These stamps are required by federal law to hunt migratory birds, such as ducks and geese. Stamps may be purchased at the Postal Services window located in the University Center for $15.

UNCW BLOOD DRIVE

The American Red Cross will be on campus from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., November 8, in the University Center.

A WELLNESS THANKS

Thanks from the Wellness Promotion Center to all faculty, staff and students who assisted in the administration of the UNCW substance usage survey.

FAREWELL TO FILION

Faculty and staff are invited to drop by the University Union living room from 3-5 p.m., November 18, to say farewell to Claire Filion. She is retiring and will be moving to Lakeland, Fla. Refreshments will be served.

CRIME PREVENTION AWARDS

The University Police Department has been recognized for the seventh consecutive year by the N.C. Department of Crime Control and Public Safety for its comprehensive crime prevention programs.

This year's award was a result of UNCW's Police and Community Networking (PAC'N) program. PAC'N is a community policing program targeted to meet the police and security needs of our diversified community by encouraging community participation in addressing police and security concerns. Officers, with the assistance of the Office of Housing and Residence Life, launched the PAC'N pilot program in August 1993. Due to the program's success, it has been expanded into academic buildings.

The pilot program PAC'N team, UNCW police officers Major Robert L. Riley, Shawn Thomas*, Dennis Hufham, David Donaldson, Tracy Yates and Chris Monaghan were selected to receive the 1993 Annual Award for Outstanding Crime Prevention Achievements, sponsored by the NC. Crime Prevention Division. (Officer Thomas is now with the Boston College Police Department.)

I DONE GOOD AWARD

UNCW's first recipient of the Domino's Pizza "I Done Good Award" is Mike Lloyd in Printing Services. Lloyd, a printing unit supervisor, was nominated for the award based on service above and beyond the call of everyday responsibilities. As a winner of the "I Done Good Award" Lloyd was presented with a personalized mug by Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs Bob Walton. In addition, he will receive a free pizza lunch for his entire department, a pizza feast for his family, attend a pizza feast honoring all recipients at the end of the year and have his name placed on a plaque in Domino's.

Supervisors may send letters of nomination for the "I Done Good Award" to Alderman Hall, Room 108 by the 25th day of each month. Call ext. 3626 with questions.

BASKETBALL SEASON STARTS AT UNCW

UNCW's men's and women's basketball teams will compete for the first time this season against the Charlotte AAU Royals. The women's team plays at 2 p.m. and the men's at 4 p.m. Both contests will be in Trask Coliseum.

ARTS IN ACTION

Hammer Dulcimer will perform today in the Hawk's Nest from 12-1 p.m.

The Arts in Action program is still scheduling performances for next semester even though the "Call for Programs" due date has passed. If you want to be part of this unique program, please call ext. 3827 or e-mail to LawheadJ.

National Collegiate Women's Golf Invitational

Champion golf teams from 22 U.S. universities will compete at Landfall's Pete Dye Course, Friday through Sunday, November 11-13, in the Northern Telecom National Collegiate Women's Golf Invitational Tournament hosted by UNCW.

The UNCW event is free and open to the public. Parking will be in the lot in front of the Atrium and behind McDonald's located at the intersection of Eastwood and Military Cutoff Roads, where a free shuttle bus will transport spectators to the Dye course inside Landfall. First round tee-off is 8 a.m. Friday.

The 1995 NCAA Women's Golf Championships will be held at Landfall in Wilmington, May 24-27, 1995, and will be hosted by UNCW.

When choosing a tournament host school, the NCAA looks for high academic eligibility standards for athletes as well as high graduation rates for athletes. UNCW graduates 76 percent of its athletes, the highest graduation rate in North Carolina's state institutions. In 1993, 50 percent of UNCW athletes earned a 3.0 or better GPA.

Human Relations Committee Seeks Volunteers

The chancellor's Human Relations Advisory Committee (HRAC) is charged with responsibility to assess the level of campus awareness, understanding and tolerance for differences among people and to determine how the university can promote a better understanding of cultural and ethnic differences in university programs and activities.

The committee advises the chancellor on specific programming and policy needs to increase positive human relations efforts on campus and functions as a working body to conduct diversity programming.

During 1993-94, the committee sponsored a number of activities open to the university and Wilmington communities intended to promote positive human relations on campus.

"By gaining a better understanding of the 'differences that unite us' as human beings, we are better able to recognize the value of others' experiences and the perspective they bring to our interactions. This enriches our community as a whole," commented Chris Kaberline, chair of the Human Relations Advisory Committee.

The HRAC sponsored a forum on the Wilmington 10 during Black History Month (February), a panel discussion titled "Gender and Power on Campus" during Women's History Month (March) and a series of events including film, guest speakers and panel discussions addressing gay and lesbian issues during April. Additionally, the committee purchased diversity programming materials for the African-American Cultural Center and Randall Library.

During 1994-95, the committee has committed to adopting the "Diversity Retreat" as an on-going activity — a weekend retreat for students to explore the impact of diversity on their personal lives and learn to value different perspectives students of other cultures or races bring to our campus.

Other major initiatives this year include programming focusing on minority concerns, women's issues and issues pertaining to sexual orientation. Finally, the committee has received authorization from the chancellor to develop a "statement of community values" to reflect the values we share as a university community to guide individual behavior and programming initiatives campus wide.

The committee seeks additional volunteers to staff subcommittees in each of these program areas: minority issues, women's issues, issues pertaining to sexual orientation and community values.

"If we are committed to attracting top qualified faculty, staff and students, we need to create a diverse and welcoming community," said Kaberline.

If you are interested in doing more personally to promote a university community that celebrates and values diversity, please contact Kaberline at ext. 3241 or e-mail KABERLINEC.

USA TODAY NOMINEES

USA Today is enlisting your support in selecting the nation's best and brightest college students. The criteria are designed to find students who excel not only in scholarship, but in leadership roles on and off campus. A key element given most weight by the judges will be a student's outstanding original academic or intellectual product. The judges will be influenced by the student's ability to describe that outstanding endeavor in his/her own words. They will rely solely on the student's ability to describe the effort in writing, supplemented by recommendations from the nominating professor and up to three other persons of the nominee's choice. Please call ext. 4082 for an application or for more information. The deadline for application is November 30.

MEGIVERN RECEIVES WEISS AWARD

Dr. James J. Megivern, philosophy and religion, is this year's recipient of the Charles and Shirley Weiss Award, given by the North Carolina American Association of University Professors Foundation "for outstanding service to higher education in North Carolina." Dr. Megivern, the fourth recipient of the award since its foundation, has been active in the state American Association of University Professors conference for the last 18 years, serving as president in 1979 and as a member of the Executive Committee and chair of several other committees. He is currently an at-large member of the Executive Committee.

Lela D. Coleman, Physical Plant, and Anne D. Holloway, University Police, would like to express their appreciation for the many thoughts, prayers, cards and flowers sent to their family during the recent death of their father John T. Dorsey.

Academia's Lonely Crowd

The following is a summary of an article found in: Massey, William, Andrea K. Wilger, and Carol Colbeck. "Departmental Cultures and Teaching Quality," Change. July/August 1994. 11-20.

The treasured collegial atmosphere on U.S. campuses today is sadly frayed at the edges, a victim of resource shortages, heightened competition and the heavy politicization of many of the topics of academic discourse.

That's the message from Stanford education professor William Massey, who calls the phenomenon "hollowed collegiality." Massey and colleagues Andrea K. Wilger and Carol Colbeck have done a survey of some 300 faculty members at 20 colleges and universities. The result, they write in the July/August issue of Change magazine, is "a strong element of atomization and isolation among faculty. [A] central element of academic life" is that "faculty work alone."

The authors identify five elements in this sad state of affairs: increasing specialization, which makes it

"virtually impossible [for faculty] to discuss their work with one another"; a "veneer of civility" (avoidance of conflict "at all costs"); generational splits aggravated by jealousy over such things as salary differentials, personal politics (some faculty "perceive each other as good or wicked depending upon their ideological stance"), and competition for scarce resources.

The groves of academe have not all turned into jungles. The researchers did find some happily functioning departments: those supporting "effective teaching." It seems that where faculty really care about teaching, other positive elements are also present, such as "frequent interaction among faculty, tolerance of differences, generational equity, workload equity . . . consensus decision-making . . . [and] a high level of participation in . . . departmental work."

Bedford Fair Establishes a $30,000 Scholarship

Bedford Fair, a national women's fashion catalog company, has given a $30,000 donation to create a permanent endowment fund for UNCW.

Alan M. Glazer, president and CEO of Bedford Fair, said, "The company feels an obligation to donate its time, energy and on occasion its resources to worthy programs. We further feel the responsibility to help enrich the community where we are located and where most of our associates live. It is with this commitment in mind that we participate in the UNCW-Wilmington Endowed Scholarship Program."

Dr. Marvin K. Moss, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs, said, "UNCW is very grateful for Bedford Fair's generosity in establishing this scholarship endowment fund. Gifts such as this one help the university to attract talented students who might otherwise be unable to further their education."

On-Site Bachelor's Degree Planned for Camp Lejeune Residents

Jacksonville and Camp Lejeune area residents will be able to get a bachelor's degree in elementary education from UNCW without having to leave Jacksonville. Once the arrangement receives final approval from the UNC Board of Governors and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the program is expected to be available to students beginning fall semester 1995. The program represents the first full degree program ever offered through extension by UNCW.

The signing of the agreement culminates discussions and negotiations that have been going on for several years. Within the new program, students will enroll at Coastal Carolina Community College which will provide classroom space and library resources. UNCW will maintain a field coordinator at Coastal. When students complete 62 hours of course credit or approximately two years of work, with a minimum of a 3.0 GPA, they will enroll at UNCW. The UNCW School of Education will offer courses at Camp Lejeune in classrooms specially opened for the military and other students. Camp Lejeune also will provide library support.

College courses will be taught by UNCW faculty who will travel to Jacksonville and teach directly, by local contract from Coastal, Onslow County Schools and Camp Lejeune Dependents Schools whose credentials match UNCW's requirements, and through live interactive classes from UNCW in Wilmington via fiber optics and other technology applications.

"Active duty military, dependents and retirees represent a population base of about 140,000 people in the Jacksonville area," said Dr. Robert Tyndall, dean of the Donald R. Watson School of Education. "This is a large community that UNCW needs to be serving, and it is a community that in turn is a resource to the university."

Chancellor James R. Leutze sees the program as an opportunity to apply expanded and enhanced technology. "With its fiber optic network and current interactive video classrooms, UNCW is one of the more technologically advanced campuses in the country," he said.

"Integrating UNCW's technology with Camp Lejeune's command and control center could bring classes to ships at sea, to other bases, and to people assigned to foreign countries. This agreement can make our capabilities more global and worldwide," Leutze said.

In addition to the initial baccalaureate degree program in education, discussions are underway to offer other degree programs such as business or environmental science.

"This agreement has the potential for being the beginning of a long and ongoing relationship," Tyndall said.

THE SHADOW BOX

"The Shadow Box" by Michael Cristofer, winner of the Pulitzer Prize and a Tony Award for drama in 1977, is the second show of the UNCW University Theatre season. The production offers a private look into the lives of three families coping, in very different ways, with serious illness. The tensions and triumphs of these individuals emerge in somber and sometimes hauntingly comedic ways as each person attempts to negotiate his or her place in the process of letting go. The production is directed by Frank Trimble and will be presented in the S.R.O. Theatre (Kenan Hall) November 16 through November 20. Curtain is at 8 p.m. with an additional matinee on Sunday. General admission, $8; UNCW students, free; Other students, $2; Senior Citizens, $4. For ticket information, call 791-9695.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN MEMBERSHIP MEETING

The University Women of UNCW are having their membership meeting at 7:30 p.m., December 1, at the Wise Alumni House. There will be a social at the beginning of the program; welcome by Kathy Leutze, fund-raising chair; introduction of new officers by Annie Aldrich, president, award of scholarships to our two current recipients by Sandra Harkin, a slide presentation by Pat Corcoran titled "Wise House - Past, Present and Future"; and the awarding of a door prize. All university women - new faculty, staff and interested parties are encouraged to attend.

Donald R. Watson School of Education Honors 14 Outstanding North Carolinians

Chancellor James R. Leutze and Dean Robert E. Tyndall recognized 14 outstanding North Carolinians in ceremonies November 16. Awards were given in the fields of education, business, medicine, law, the arts and public policy from across the state.

The Razor Walker Awards, established by the School of Education in 1993, under the leadership of Tyndall, each year recognizes individuals who have distinguished themselves in service to the youth of our state. "Often against great odds, and in the face of personal and professional risk, these individuals have continued to pursue their goal for better life for the children of North Carolina. Each recipient has demonstrated vision, tenacity, sacrifice and courage," said Tyndall.

The 1994 Razor Walker recipients are:
Public Policy: Jane Smith Patterson, advisor to the governor for policy, budget and technology, Raleigh.

Educational Administration: Stephen A. Scroggs, principal of Teachers Memorial School in Kinston; Dr. John Murphy, superintendent of schools, Charlotte/Mecklenburg; Dr. Dudley Flood, educator and executive director of N.C. Association of School Administration in Raleigh; Dr. Leonard Beckum, vice president of Duke University, Durham.

Teaching: Mary Black, Teacher of the Year for the Southeastern Region, Fayetteville.

Medicine: Dr. Melvin D. Levine, professor of pediatrics and director of the Clinical Center for the Study of Development and Learning, UNC-Chapel Hill School of Medicine; Dr. Harvey Estes, director of Reynolds Community Practitioner Program, N.C. Medical Society Foundation, Raleigh.

Law: Edwin M. Speas, senior deputy attorney general, N.C. Department of Justice, Raleigh; Charles Henry, attorney at law and president of Boys and Girls Club of Onslow County.

Art-Literature: Cheryl L. Willoughby, co-director, Sertoma 4-H Education Center, Westfield; Bruce Brooks, Newberry Honor Award author of books for children, educated in Chapel Hill, residence in Silver Springs, MD.

Business: Elizabeth Ross, fundraiser for Ronald McDonald House in Chapel Hill; J. Billie Ray, Jr., president of N.C. Southern Bell, Charlotte.

Trim the Tree Party

Chancellor James R. Leutze invites all faculty and staff to UNCW's annual "Trim the Tree" party from 2 to 4 p.m., Thursday, December 8, in the lobby of Alderman Hall. Ornaments from previous years will be used for decorating the tree.

Please drop by to hang an ornament on the tree, and enjoy refreshments and entertainment by the Kathy Myers String Quartet.

World AIDS Day to be Recognized Internationally

World AIDS Day "AIDS and Families" will be recognized from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., December 1, in the lobby of the University Center.

This is the only international day of coordinated action against the spread of HIV/AIDS. World AIDS Day serves to strengthen the global efforts to face the challenge of the AIDS pandemic, which continues to spread in all regions of the world.

Everyone is invited and encouraged to participate in continuous viewing of current HIV/AIDS videotapes, dialogue directed toward the fight against AIDS and question/answer sessions. Printed material will also be available.

For more information, call ext. 3832.

Announcements

To relieve pre-exam stress, students can hit the car with a sledgehammer for a fee. A raffle will be held with prizes donated by Krazy's Pizza, Wal-Mart, Outback Steakhouse, UNCW Bookstore, Seaside Designs and SGA President Ziggy Nix. All of the money raised will go to buying more recycling bins on campus. Proceeds will be matched up to $500 by the Chancellor's Office.

QUALITY ASSURANCE

The UNCW Financial Aid Office has successfully completed its first year participating in the Institutional Quality Assurance Program. This program was designed to fully test the validity of the various data elements on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), to test the financial aid delivery process and to improve service to students. To do this, a small sample of our students were selected to verify the information on their FAFSA. When analyzed, this data will improve financial aid service to UNCW students as well as well as provide key information to the U.S. Department of Education to help students across the nation.

SPRING ORIENTATION

The 1995 spring orientation program will be held January 5 for freshman and transfers. Departments having materials for distribution should send them to Alderman Hall, Room 101, the week of December 12-16 only. Materials will not be accepted before or after this week. Approximately 50 new freshman, 250 transfers and extensions, and 100 unclassified students are expected.

ARTS IN ACTION

Arts in Action presents Choral Roberts Barbershop today in the Hawk's Nest from 12 p.m. to 1 p.m.

The UNCW Volunteers! office is sponsoring an adopt-a-family program for Christmas. If you or your department is interested in this program which is through the Salvation Army, please call ext. 3925.

FAMILY DAY

The Association for Campus Entertainment (ACE) presents its second Family Day December 3 in the Center Stage Cafe of the University Center. The program will consist of two movies: "We're Back" at 2 p.m. and "Blank Check" immediately following the first showing. Popcorn and refreshments will be served as well.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Jonathan B. Geller, biological sciences, has been selected by the National Science Foundation to receive a 1994 Young Investigator Award. The prestigious award provides an annual base grant of $25,000 for five years for each of the approximately 150 most promising young faculty nationwide in their first academic appointments.

Dick Scott, Business Affairs, made two presentations at the National Association of College Auxiliary Services (NACAS) meeting in St. Louis, Mo. The sessions were titled "The Best New Ideas in Auxiliary Services" and "Could Your Institution Survive Without Auxiliary Services?" Scott is a past president of NACAS.

Dr. Sridhar Narayan, mathematical sciences, attended the Third Annual Conference on Fuzzy Theory and Technology held in Pinehurst, N.C.

Elizabeth Ervin and Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, recently attended the Spilman Symposium on Issues in Teaching Writing, sponsored by Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va. Both were discussion leaders for a session titled "Understanding the Consequences of Our Pedagogy."

Tom MacLennan, director of the Learning Center, presented "Mind Styles and Writing Centers: The Flexing Ethos" at the Southeastern Writing Center Association's annual meeting. He also chaired a session titled "Directors Talk about Problems." His essay, "Buberian Currents in the Collaborative Center," appears in Intersections: Theory-Practice in the Writing Center, published by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Dr. Andrew F. Clark, history, presented a paper "Freedom Villages and the End of Slavery in the Upper Senegal Valley, 1887-1910: A Reassessment" to the annual meeting of the African Studies Association in Toronto, Canada, on November 4.

Paul Thrush, maintenance supervisor for Housing and Residence Life, was awarded the North Carolina Housing Officers Service Award for 1994. The award was given in October at the Annual NCHO Conference.

Dr. Eric R. Kaufmann, mathematical sciences, has had two papers accepted for publication. "Multipoint Boundary Value Problems with Parameter for a System of Difference Equations," a joint paper with Dr. Johnny Henderson (Auburn University), will appear in the Journal of Difference Equations with Applications. "Comparison of Eigenvalues for Eigenvalue Problems of a Right Disfocal Operator" will appear in the PanAmerican Mathematical Journal.

Dr. Judy A. Sigauw, management and marketing, had her article "Assessment and Utilization of Marketing Research: A Replication and Extension to an Export Context" co-authored with Adamantios Diamantopoulos and Stephen Horncastle, accepted for publication in the proceedings of the 1995 Winter American Marketing Association Educators' Conference. She also had her article "An Examination of Gender Differences in Selling Behaviors and Job Attitudes," co-authored with Earl Honeycutt accepted for publication in Industrial Marketing Management.

Wilmington West Rotary Establishes a $25,000 Scholarship

The Wilmington West Rotary Club established a $25,000 scholarship fund for UNCW. West Rotary President Bill Maus presented Barbie Cowan, UNCW Loyalty Fund coordinator, with a check for $5,000 for the first installment of the endowed fund on November 10.

"Our Rotary Club wants to focus on the area's youth. We all have a keen interest in promoting higher education, especially for those students who lack the financial means for a college education," Maus stated.

The club also presented UNCW Ambassadors Organization President Cindy Van Riper a $2,500 check for the group's participation in the Rotary Club's annual haunted house. Fifteen to 20 ambassadors worked the haunted house each of the 10 nights as actors and behind-the-scenes workers. The UNCW Ambassadors are a service organization composed of select volunteers who serve the university in special ways under the direction of the UNCW Division of University Advancement.

The Wilmington West Rotary Club is an outgrowth of the world's first service club, founded in Chicago on February 23, 1905. Today, Rotary flourishes with 27,000 clubs and 1.2 million men and women as club members, providing community service in every nation worldwide.

The Rotary Club members strive to develop acquaintance as an opportunity for service, promote high ethical standards in business and professions, apply the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his or her personal, business and community life, and advance international understanding, goodwill and peace.

Adult Scholars Leadership Program Seeks Participants

The Adult Scholars Leadership Program is seeking individuals interested in learning more about their community with an eye to becoming active in various activities. Offered through the Division for Public Service and Extended Education, the program is geared to older adults, retired or semi-retired, who are interested in volunteer or entrepreneurial activities that blend with past experiences and new interests.

Scheduled from 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Thursdays, February 2-March 21, the program is an intensive, seven-week training program featuring speakers and representatives who will discuss history and government, regional growth and development, criminal justice issues, education, health, the Department of Aging, human relations, cultural activities and the media.

Cost for the entire program is $200 and includes all work sessions, graduation reception, program, resource materials, speaker honoraria, continental breakfasts, refreshments and lunches as well as graduation reception refreshments. Application deadline is December 12. For more information, call ext. 3193.

MarineQuest Heads to Australia

Unparalleled beauty and a chance to discover the wonders of a continent that boasts one of the world's largest barrier reefs await those who travel with UNCW's MarineQuest instructors to the land down under, Australia.

The trip, scheduled for June 18-July 1, 1995, is part of MarineQuest's programs to study and discover unique marine and environmental ecologies. MarineQuest is sponsored by the Division for Public Service and Extended Education.

Highlights of the Australia tour include a trip to The Rocks, a center of history and entertainment that 200 years ago was both the first European settlement in Australia and a penal colony. Other stops include the Sydney Harbor Bridge, History Museum and Aquarium, hiking in the Blue Mountains, visiting a wildlife refuge and snorkeling Australia's Great Barrier Reef.

Cost is $3,250 and includes round-trip airfare from Raleigh, N.C., motel/hotel lodging, breakfasts, all admissions fees and activities, boats, ground transportation, instruction, tours, MarineQuest sweatshirt and t-shirt, pre-trip study materials and certificate. A $1,000 deposit is due by January 31, 1995, to secure registration with $1,250 due by February 28 and March 31; or $2,250 by March 31. For a free brochure, call ext. 3193.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Judy A. Siguaw, management and marketing, had her article "The Effects of Distribution Fees on Channel Relationships Within the U.S.," co-authored with K. Douglas Hoffman, accepted for publication in the International Review of Retail, Distribution and Consumer Research. Her article "Aesthetic Consumption Differences in Asian-American and Anglo Subcultures: Implication for Segmentation and Positioning Strategies," co-authored with Craig Galbraith and Hye-Hwa Lim, has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Nonprofit and Public Sector Marketing.

Peter D'Annibale, director of Financial Aid, was a featured speaker at the 26th Annual New York State Financial Aid Administrator's Association Conference held in Buffalo, N.Y. D'Annibale addressed the conference attendees on "Federal Loan Entrance and Exit Counseling Requirements." During his tenure at the State University of New York at Brockport, he developed entrance and exit loan counseling Procedures which were the forerunner of today's counseling requirements. It was this type of dedication to student service which helped propel Sun-Brockport to being the U.S. Department of Education's model quality assurance school for 1993. D'Annibale hopes to incorporate this dedication to student services into the UNCW Financial Aid Office.

Dr. Richard Mullendore, student affairs, presented a workshop titled "Training Assessment Consultants" at the annual meeting of the National Orientation Directors Association (NODA) in Portland, Ore. At the conference, Mullendore received the 1994 NODA President's Award for leadership and service to the association.

Dr. Richard Mullendore and Li-Shing Wang, student affairs, presented a program "Tying It All Together: Planning, Assessment and TQM in Student Affairs" at the Southern Association for College Student Affairs annual conference in Nashville, Tenn.

Randall Hanson, business law, Dr. Joanne Rockness, accounting, and Lee Woodard, UNCW MBA student, have had their article "Litigation Support Liability: The Newest Attack on the Accounting Profession" accepted for publication in The CPA Journal. The article will be published in early 1995.

Randall Hanson, business law, presented a paper titled "The Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress in North Carolina" at a meeting of the Southeast Academy of Legal Studies in Business. His paper received one of two Distinguished Paper awards.

Dr. Joanne Rockness, CSBA, presented the keynote luncheon address at the 10th Annual Conference on Business Ethics held in Boston, Mass., October 17-18. The title of her talk was "Can the Accounting Profession Survive the Liability Crisis?"

Dr. Joann McFerran Mount, foreign languages and literature, presented "Elegia: Neruda's Meditations on Moscow" at the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference in Knoxville, Tenn.

Dr. Terry Mount, foreign languages and literature, presented "Virgo intacta: Imagery of integredat in Berceo" at the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference in Knoxville, Tenn.

Celeste Jones and Ralena Wicker, Financial Aid Office, attended a Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP) workshop on November 9 at Research Triangle Park. The workshop was sponsored by the USA Group, Inc.

Dr. Gilbert S. Grant, biological sciences, presented a paper titled "Phenology of Seabirds Nesting on Rose Atoll" at the Colonial Waterbird Society meeting held in Wrightsville Beach.

Dr. Tammy G. Hunt, management and marketing, had a manuscript "Ethics and Performance: A Simulation Analysis of Team Decision Making" accepted for publication in the Journal of Business Ethics. Co-author is Daniel Jennings of Baylor University. Hunt also had her paper "Linking Strategic Problem Formulation and Personality Type: Issues and Evidence" published in the proceedings of the 1994 Southern Management Association conference.

Dr. William McCarthy, history, presented "The Material Culture of the Manila Galleons" to the Sixteenth Century Studies annual conference in October.

Dr. Deborah Dowd, HPER, presented "Factors Related to Exercise Adherence Based on Results from the Self-Motivation Inventory" at the North Carolina AHPERD convention in November.

Dr. Paul G. Shotsberger, mathematical sciences, has had his article titled "Artificial Intelligence and Mathematics Education: Realities and Possibilities" accepted for publication in Educational Technology Review. The article identifies three areas in which artificial intelligence technology can contribute to mathematics education: young children learning abstract concepts, authentic student assessment and the training and support of new teachers.

Robert Warren, grounds superintendent, and Tim Necaie, horticulturist, as part of the university's commitment to community service, spoke to the New River Garden Club in Sneads Ferry, N.C. The lecture focused on improving coastal landscaping by completing a thorough site analysis, using design principles and making appropriate plant selections. Following the discussion, a slide show of plant material that thrives on the UNCW campus was presented.

Bob Toplin, history, gave a presentation on "Violence in the Cinema and the Question of Censorship" at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., on September 22.

Dr. C. Brooks Dodson, English, had his review of The Poems of Anna Letitia Barbauld published in Choice.

Take Note of Holiday Procedures

Due to the holidays, payday for permanent employees will be December 20.

The university will be closed December 23 through January 2, and will re-open January 3. December 23, 26, 27, 28 and January 2 are paid holidays. December 29 and 30 are required vacation days. Alternatively, employees may charge accrued compensatory time, charge advanced compensatory time (to be made up in January) or charge leave without pay (to be deducted from January pay). Employees who are required to work during the holidays will earn holiday premium pay on the five designated holidays only. Employees who must work on the required vacation days should charge work hours instead of leave for hours worked. Work on the weekends will be treated as extra hours. Call ext. 3392 with questions.

Medical Insurance Premium Pre-taxing

The premiums paid for medical insurance are tax exempt. This saves you about 30 percent of the premium and puts those dollars in the paycheck. This pre-taxing is automatic unless Human Resources is asked not to process this benefit for you. If for some reason you wish your medical insurance deductions to be on an after-tax basis, call ext. 3713.

Leave Audit

The end of December is leave/time sheet audit time. Prior to the holiday break, departments will receive lists and instructions for the audit. If you have questions, call ext. 3392.

Child Involvement Leave

Did you use your eight hours of child involvement leave this year? Human Resources would be interested to hear some of the ways employees used this leave. Send a note to Kay Fryar or e-mail to FRYARK. Human Resources will share a few of the most interesting ones.

Time Sheet Deadline

The student time sheet deadline for December is 10 a.m., December 16. Time sheets must be in the Payroll Office (Alderman Hall, Room 217) by the specified time.

Office Location Change

Sam Connally, assistant to the chancellor and director of Human Resources, has relocated to Human Resources in the University Center. His telephone extension will remain 3855.

Moss Discusses Future of Carolina's Coastline on UNC-TV

UNCW Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs Dr. Marvin K. Moss discusses the future of the state's coastal region on North Carolina People with host William Friday on University of North Carolina Television at 8:30 p.m., Friday, December 16, repeating at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, December 18

From saving the jobs of fishermen to preserving marine life and the region's beaches, Moss, who served as Deputy Director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in LaJolla, Calif., maintains that knowledge of our environment is the key. "More and more people depend on the ocean as a food source," he admits. "The more we understand about it, the more we will understand how to manage and conserve our natural resources."

During the interview, Moss also draws on his experience as director of both the Office of Naval Research and the Nuclear Division of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency to discuss the recent quest by smaller countries around the world for nuclear arms. Warning of the dangers, Moss states, "If they do, then you have to wonder what other countries will do to protect themselves."

Moss, a graduate of Elon College and North Carolina State University, also discusses recent events at UNCW and some of the upcoming challenges faced by the school's faculty and administrative staff

University Women Honor Scholarship Winners

The University Women of UNCW recognized two scholarship recipients at their fall membership meeting at Wise Alumni House.

Sandra Harkin, scholarship chair, presented scholarship certificates to Wendy Jill Duncan of Leland, who is a senior majoring in accounting, and Ginger Gardner of Asheboro, a senior majoring in physical education.

President Annie Aldrich introduced her fellow officers for the 1995 term: Pat Corcoran, vice president; Helen Roll, secretary; Tammy Blizzard, treasurer; Kathy Leutze and Lynne Goodspeed, fund raising co-chairs; Karen Smith, parliamentarian; Patsy Odom, historian; Judy Gray, membership; Judy Thomas, Sandpiper editor; Sandra Harkin and Dorothea Cahill, scholarship co-chairs; Nancy Maready and Judy Thomas, program co-chairs; and Avis Edmundson, advisor.

University Women of UNCW is an organization of female faculty, staff and spouses. Its purpose is to promote a shared campus vision of education excellence through interaction with one another, fall and spring programs and scholarship promotion.

UNCW and Duke University Hold Certification Program

In an innovative approach, UNCW's Division for Public Service and Extended Education, in association with Duke University, plans to offer a certification program for nonprofit managers, beginning this spring. Classes on the UNCW campus will be developed and instructors selected by UNCW, but registration and credit will be issued by Duke University.

"We see this as an exciting opportunity to offer to UNCW's service region a certification program that has already been developed and proved successful at Duke. Participants, however, do not have to travel long distances to the Durham area but can complete the program at UNCW," said Dr. Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for Public Service and Extended Education. "We are looking at several different ways to be of assistance to our customers. This is a good first step."

The UNCW/Duke University Certificate Program in Nonprofit Management is designed for paid or volunteer workers in a nonprofit organization. Courses focus on programs to strengthen management skills and keep participants abreast of today's complex and rapidly changing nonprofit environment.

Attending the information session does not obligate you to join the program, but attendance at the information session and at each class is mandatory to receive course credit. The information sessions explain how the program works. An information session will be held from 5-6:30 p.m., January 12, in the University Center Ballroom 1.

The first two classes in the UNCW/Duke Certification Program for Nonprofit Management include: Funding Strategies for the Small Nonprofit Organization and Strategic Marketing with Your Newsletter. To register, call Duke University at (910) 684-6259. For more information, call ext. 7049.

Fourth U.S. Poet Laureate Mark Strand to Visit UNCW

UNCW will host a reading by famous American poet Mark Strand. The free reading will be at 8 p.m., January 24, in Kenan Auditorium.

Strand was the Fourth Poet Laureate in 1990-91 and has written nine books of poetry, as well as several short stories, children's books and essays on painting and photography.

Strand was born in Summerside, Prince Edward Island, Canada to American parents in 1934. His first book of poetry, Sleeping With One Eye Open, was published in 1964. His most recent publication is Dark Harbor.

One of the central themes of Strand's poetry is that of absence. In his poems, the personality of the speaker seems to suggest that "Wherever I am/I am what is missing." By illustrating such an absence in his poetry, Strand makes the realization, both for himself as well as for the reader, that it is possible to see "the blaze of promise everywhere."

Strand holds degrees from Antioch College, Yale University and the University of Iowa. He has taught at Iowa, Columbia, Yale, Princeton and the University of Virginia.

Currently, he is teaching in the writing seminars at the Johns Hopkins University.

For more information, please call ext. 3336 or ext. 3325.

Intercultural Festival Planned for This Week

Flamenco guitarist Bill Strickland will kick-off UNCW's 2nd annual Intercultural Festival from 12 noon to 1 p.m., today, and Rabbi Robert Waxman and Jay Kapner, Simcha players, will perform from 12 to 1 p.m., January 20. Both performances will be in the Hawk's Nest.

Maurice M. Martinez, visiting professor at UNCW from Hunter College, New York City, will be the featured speaker at 7 p.m., TO-NIGHT, in the University Center Ballroom. Author of Education of Ethnic Minorities, The Black Experience in Louisiana: Survival of African Culture and New Orleans Blues, Martinez will speak on "Connecting the Disconnected."

Friday, January 20, will feature a dance from 7:30 to 10 p.m., in the University Center Ballroom. Salsa, merengue, cumbia and raspa music will be provided by La Orquesta Invacion. Dance instructors also will be on the floor teaching a variety of dances including the salsa and the merengue. Admission is $3 for the general public, $2 for UNCW students and free for children under 12 and includes Hispanic hors d'oeuvres and music.

The University Center will be transformed into a multi-cultural festival from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., January 21, with arts, crafts, music, dancing and food. Booths will be set up throughout the center representing different cultures and different aspects of those cultures ranging from traditional foods to ancient religions. Rotating entertainment will range from Bill Strickland's flamenco session to local storyteller Lloyd Wilson to the Cape Fear Bavarian Band.

In conjunction with the Intercultural Festival, UNCW's international film festival will feature Australian, Chinese, Native American and Mexican films. All films will be shown in the Center Stage Cafe in the University Center. From Australia, Strictly Ballroom will be shown at 9 p.m., Jan. 17; Chinese film The Wedding Banquet will be shown at 9 p.m., Jan. 19; Native American film Thunderheart will be shown at 3 p.m., Jan. 21; and from Mexico Like Water for Chocolate will be shown at 7 p.m., Jan. 22. Admission is free, and the public as well as students, faculty and staff are invited.

For more information, please contact UNCW's Campus Activities Office at ext. 3827.

Speaker Randall Robinson Kicks Off Black History Month

Executive director of TransAfrica and foreign policy lobbyist Randall Robinson will launch UNCW's Black History Month as this year's keynote speaker. Sponsored by the Office of Minority Affairs, the program will be at 8 p.m., January 31, in the University Center Ballroom.

"Prepared to risk my life if it might spare thousands," he said, Robinson fasted for 27 days in protest of President Clinton's refusal to allow Haitian refugees into the United States. Ten years ago, ending up in jail, Robinson led a protest at the South African Embassy. Inspired by this act, the Congressional Black Caucus launched a campaign against the Reagan Administration, which grew into a nationwide movement to boycott South Africa. Through his efforts, Robinson is credited with helping to change U.S. foreign policy in South Africa and Haiti and end the apartheid in South Africa.

A Harvard Law School graduate and former aide to Missouri Representative William Clay and Michigan Representative Charles Briggs, Robinson has been honored with such awards as the Martin Luther King, Jr. Distinguished Service Award, the Congressional Black Caucus Humanitarian Award and cited by ABC as "Person of the Year."

The talk will be enhanced by contemporary gospel, provided by Jerri Holiday and Grace, the Rhythms of Africa Dance Group. The public is invited to attend this free event.

UNCW to Host Third Annual African American Student Leadership Conference

UNCW is sponsoring the North Carolina African American Student Leadership Conference February 3-5. The conference encourages young African Americans to become productive leaders of tomorrow by focusing on history, unity, self-improvement techniques, leadership skills and moral values.

The theme for the conference each year has remained the same, "Followers of Yesterday: Leaders of Tomorrow." "Building Tomorrow Together" is the subtheme for this year's conference.

On February 3 at 7:30 p.m., "Our Young Black Men Are Dying and Nobody Seems to Care," a play written by James Chapman, will be performed. It tells stories of hope and despair, of love and hurt and of dreams and disappointments. The powerful performances celebrate the beauty and resilience of the African American male. The play will be in the University Center Ballroom and the admission price is $3 for UNCW students and $6 for general admission. Tickets are available in advance at the University Union Information Desk and at the door on the night of the performance.

A banquet will be held at Wagoner Hall at 8 p.m., February 4. Tickets are $15 and may be purchased at the door. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Dennis Rahiim Watson, executive director of the National Black Youth Leadership Council in New York City. An outstanding educator, lecturer, entertainer and author, Dr. Watson was once a high school drop out who overcame such circumstances to become one of the nation's most influential educators. He has spoken to students at more than 200 colleges and universities including Harvard, Yale, Cornell and M.I.T. For more information, call ext. 3877.

Video Conference to be Held During Black History Month

Black Issues in Higher Education will present a video conference from 1 to 3 p.m., February 1, in the University Center Ballroom, for the observance of Black History Month.

Titled "Beyond the Dream: The Vanishing Black Male," the video conference will be moderated by Kojo Nnambi. The video conference will raise vital issues and hold discussions about why a large spectrum of professional men, trying to make a difference, are being described as an "endangered species." Other topics that will be examined are: the black male image, the media's portrayal of the African American male, police brutality, the university's role in mentoring and reclaiming youth, rebuilding the strength of the African American family, and many more. The public is invited to attend this free video conference, live via satellite, in celebration of Black History Month. Call ext. 3439 for more information.

National Spinning Company Creates a Scholarship Fund

National Spinning Company created an endowed scholarship fund at UNCW. Ben Ellenberg, division human resources manager for National Spinning Company, presented UNCW with a check for $15,000 to establish the fund.

"This scholarship was established to assist the children of our associates to attend local colleges. We chose to contribute to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington because of its outstanding reputation and due to the fact that many of the company's associates live in southeastern North Carolina," said Ellenberg.

The scholarship is intended for students who are children of eligible National Spinning Company employees or associates, as they are known to the company. If there are no children to apply for the scholarship, it may be awarded to students from southeastern North Carolina.

UNCW Provost Dr. Marvin K. Moss stated "UNCW is very pleased by National Spinning's establishment of a scholarship fund to support students from southeastern North Carolina. As a regional university, UNCW is committed to serving students from this part of the state, and gifts from regional businesses such as this one offer invaluable assistance in this mission. We commend National Spinning Company for its investment in the future education of these students and are grateful that it chose to make this investment at our university."

National Spinning Company is one of the leading yarn manufacturers in the United States with plants located in Whiteville, Warsaw, Washington and Beulaville, N.C., as well as in LaFayette, Ga.

Cameron School of Business Revises MBA, Offers New Programs to Better Serve the Region

To better meet the needs of residents of Southeastern North Carolina, the Cameron School of Business Administration announced major restructuring of its MBA and the creation of two new programs — a Master of Science Degree in Accountancy and an evening undergraduate degree program.

MBA Program

The MBA program was revamped in response to the changing needs of today's work environment which demands better communication and analytical skills. The curriculum will utilize an "integrated" approach where students will examine the relationships between accounting, finance, marketing and production and decision sciences.

This program provides students with the opportunity to examine industries, new product development and other business functions.

MSA Program

This program offers the unique opportunity to prepare for careers in business through the study of accounting and is open to qualified students with degrees in fields other than accounting. Students with an accounting undergraduate degree can complete the 30 semester credit hour program in 10 months. In most cases, however, these prerequisite courses can be completed in the summer session preceding the start of the fall semester, allowing the student to graduate with a

MS degree in accountancy in approximately 13 months. For more information, please call Dr. Jack Baker at ext. 3508.

Evening Undergraduate Degree Program

In an effort to make a business degree more accessible, the Cameron School of Business Administration will offer a general business degree program totally at night. Rockness noted that this is the first undergraduate degree program to be offered at night by the Cameron School. Following the completion of basic studies courses, a student can expect to complete the program in about three calendar years. All courses will be offered after 6 p.m.

Refreshments will be served at both of the seminars.

WWII LECTURE

Dr. Andrew Clark and Dr. Yixin Chen will present a lecture titled "1945: Victory in Africa and Asia" at 8 p.m., February 7, in Cameron Hall Auditorium. Both will discuss the effect the end of World War II had on these two continents. This lecture is a first in a series of three this semester provided by the Department of History and the College of Arts and Sciences to mark the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Both Asia and Africa became battlegrounds during the war and both sent men and women to fight on both sides. Because of this, the end of the war in 1945 brought changes to these two continents.

VISITATION DAY

Visitation Day '95 has been scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., February 11. Approximately 1,500 prospective students and parents are anticipated to attend. Our guests will have the opportunity to attend sessions concerning Financial Aid, Housing and Residence Life and general university information. "The Belle of Amherst"

This one woman show explores the life of Emily Dickenson, from her early teens when she was full of hope and success, until she died at 56, a virtual recluse with her door closed against society. Her life is delicately recreated with a great sense of humor, liberal excerpts from her poetry...and by the method of playing the roles of her father and friends.

"Two Faces of Women", February 5, 7 pm in the Center Stage Cafe, University Center.

Just in time for Black History Month, "Two Faces of Women" is a lively adventurous film that combines raucous comedy and pulsating African music in two intriguing stories about women in today's Africa. This film is the winner of the prestigious International Critics' Award at the Cannes Film Festival.

"Raisin in the Sun" February 12, 7 pm in the Center Stage Cafe, University Center.

Starring: Sidney Poitier, Claudia McNeil, Ruby Dee, Ivan Dixon, Louis Gossett, Jr. Based on Lorraine Hansberry's novel and play, this eloquent film reveals the hopes and frustrations of a Chicago family, and the impact of an insurance bequest each member sees as the means of realizing long-nurtured dreams

"Intolerance" February 19, 7 pm in the Center Stage Cafe University Center.

One of the greatest silent films ever made, this daring work inter-weaves four historical narratives with a modern story, building to a suspenseful climax. "INTOLERANCE is the greatest motion picture of the silent era, if not the greatest motion picture in the history of the cinema." - Anthony Slide, FIFTY GREAT AMERICAN SILENT FILMS

"Incident at Oglala" February 26, 7 pm in the Center Stage Cafe, University Center.

Narrator: Robert Redford

Michael Apted (Thunderheart) reconstructs a shootout that took place on South Dakota's Pine Ridge Reservation in 1975, and the unfair trial that resulted in the conviction - on purely circumstantial evidence- of Sioux activist Leonard Petlier.

UNCW Students Receive Glaxo "Women in Science" Scholarships

UNCW students Rachel V. Parker and Clair Weber have each received a Glaxo "Women in Science" scholarship, presented at Glaxo Inc.'s Sir Paul Girolami Research and Development Center in Research Triangle Park last December. The students were recognized for their scholastic achievements in math and science respectively and given $1,000 scholarships. The selected scholars must maintain a grade point average of 3.0 or better.

Each student has been paired with a female scientist from Glaxo who has volunteered to serve as a mentor throughout the student's undergraduate career. Glaxo Project Manager Charu Krishnamoorthy, Ph.D., volunteered to mentor Clair Weber, and Glaxo Senior Scientist Marcia L. Moss, Ph.D. volunteered to mentor Rachel Parker.

The Glaxo "Women in Science" Scholars Program is a major initiative to support scientific studies by female undergraduate students at 21 North Carolina colleges and universities. The program, established in 1993 by The Glaxo Foundation, combines more than $500,000 in endowed scholarships. The program is designed to provide young women with financial support and the encouragement of role models who can help guide them toward successful careers in science.

Myra Williams, vice president and chief information officer at Glaxo, coordinates the "Women in Science" Scholars Program. She stressed the importance of the student/mentor relationship in helping students navigate the many challenges women often face in pursuing science careers. Dr. Joan Dewitt Willey, UNCW interim dean of the Graduate School said, "The idea of mentoring is unique." I have never seen another scholarship like it."

Glaxo Inc., the sole contributor to the Glaxo Foundation, has become the second largest pharmaceutical company in the world.

The Belle of Amherst

This one woman show explores the life of Emily Dickinson, from her early teens when she was full of hope and success, until she died at 56, a virtual recluse with her door closed against society. Her life is delicately recreated with a great sense of humor, liberal excerpts from her poetry, and by a single actress playing the roles of the poet, her father, and her friends.

UNCW to Host Dr. Cornel West in Leadership for the 21st Century Lecture Series

As part of Black History month, Dr. Cornel West from Harvard University will participate in the "Leadership for the 21st Century" lecture series. Dr. West will speak at 7 p.m., February 20, in Kenan Auditorium. His lecture is "Race Matters: The Crisis of Black Leadership."

West recently left his job at Princeton to work at Harvard University where he graduated magna cum laude in 1973. He received his MA and Ph.D. from Princeton and later taught there as professor of religion and director of the African-American Studies Department.

His current academic interests include problems facing the African-American urban underclass in America and in creating and maintaining an ongoing dialogue between Blacks and Jews.

He has written 10 books including Race Matters, a national best seller. In his lecture with the same name, he confronts "the monumental eclipse of hope, the unprecedented collapse of meaning, and the incredible disregard for human life."

Tickets for West's lecture are free and may be picked up at the University Union Information Center. This event is sponsored by the Chancellor's Office and Leadership Center. For more information, call ext. 3877.

Conger Accepts UNCW's Director of Development Position

As director of development, North Carolina native Michelle Fleming Conger brings to the Division of University Advancement and to UNCW a wealth of experience spanning 15 years.

Most recently as director of life sciences education for the Denver Museum of Natural History, Denver, Colo., Conger oversaw the design, content and implementation of educational programs for children and adults.

Previous professional positions include assistant director for the Audubon Zoological Park and Gardens in New Orleans, La., and the educational programs coordinator for the 1984 World's Fair.

A master of education graduate from the University of New Orleans, La., Conger also holds a bachelor of science degree in zoology from the University of Colorado and a bachelor of arts from Tulane University.

"We are fortunate to be able to attract to UNCW a person like Michelle," said Bill Anlyan, vice chancellor for University Advancement. "Her widespread experience in non-profit organizations will strengthen our development efforts on behalf of UNCW."

Artist to Work in King Hall

As part of an ongoing arts program in the Donald R. Watson School of Education, metal sculptor Michael Van Hout will be working in King Hall from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m., February 21 through 24.

During those four days, Van Hout will complete some of his work as he demonstrates his methods and discusses his work with visitors.

He will install some of his work in King Hall to become part of the growing permanent collection of the Donald R. Watson School of Education.

All faculty, staff and students are invited to stop by to watch or to talk.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Terry Theodore, fine arts, signed a contract with Salem Press to do a critical study on Katherine Anne Porter's short story, "Theft," to be published next year.

Martin Posey, Christopher Powell, Lawrence Cahoon and David Lindquist have had their paper "Top Down Vs. Bottom Up Control of Benthic Community Composition on an Intertidal Tideflat" published in the Journal of Experimental Marine Biology and Ecology. This paper examines the relative importance of nutrient addition and predation on bottom communities near Masonboro Island.

Stephanie and Granetta Richardson, English, presented papers at the 20th Annual Comparative Literature and Film Conference. Two graduate students, Susan Finley and Louis Wolf, of English also attended to read conference papers. Stephanie's paper is titled "Seeing Through a Glass Darkly: Image Systems in Schindler's List," and Granetta's paper is titled, "Father Knows Best: Reaffirmation of Patriarchy in Three Steven Spielberg Films." Finley's paper is titled "Lycanthropy in the 1990's:

Monsters in Our Familial Closets," and Wolf's paper is titled, "Fear and Compassion in Philadelphia: The Changing Emblem of the Republic: Charles Brockden Brown, 1793 & Jonathan Demme, 1993." All four presented on the same panel, along with a professor from the University of Boise, Dr. Lonnie Willis.

Dr. Arthur Spivack, earth sciences, has recently co-authored the following articles: "Lithium and Boron Isotopes in Sediment and Pore Waters of ODP Site 808: Geochemical Implications" in Geology; "Chlorine Stable Isotope Composition of the Oceanic Crust: Implications for Earth's Distribution of Chlorine" accepted by Earth and Planetary Science Letters; "Experimental Study of Boron Geochemistry: Applications to Fluid Processes in Subduction Zones" accepted by Geochimica Cosmochimica Acta; "The Boron Isotopic Composition of the Oceanic Crust" accepted by Chemical Geology; "Boron Contents and Isotopic Compositions of Pore Fluids: A New Approach to Temperature Induced Artifacts- Geochemical Implications" accepted by Marine Geology.

William A. Bryan, vice chancellor for student affairs, recently attended the Biennial Conference of the Australian and New Zealand Student Services Association. He presented "Student Affairs in the U.S.: Our Challenges in the Next Decade." Bryan is the official delegate of the American College Personnel Association.

Dr. Kristin Howell, economics and finance, had her paper "Further Comparisons of Effects of Lending to Developing Countries" accepted for presentation at the MidSouth Academy of Economics and Finance Conference.

Drs. Carol Pilgrim and William Overman, psychology, gave an invited presentation at the Winter Conference on Developmental Psychobiology. Dr. Pilgrim presented "Stability of Equivalence Relations Change with Age" and Dr. Overman presented "Late Ontogeny of Relational Learning in Children." The presentations were part of a symposium organized by Overman titled "Convergent Evidence that the Ability to Extract Meaning from Stimulus Relationships Emerges Late in Ontogeny."

Adams Named Community Partnerships Health Fellow

Dr. Virginia Watson Adams, dean of UNCW's School of Nursing, has been selected for the second group of Fellows in a W.K. Kellogg Foundation program that aims to build leaders committed to achieving greater balance in health professions education. A major thrust of the program is to build leaders committed to achieving greater balance in health professions education. A major thrust of the program is to increase the emphasis on multidisciplinary primary health care at the community level.

Adams is one of eight health professionals named to the two-year Community Partnerships Leadership Development Program, which will explore the linkages between health professions education institutions, primary health care and communities. Special considerations will be given to the public policymaking process.

The program is an extension of the Foundation's $47.5 million Community Partnerships with Health Professions Education initiative, a five-year effort that began in 1991.

"Although our health care system is excellent in many ways, it costs too much and leaves too many people out," said Gloria R. Smith, Kellogg Foundation coordinator of health programming. "To help improve our systems, we need to create greater balance in health professions education by increasing the focus on community-based approaches to primary care.

"But to make these changes, we need effective leadership," Smith continued.

"The leaders we've chosen for this program will work with communities to help make these changes happen."

The eight Fellows, chosen from a national pool of nominees, include three community health center administrators, one physician, three nurses and one health policy analyst. They come from health services delivery, academia, health policy and community backgrounds.

Adams, who holds a doctorate, bachelor's and master's degree in nursing, previously served as interim dean, associate professor and chair of the Department of Family and Community Nursing at East Tennessee State University.

From 1972-88, Adams was an associate professor at Winston-Salem State University. Military experience includes service in the United States Air Force and the United States Army Reserve, progressing to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Adams has provided leadership in the areas of family development and comprehensive school health, which she has developed and implemented through local churches and the creation of nurse-managed school health centers. She has led curriculum revisions toward primary health care. The fellowship will allow her to expand her nursing leadership for primary health care in communities.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation was established in 1930 "to help people help themselves through the practical application of knowledge and resources to improve their quality of life and that of future generations." As a private grantmaking organization, it provides seed money to nonprofit organizations and institutions that have identified problems and designed constructive action programs aimed at solutions.

Martha Stewart Lecture Tickets Selling Fast

Tickets for the lecture by Martha Stewart, nationally known author, television personality and home decorating expert, are selling fast. The lecture titled "Entertaining with Style" will be at 2 p.m., April 27, in Kenan Auditorium.

Tickets for the lecture are $20. With only about 330 tickets left, people interested in the April 27 lecture should call the Kenan Auditorium Box Office at 395-3500 to order tickets.

WOMEN IN LEADERSHIP MENTORING PROGRAM

The Leadership Center is launching a pilot program called UNCW Women in Leadership Mentoring Program scheduled for the fall semester. It is designed to allow women student leaders to realize and develop their leadership potential by forming meaningful mentoring relationships with women leaders in our local and campus community. The Leadership Center is currently looking for female faculty or staff members that may be interested in becoming mentors. In addition, the Leadership Center plans to schedule six workshops pertaining to women and leadership issues as a major focal point of the program. If you are interested in more information about the program, becoming a mentor or facilitating a workshop, call ext. 3877.

JAPANESE FAIR

A Japanese Fair will be held March 4 in the University Center Ballroom. There will be hands-on activities such as calligraphy, origami and a tea ceremony. Cost to the fair is free. For a cost of $8 a lunch program with Japanese food and entertainment will be offered. Tickets should be purchased in advance. For tickets, please call 350-2072.

SERVICE AWARDS LUNCHEON

The 1995 Service Awards Luncheon will be from 12 noon to 2 p.m., June 8, in Wagoner Hall. We plan to recognize 87 SPA employees. Dr. Gerald H. Shinn will be the keynote speaker and Dr. Virginia Adams will be the mistress of ceremonies. If you have any questions, please call ext. 3712.

DEVELOPING HYPERMEDIA CLASSROOM APPLICATIONS

The Center for Teaching Excellence is sponsoring a hands-on workshop to introduce UNCW faculty to techniques and technology needed for developing multimedia classroom presentations using Macintosh computers and Hypercard. The workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m. for the first two days and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on the third day. To register for the workshop, call ext. 3034.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Wei Feng, mathematical sciences, and Dr. W.H. Ruan, Purdue University Calumet, cooperatively wrote a paper titled "On the Fixed Point Index and Multiple Steady-state Solutions of Reaction-diffusion Systems." The paper was published in the journal Differential and Integral Equations (vol. 8, No. 2:371-391).

Kathleen Halme, English, has had four poems accepted for publication in Denver Quarterly and Boulevard.

Costume and scene designs created by fine arts professors Toni Bratton and Tom Macie, respectively, were selected for the U.S. Institute for Theatre Technology — Southeast Section, Juried Design Exhibition. The designs were for the recent University Theatre production The Musical Comedy Murders of 1940 and will be exhibited at the Southeastern Theatre Conference in Norfolk, Va., this March.

Dr. William W. Hall, Jr., economics, presented the paper "Factors Contributing to Differences in Economic Growth Across Multistate Census Regions Over the 1980s" at the 22nd annual meeting of the Midsouth Academy of Economics and Finance, held in Biloxi, Miss. Dr. Hall also chaired a session and discussed two other papers at the meeting.

A day-long workshop by Dr. Chris Eckhardt, psychology, titled "Assessment, Diagnosis and Treatment of Patients with Anger Problems" was recently accepted for presentation at the upcoming annual convention of the American Psychological Association in New York. This is a collaborative workshop with co-presenters from Colorado State University and St. John's University.

A critical analysis of a study by Drs. James D. Johnson and Lee Anderson Jackson, psychology, has been recently published in Basic and Applied Social Psychology. The study titled, "Violent Attitudes and Deferred Academic Aspirations: Deleterious Effects of Exposure to Rap Music" was critically analyzed by Christine Hansen who is a nationally known communications' researcher and expert on the effects of exposure to media stimuli. Dr. Hansen's analysis focused on the scientific relevance of the study as well as its social impact.

Dr. Patricia Comeaux, communication studies, and Dr. Michael Neer, University of Missouri, had their article "A Comparison of Two Instructional Formats in the Basic Hybrid Course on Oral and Test Performance" accepted for publication in The Southern Communication Journal.

UNCW Unveils its African-American Cultural Center

On February 24, UNCW unveiled its African-American Cultural Center and welcomed Helena Lee, assistant director of minority affairs and coordinator for the cultural center.

"For years, students from various organizations have been talking about establishing an African-American Cultural Center at UNCW," says Ralph Parker, director of minority affairs.

"The UNCW African-American Cultural Center is a great asset to the total community," says Eugene E. Wright, Jr., M.D., chair of the UNCW Board of Trustees. "We have the opportunity to share a part of the black experience with our colleagues on campus and with the entire community. The Cultural Center will provide a place for students of all backgrounds to come and participate in intellectual and cultural exchange of ideas. This is a great addition to the university."

"As the globe figuratively shrinks and concepts such as the global economy becomes reality, it is critical that Americans understand a diversity of cultures, not just their own," says Chancellor Leutze. "What is especially important about the African-American Cultural Center at UNCW is that it is designed to help all students understand and celebrate each other's cultures. I am enthusiastic about having this educational center open at last, and we will be encouraging all UNCW students to take advantage of the programs it offers. I stress that this is a center for education and celebration, and not just a place to gather and socialize. By understanding and celebrating the many cultures under the national umbrella, our students will be better prepared to be productive citizens of the world."

As coordinator, Helena Lee recognizes the center as a vital part of UNCW and community life, as well: "With this being a global community, everyone has to be interested in everyone else's culture." Lee feels that the African-American Cultural Center will be an "inclusive place, because although we study our history, it includes other people's as well." With an extensive background and interest in the history of African-Americans, Lee says that she will work towards the center's mission to "explore the heritage, arts, literature and history of African Americans" in an environment that is "open to people of all races."

Yow, Burney Honored by UNCW Alumni Association

Connie S. Yow and John J. Burney, Jr. were honored by the UNCW Alumni Association.

Yow, a member of the university's Board of Trustees, was named Distinguished Alumna. She majored in elementary education at UNCW and has taken additional business courses offered by the university. She is the owner/partner of Interior Collections at Topsail Island, secretary of Yow Enterprises Ltd. and assists Elmore-Yow Group with real estate development in Aspen, Col.

Yow has supported UNCW in many ways as member and officer of Friends of UNCW, member of the Capital Campaign gift committee, NCAA Women's Golf Championships advisory committee and UNCW Wise Alumni House Designers Showcase steering committee. She is also active with numerous community organizations including the Volunteer Action Committee, PTO, New Hanover County Bar Auxiliary and Junior League.

Burney was recognized by the UNCW Alumni Association as Distinguished Citizen for Service to the university.

A Wilmington native and 1943 New Hanover High School graduate, Burney received his undergraduate and law degrees from Wake Forest University. He served as senator in the N.C. General Assembly of 1967, 1969 and 1971. He was on the UNCW Board of Trustees from 1981 to 1989 and was chairman for three years. In addition, he served on the chancellor search committee in 1990.

In addition to his service to UNCW, Burney is a member of the N.C. Bar Association, American Legion, and Forty and Eight. While serving as a staff sergeant with the 63rd Infantry Division, Burney was awarded the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster and several French decorations.

UNCW Goes on Information Highway with Certificate Program to Five Statewide Sites

A series of Professional Empowerment Seminars, offered through UNCW's Division for Public Service and Extended Education, will begin March 1 and will broadcast to five statewide sites using the interactive video technology of the N.C. Information Highway. Originating in Wilmington and using UNCW's distance education classrooms, the courses will be simultaneously presented at Duke University, Elizabeth City State University, Winston-Salem State University and MCNC, Research Triangle Park and UNCW.

"Today's business world demands that workers be ready to take on new challenges," explains UNCW's Distance Education Project Director Hunter Thompson, "and UNCW plans to use the latest technology to help the workforce move forward." The first courses in the Empowerment Series focus on communication and presentation skills, cultural and ethnic diversity of the workplace, conflict resolution and humor and stress management. If a participant attends all four courses, at any site, a certificate and 1.2 units of CEU credit will be awarded.

"UNCW has been originating classes using interactive video for the past four years as part of the Cape Fear Regional Partnership Network," Thompson said. "Our experience tells us that visionary employers will see that this is the future for workforce training because of the convenience of location and skills of the instructors."

Free Health Clinic for Children

The UNCW School of Nursing and St. Phillip Church are working together for the first time to expand a Health Screening Project for children. There will be five screening sessions held from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., March 18, 25, and April 1, 8, and 22 at St. Phillip Church, located at 815 North 8th Street.

UNCW nursing students and St. Phillip Church need approximately 100 children from birth to age five for their Health and Developmental Screening Project. This project will provide nursing students with the chance to broaden their education in child health, as well as give parents a free opportunity to obtain information that will enhance and maintain the well-being of their child.

This is the first collaborative effort by the UNCW School of Nursing to provide the African-American community with a service extended on this scale and on the weekend. "Based on feedback we received from the community that it was difficult to attend screenings on workdays, the School of Nursing decided to offer this screening on Saturdays," said Dr. Helen Fallor, associate professor of nursing. "We are extremely pleased to establish a cooperative venture with St. Phillip Church and its active Missionary Society. In fact, one of our nursing students, Trinia Smith, who is a member of St. Phillip's, is responsible for the idea and much of the liaison effort."

The health screening includes health history, physical examination, and developmental screening. It also involves discussing children's health through play. In addition, hearing and vision screening will be provided for children ages four and five.

Screening at St. Phillip Church will be done under the supervision of faculty members from the UNCW School of Nursing with the support of one area nurse practitioner and one physician.

For more information and to schedule an appointment for the screening, call 762-3573.

Children's Fantasy Playhouse

You will have the opportunity to purchase raffle tickets for a children's fantasy playhouse at the Coastal Living Show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, March 18, and 12 to 5 p.m., Sunday, March 19, at the Lowe's booth in Trask Coliseum.

The playhouse was built by Farlow-Pollard & Co., and all materials were donated by Lowe's Stores Inc.

Tickets are $5 for one ticket, $10 for three tickets and $20 for seven tickets. Proceeds will benefit the UNCW Alumni Association.

Also available at the Lowe's booth will be Wise House Designers Showcase tickets. Advance tickets are $8 and run of show tickets are $12.

For more information, please call the Wise Alumni House at 251-2683.

As part of a state and national effort to reduce traffic injuries, the University Police will implement a seven-week education/enforcement program with three primary goals:

- Reduce speed on campus.

Campus-wide speed limit is 25, yet the average speed on campus is 33 and the highest has been clocked at 47. With bikers and pedestrians, plus congestion during class change, excess speed can kill and injure. In fact, since students returned to school Jan. 5, there have been 61 traffic accidents on campus.

- Increase seat belt usage.
- Reduce impaired driving offenses.

From March 13-27, UNCW police will offer educational programs in residence halls, Wagoner Hall, University Center and other campus sites. In addition, speed display units will be installed at various campus locations. On March 15, seat belt dummies Vince and Larry will be on campus.

Following the educational component, officers will begin enforcing speed and safety belt laws on campus streets. During this period, speed and seat belt laws will be enforced with greater intensity.

Between March 27 and April 2, UNCW officers will offer educational programs dealing with how alcohol and drugs affect driving skills. This will be followed by roadside sobriety checkpoints on campus.

Celebrate Wilmington

Now in its second year, Celebrate Wilmington! unites the community and UNCW in a collaborative effort to showcase the arts. Dance, music, theater, visual arts, education and film are all part of the many events that will take place during this four-week celebration scheduled for October 14 to November 11. This year, each week will be anchored by special festivities. The second annual Beaux Arts Parade will kick off the celebration. Other activities include a Gallery Walk of art galleries and museums, a film showcase and conference.

Organizations are invited to scheduled events in these four weeks of the festival. An invitation and information sheet will be mailed to arts organizations in mid-March. This year's steering committee chair is Don Fishero, executive director of the Arts Council of the Lower Cape Fear. Other officers include vice chair, Dr. Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor of the Division for Public Service and Extended Education; secretary, Karen Simmons, business office in DPSEE and treasurer, Royce Angel, special assistant to the vice chancellor for University Advancement. "Working committees for theatre, the Beaux Arts Parade, marketing, special events and the Beaux Arts Ball are forming," said Mr. Fishero. "Anyone interested in contributing their time and talent should contact me at 762-4223. We are looking forward to an exciting festival to celebrate the many and varied works of Wilmington artists."

Buckled and Sober at 25: A Campaign for Life

Please discard
last week's article.
The following is the

25

As part of a state and national effort to reduce traffic injuries, University Police will implement a seven-week education and enforcement program with three primary goals:

Reduce speed on campus.

Campus-wide speed limit is 25, yet the average speed on campus is 33 and the highest has been clocked at above 60. With bikers and pedestrians, plus congestion during class change, excess speed can kill and injure. In fact, since students returned to school August 20, there have been 69 traffic accidents on campus.

Reduce impaired driving offenses.

March 13 through 27, UNCW police will offer educational programs in residence halls, Wagoner Hall, University Center and other campus sites focusing on speed reduction, seat belt use and the effects of alcohol on driving skills. In addition, speed display units will be installed at various campus locations. March 15 through 22, seat belt dummies Vince and Larry will be on campus.

Following the educational component, officers will enforce speed and safety belt laws on campus streets from March 27 - April 2.

Between April 2-30, UNCW officers will enforce DWI and seat belt violations and will also establish roadside sobriety checkpoints at various points on campus.

UNCW to Offer Bachelor's to Prepare Educators of Children from Birth to Age Five

Beginning fall semester 1995, the Donald R. Watson School of Education will offer a bachelor's degree in the education of young children. This interdisciplinary degree is designed to prepare public and private educators to work with children from birth to age five and their families in a variety of settings.

The new program was developed in response to needs in the region for well-trained educators of young children and is in keeping with the goals of the America 2000 program which advocates having every child entering school ready to learn.

In making the announcement, Provost Dr. Marvin K. Moss noted that with the implementation of Governor Hunt's Smart Start program, there is an increasing recognition of and need for well-qualified individuals to work with young children in a variety of settings, whether in day care centers or kindergartens. UNCW's program is exciting because it will bring together not only courses in early childhood education, but also fine arts, health, nursing, psychology and social work. It is truly interdisciplinary," he said.

"The aim of the program is to provide well-prepared and effective educators of children from birth to age five who can work to have every child in North Carolina ready to learn when each child enters first grade," said Dr. Robert E. Tyndall, dean of the Watson School of Education.

UNCW Faculty Will Hold Reading and Book Signing

English faculty Kevin Canty and Michael White will participate in a reading and book-signing at 7 p.m., April 6, in Cameron Hall Auditorium.

Canty's first book, A Stranger in This World, is a collection of short stories and was published in 1994 by Doubleday. It will make its paperback appearance, courtesy of Vintage Contemporaries, this fall.

An assistant professor of creative writing, Canty is currently completing a novel, which recently won a Transatlantic Review award from the Henfield Foundation for its opening chapters.

Michael White's book of poetry, The Island, published in 1992, received critical praise from 1991 U.S. Poet Laureate Mark Strand. Strand observed, "No first book in recent memory has so much wisdom, so much lyric conviction as White's The Island. I find his poems astonishingly mature, profound, evocative."

White won a $20,000 Fellowship in Literature from the National Endowment for the Arts in 1993. He is currently an assistant professor of creative writing at UNCW.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information, call ext. 3325.

Training Opportunities

• Service Excellence, 2 to 4 p.m., April 5

This workshop is for front line employees to enhance customer service skills and promote the value of the staff's contribution to the university.

Benefits Enhancement

In spring 1993, UNCW employees responded to a comprehensive benefits survey. One request was for increased life insurance options. After negotiating with SAFECO Life Insurance Company to increase availability of coverage to $50,000, an open enrollment resulted in 32 new enrollees with a coverage value of $580,000, and 116 employees increasing their coverage by a total of $3,070,000. If you missed out on the open enrollment, you may still apply for coverage by completing an enrollment application and a "Proof of Good Health" questionnaire. Call ext. 3713 for more information. Another response was that employees do not have a good understanding of their disability coverage or do not believe it is adequate. The response to an open enrollment for disability coverage for those in the optional retirement plan (ORP) was overwhelming and now more than 98 percent of the ORP participants are covered with the disability insurance to supplement the coverage offered by the state. Now we have great news for State Retirement Plan members. UNCW has joined with the other universities in the UNC system and jointly contracted for a plan to supplement your disability coverage. Information and enrollment materials are currently being printed. We plan to have open enrollment from mid-April through mid-May. Watch the Communique for more information.

Faculty to Participate in Book Signing and Reading

English faculty Kevin Canty and Michael White will participate in a reading and book-signing at 7 p.m., April 6, in Cameron Hall Auditorium.

Canty's first book, A Stranger in this World, is a collection of short stories and was published in 1994 by Doubleday.

Michael White's book of poetry, The Island, published in 1992, received critical praise from 1991 U.S. Poet Laureate Mark Strand. Strand observed, "No first book in recent memory has so much wisdom, so much lyric conviction as White's The Island. I find his poems astonishingly mature, profound, evocative."

The event is being sponsored by the UCNW English Department and is free and open to the public. For more information, call ext. 3325.

The Anchor Bank Announces Gift

David E. Buffaloe, president of The Anchor Bank of North Carolina, announced that the bank has made a contribution of $1,500 to UNCW's Cameron School of Business Administration.

In making the announcement, Buffaloe said, "The Anchor Bank supports higher education and recognizes the need to help deliver this service to our community. Business is an exciting and rapidly changing field. Our bank is proud to help play a role ensuring that our area is able to offer state-of-the-art education."

The Anchor Bank of North Carolina is headquartered in Hampstead, with additional offices in Ogden and Jacksonville. The Anchor Bank offers a full line of banking products and services.

Science Building Update:

Construction on the new Science Building is moving right along. Dave Girardot, assistant vice chancellor for Business Affairs, said "We're probably three to four weeks ahead of schedule on the generals of building. They're maintaining the same schedule on the other aspects."

The problem with the building, according to Girardot, is that there are four or five different contractors, so certain aspects are likely to be finished before others.

However, Clancy and Theys, the same company that built the Cameron School of Business Administration, states that they are on schedule and there are no problems.

The new two-story, 100,000 square foot science building is scheduled for completion on June 17, 1996.

Just bring your package(s) to Central Stores' front desk for processing. The cost will be the UPS shipping charge plus a $1 handling fee per package. Call ext. 3180 with questions.

State Salary Plan

Departments wishing to obtain a copy of the State Salary Plan for 1995 (published by the Office of State Personnel) should submit a printing request to Laura Warren in the Copy Center.

PINs Available in ROCK

The Randall Online Catalog (ROCK) now provides improved security for your circulation record. When you ask to view your own circulation record or request an item checked out or on order, you will be asked for your personal identification number (PIN). The first time you do this you will be asked to choose a PIN. It can be any combination of letters or numbers up to 30 characters long. Do not forget your PIN-the library staff is not able to see your PIN. If you do forget it, go to the circulation desk in the library to have PIN deleted, enabling you to set a new one.

Training Opportunities

Managing Service Excellence, 9 a.m.-12 noon, April 10

This workshop has been rescheduled to May 2.

Purchasing Procedures, 8:30-10:30 a.m., April 13

Math Placement Test Schedule

The Mathematics Placement Test will be given during the times listed below for students who need to take the test prior to preregistration. Have your students sign up by calling the Mathematical Sciences Department, ext. 3290. All testing is in Bear Hall, Room 101 and starts promptly at the time listed.

April 6, 8:30 a.m.

April 10, 4 p.m.

April 11, 4 p.m. (final testing date)

Students who wish to repeat MAT 111 and have previously earned a D in the course do not need to take the placement test again; however, they must call ext. 3885, so a special code can be put in the computer allowing them to register for the course.

Increase in Petty Cash Limit

Effective April 1, the limit for petty cash reimbursements increased from $25 to $50. Continue using the existing petty cash reimbursement form and change the bottom of the form to read $50 limit. After the existing stock of forms is depleted, new forms will be available.

Casual Dress Fridays

The Administrative Cabinet has approved a year-round casual dress for Fridays, similar to our current casual dress policy during summer hours, when operational requirements permit and subject to supervisory approval. Employees and supervisors are encouraged to discuss when regular attire is appropriate so casual dress Fridays can be as successful as our casual dress during summer hours.

Since salary increases are likely to be modest this year, the cabinet is exploring ways to make our work environment more enjoyable as one way of valuing employees' contributions to the university. Suggestions/ideas can be sent to Human Resources, through the Chancellor's Suggestion Box (University Center or Randall Library) or via e-mail to CONNALLY.

Employees Recognized

Linda Ferrell, Beth Roberts and Freida Shofe were recognized for their completion of "The Winning Package" series during a reception after the final session on March 28.

Elouise Andrews, Lee Brinkley and Glenda Tomasiello were recognized for their completion of the "Hub of the Wheel" series. A reception and certificate were provided for the participants.

A Shared Leave Thanks

Ethel T. Gerald, Physical Plant, would like to thank all those who donated shared leave during her current medical leave.

Bryan Receives ACPA Esther Lloyd-Jones Professional Service Award

Dr. William A. Bryan, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, is the 1995 recipient of the American College Personnel Association Esther Lloyd-Jones Professional Service Award. This award is presented to a member of the profession who has exemplified the profession's commitment to service through significant, sustained and unselfish service/leadership activities which have benefited the profession, ACPA and the profession's practice on the state and national level. In presenting this award, the governing board stated that, "Bill Bryan's dedication, leadership, values and service have greatly strengthened our association and profession. His knowledge, experience and personal style of leadership serves as a sterling role model for his colleagues, especially the young upcoming professionals."

Bryan graduated from Florida State University in 1960 with a B.S. degree in social sciences and history. He then went on to earn an M.S. in guidance and counseling/student personnel in higher education from Indiana University in 1961. In 1970, he received his Ed.D. in counselor education/student personnel from the University of Wyoming.

Dr. Bryan has held his position of vice chancellor of Student Affairs since 1983 and also is a tenured faculty member in the Donald R. Watson School of Education. He has authored or co-authored 21 books and chapters, as well as more than 10 articles and research reports. Dr. Bryan also has had four grant proposals funded in the area of student affairs.

UNCW Recognized for Its Flora and Fauna

UNCW has announced that it is now an official institutional member of the American Association of Botanical Gardens and Arboreta.

To become a member, an institution must have its campus/garden function as an aesthetic and educational display and/or a site for research; maintain plant records; and have available interpretative materials about the plants.

Chairman of the UNCW Arboretum Task Force Dr. Dan Noland, associate professor of English, said that the UNCW arboretum is designed to provide educational, biological and aesthetic benefits on the main campus in Wilmington, the Center for Marine Science Research on Myrtle Grove and the Ev-Henwood tract in Brunswick County.

"The task force is currently working on placing identifying labels on all plants and will eventually have materials available for self-guided walking tours through campus," said Dr. Noland.

"Our campus is uniquely suited to conserve local communities of indigenous species. We [UNCW] have a special opportunity in the intact longleaf pine forest and its associated flora and fauna, which are increasingly rare elsewhere," according to the task force mission.

Recipient of the Community Excellence Award by Keep America Beautiful, UNCW also was recently recognized for its efforts in enhancing the community by providing an aesthetically beautiful campus.

Call for Nominations; 1995 Governor's Award for Excellence

Each year, UNCW selects an outstanding staff employee who exemplifies service to the campus and the community. Any permanent "career status" SPA or 12-month EPA employee may be nominated for this award.

Please contact Human Resources for a nomination form and return the form by April 21 to Kimberly Best-Tuten, Human Resources, Governor's Award for Excellence Committee. Nominees for this award will be screened by a campus committee.

Boosting Urban Economy UNCW Works to Bridge Gap with Inner City

Reprinted with permission from Wilmington Morning Star (April 18 by Philip Hervey).

With its picturesque, tree-lined campus, the University of North Carolina at Wilmington may appear far-removed to those in the city's impoverished Brooklyn and Bottom neighborhoods.

UNCW hopes to close the gap by building a new relationship with people in the inner city.

The university is asking the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $380,000 grant so it can lend a hand in the city's poorer neighborhoods, said Bolton Anthony, special assistant to Dr. Michelle Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for Public Service and Extended Education at UNCW.

UNCW wants to tap a HUD program that puts college resources to work solving urban problems, Mr. Anthony said. About 15 grants will be awarded nationwide.

The grant would help UNCW set up an office in a neighborhood where the university would work with the Wilmington Community Coalition on inner-city issues. The coalition is a non-profit organization of neighborhood groups, social service agencies and officials influential in economic development.

UNCW, working with the coalition and other community groups, would try to accomplish the following over the next two years:

- Develop a plan to boost business investment on Castle Street. A task force with representatives from UNCW, the Castle Street Association, the city, the coalition and surrounding neighborhoods would be charge. Urban designers from N.C. State University also would be involved.

- Work with the North Fourth Street Partnership on building a mid-sized grocery store for the Brooklyn neighborhood.

- Establish, with the help of the coalition, a "neighborhood resource center" in the Brooklyn area. The center would be a base where people could learn how to solve community problems. It could also become an off-campus site for UNCW programs.

The projects were included in the coalition's application for a $3 million federal "enterprise community" grant, which was rejected this past winter.

Without the new partnership proposed by UNCW, researchers working in inner Wilmington have had to take it upon themselves to determine what issues concern residents, Mr. Anthony said.

"The faculty are pretty well on their own to look into the community to determine where they can serve," Mr. Anthony said.

The grant would put residents trying to solve a neighborhood problem in touch with university officials who could help, he said.

A Day with Martha Stewart

Martha Stewart will be appearing on campus April 27 at a sold-out luncheon and a lecture. Ticket holders are urged to arrive early for both events, 11:15 a.m. for the luncheon in the University Center Ballroom, and 1:45 p.m. for the lecture in Kenan Auditorium. Wise House Designers Showcase Now Open

The UNCW
Wise House
Designers
Showcase is open to the public through May 13.

The Designers Showcase is a celebration of the Wise House, a Wilmington landmark built in 1908, and the new permanent home of the UNCW Alumni Association.

Cosponsored by the Alumni Association and the Friends of UNCW, the showcase represents the largest volunteer effort ever undertaken by UNCW and will involve more than 1,000 area volunteers. Volunteers include 16 area interior designers who have each been given a different room to breathe new life into.

The Showcase will feature special events and tours of the Wise House. Showcase hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday-Saturday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursdays, and 1 to 4 p.m., Sundays. For ticket information, call 251-2683.

Update of UNCW's Community and Regional Activities

More than 50 percent of the faculty and staff have completed the "Community Relations Inventory Form." It will be impressive to see the tremendous number of official university programs and the community activities of the faculty and staff. Many thousands of hours of professional and volunteer service make significant contributions to our community and region. UNCW plays a major role in the area and makes a strong impact in the region.

A steering committee has been formed to determine the most effective way the survey information can assist the university. There are numerous possibilities of how this information can be combined with other reports to have ongoing benefits.

The first phase of the survey report should be completed in May with a more detailed report available in August. If you have not returned your survey to Royce Angel, University Advancement, please do so.

School of Nursing marks anniversary with reunion lunch

UNCW's School of Nursing continues its celebration of Nurses Week, May 1-6, with a managed care workshop today until 3 p.m. at the Hilton Hotel.

From 1 to 4:30 p.m. May 5 in Hoggard Hall, the School of Nursing will host an open house.

A highlight of the weeklong celebration is a reunion and luncheon from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. May 6 at the Hawk's Nest. The luncheon will focus on excellence in nursing and will include motivational speaker Nancy Covey of Raleigh. Her topic will be "Oh the Difference You've Made: Finding Gifts in Everyday Life."

A reunion of UNCW nursing alumni and graduates of nursing education programs at James Walker and Community hospitals will also take place at that time. Luncheon tickets are $5. Reservations can be made by calling Adrienne Jackson at ext. 3207. The event is sponsored by PPD.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the nursing baccalaureate program at UNCW. It was also 30 years ago that the associate degree curriculum was established at UNCW and nursing education was transferred from James Walker and Community hospitals.

Among the special events held earlier this week was talk by Dr. Brenda Cleary, director of the N. C. Center for Nursing, and a nursing expo for students interested in nursing careers.

Announcements

The following professional support staff members were recognized for their contributions: Diane Billings, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, innovation; Linda Cluxton, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, outstanding new employee; and Laura Perry, Housing and Residence Life, devotion to duty.

The following professional staff members were recognized: Brock Snyder, Discover Outdoor Programs, innovation; Shay Davis, Housing and Residence Life, outstanding new employee; Bill McCartney, Housing and Residence Life, devotion to duty; Kara Kreutner, Housing and Residence Life, other achievements; Brian Cooper, Campus Recreation, safety/heroism; Lee Pridgen, University Center, public service.

Cheryl Hicks, Justin Lawhead, Tonya Washington, Ivey Graham, Marion Bennett and Barbara Jackson were also recognized for their achievements this year.

REYNOLDS TO RETIRE

Dr. Betty J. Reynolds, associate dean in the School of Nursing, is planning to retire in May. In honor of her many contributions to the nursing program and the university, the School of Nursing is hosting a drop-in continental breakfast from 8 to 10 a.m. May 5 in the lobby of Hoggard Hall.

CTE WORKSHOP

The Center for Teaching Excellence is sponsoring a hands-on workshop to introduce UNCW faculty to techniques and technology needed for developing multimedia classroom presentations using IBM computers and ToolBook. The workshop will be held May 8-10. More information can be obtained by calling CTE at ext. 3034 before noon weekdays.

SUMMER SESSIONS READING LISTS DUE

Faculty teaching courses during Summer Sessions I and II should submit reserve reading lists before May 6. Faculty are also requested to submit lists for fall 1995 before leaving for the summer. Reserve reading lists may be sent via campus mail to Carolyn Andrews or on VAX mail to ANDREWSC. Previous lists may be renewed by calling the Randall Library reserve desk at ext. 3790.

ACTIVITIES FAIR PARTICIPANTS SOUGHT

Departments and services can participate in the Campus Activities Fair during summer orientation June 12, 15 and 19 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Center Stage Cafe. The fair is designed to acquaint new students and parents with involvement opportunities including student organizations, university services and interested academic departments. More information can be obtained by calling Tonya Washington, Leadership Center, at ext. 4230 by May 12.

AWARDS LUNCHEON TICKETS ARE FREE

There will be no charge for tickets to UNCW's 20th Annual Service Awards Program June 8 in Wagoner Hall. Tickets will be available on a first-come, first-served basis from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 15-18 in the Randall Library administrative office.

LUNCH AND LEARN WITH COACH WAINWRIGHT

Women of the university are invited to bring lunch, socialize and hear speakers from various interest areas at noon the second Thursday of each month. Lunch and Learn sessions are sponsored by the University Women of UNCW. On May 11, the guest speaker will be Jerry Wainwright, head coach of the UNCW men's basketball team. The session will be held in University Center Ballroom 4.

CTE SEEKS DIRECTOR TO ASSIST FACULTY

The Center for Teaching Excellence is seeking a director to assist faculty in the areas of course and curriculum development, new instructional technologies and faculty support services. The director chairs the CTE Advisory Committee and oversees the work of two part-time faculty associates and a part-time secretary. The director reports to the provost through the assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs for information technology and special academic programs. The position is a nine-month, half-time appointment with one additional month in the summer, for a current UNCW faculty member.

The director should be a respected teacher and scholar with multi-disciplinary interests, have the ability to work with diverse academic and administrative groups and have a demonstrated interest in promoting teaching excellence for all faculty. The director must hold a terminal degree in his or her discipline and have tenure at UNCW.

Letters of application or nomination are due May 19. Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and statement that addresses the characteristics and responsibilities of the position. A selection will be made by June 14. All materials should be sent to CTE Director Search Committee, c/o Provost's Office, Alderman Hall 111.

Faculty and Staff

Dr. Karan B. Smith, mathematical sciences, has had her article "Guided Discovery, Visualization and Technology Applied to the New Curriculum for Secondary Mathematics" accepted for publication in the Journal of Computers in Mathematics and Science Teaching.

Rex Pringle, campus recreation, presented a program titled "Outdoor Recreation Activities for People with Disabilities" at the annual conference of the National Intramural-Recreational Sports Association. In addition to his presentation, Pringle will serve as chair for NIRSA's Outdoor Recreation/Special Interests Committee.

Brian Cooper, campus recreation, finished a three-year term on the National Softball Committee of the National Intramural-Recreational Sports Association. While on this committee, Cooper conducted a National Softball Umpires Clinic in Houston, presented a program titled "Designing a Softball Mechanics Clinic" at two NIRSA workshops and assisted with the development of a training video for softball umpires titled "Nice Call, Blue." Cooper will now serve on NIRSA's Affirmative Action Committee.

Linda J. MacRae, academic affairs, was initiated in the UNCW chapter of the honor society of Phi Kappa Phi at its 16th annual initiation on April 19. Phi Kappa Phi is devoted to the recognition and encouragement of superior scholarship in all academic disciplines. MacRae is a second semester senior in UNCW's anthropology program.

Bob Buerger, HPER, and Thomas Pasquarello, State University of New York at Cortland, presented "Balancing Natural Resource Protection and Sustainable Economic Development: The Adirondack Park Model" at the eighth Conference on Research and Resource Management in Parks and on Public Lands in Portland, Ore.

Dr. George T. Zervos, philosophy and religion, served as moderator for a panel discussion at Liberty Commons.

The panel, which was made up of physicians, nurses and patient representatives from local health care facilities, discussed the topic "Advance Directives: Are They Making a Difference?" The event was sponsored by the newly formed Coastal Bioethics Network, whose purpose is to educate health care providers and the public on bioethics issues and advance health care directives. Zervos is a patient representative and member of the Ethics Panel at New Hanover Regional Medical Center. He also serves on the advisory board of the Coastal Bioethics Network and is co-chair of the Education Committee of that network.

Dr. Lawrence Cahoon, biological sciences, received funding from the National Science Foundation for his proposal titled "Instrumentation to Reorient Instruction in Aquatic Biology."

Dr. Robert Y. George, biological sciences and coordinator of the N. C. Fulbright Chapter, participated in the workshop on "Federal Funding Opportunities in International Education," sponsored by UNC's General Administration. Dr. Gary Faulkner, Office of International Programs, served as moderator of the session on "Curriculum and Faculty Development."

Karin Deck, math sciences, and Rex Pringle, campus recreation, are pleased to announce their recent engagement. A wedding date has not been set.

Dr. William A. Bryan, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, was the keynote speaker for the South Carolina College Personnel Association Conference in Myrtle Beach. The title of his talk was "Transitions: Personal and Professional." Approximately 200 student affairs professionals attended the conference.

Joanne Rockness, Cameron School of Business Administration, presented a paper "Confidentiality Rules for Professional Accountants: A Time for Change" at the Southeast American Accounting Association meeting.

Rockness is a featured speaker at the Minnesota Accounting Educators Conference May 4-6 and is presenting a seminar on "Teaching Ethics in the Accounting Curriculum." She is also a panel participant on "Changes in the Accounting Profession."

Tom Lemley, athletics, has joined the staff at UNCW as men's athletic trainer.

John Bennett, HPER, has had two books published: Gymnastics for Everyone (Boston: American Press 1995), and Rhythmic Activities and Dance (co-authored with P. C. Reimer). Bennett also presented "You, Change and Leadership" and "Sequence Dance for Lifelong Leisure Activity: An International Experience" at the 1995 American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance National Convention.

P. J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, will present a one-hour session on contemporary French music (rock, rap and French popular culture in the classroom) at the 29th annual conference of the Foreign Language Association of North Carolina in October 1995.

Dr. Bill Bolduc, communication studies, recently received the second-place award in the open category of the Communication Technologies Division of the Broadcast Education Association. His research paper titled "The diffusion of interactive video at Florida State University, 1988-1992: Implications of a Case Study" was presented at the 40th annual BEA convention in Las Vegas.

Dr. Michael Seidman, history, has been offered a $20,000 fellowship from the American Council of Learned Societies. Seidman's proposal titled "A Social History of the Spanish Civil War: The Republican Zone" focuses on the anonymous individuals who asserted their own interests against the demands of various causes in the Spanish Civil War. He proposes to study those who were not identified by class, religion, gender, etc.

Faculty and Staff Cont'd.

Computer science students Tammy Black and Patrick Plusnick have been selected to participate in a Research for Undergraduates program at UNCW in the upcoming Summer Session I. They will be joined by two students from Oberlin College and University of Texas of the Permian Basin, with each receiving a stipend of $1,000 from the National Science Foundation. This activity will be directed by Harry Smith and will use the facilities of the Parallel Processing Laboratory in the service of problems in computer graphics.

Dr. Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for Public Service and Extended Education at UNCW, has been selected as a member of the SACS accreditation team for Nicholls State University in Thibodaux, LA. Howard-Vital has been charged with evaluating the university's publications, continuing education unit, contractual relationships and consortial activities. It includes visiting Nicholls State's off-campus sites. Howard-Vital was the co-chair of a successful accreditation self-study team and site visit when she was the associate vice president for academic programs at Edinboro University in western Pennsylvania. She also contributed to the self-study document at Harold Washington College in Chicago.

Dr. Michael A. Mallin, biological sciences, presented a paper titled "Nutrition Limitation in the Cape Fear River" to the Water Resources Research Institute of the University of North Carolina on April 25 in Raleigh. His co-authors were Dr. Lawrence B. Cahoon and Matthew McIver of biological sciences.

T. David Evans, sociology and anthropology, co-authored a paper in criminology (May 1995) titled "Religion and Crime Reexamined: The Impact of Religion, Social Controls and Ecology on Adult Criminality." Another co-authored article, "Reconsidering Strain Theory: The Salience of Operationalization," was published in the March 1995 issue of the Journal of Quantitative Criminology.

Associate professor Tom Macie, fine arts, recently completed a consulting project for the main room in Wilmington's Community Arts Center. The project was to create a set of draftings of the facility and a recommended plan for enhancing versatility, appearance and acoustics for use as a multi-purpose performance space.

1995 NCAA® Women's Golf Championships Hosted by UNCW at Landfall

UNCW is extremely proud to serve as host of the 1995 NCAA Women's Golf Championships. The top 18 women's golf teams in the country will be attending. The tournament will be held May 24-27, at the prestigious Pete Dye Course at Landfall.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association Women's Golf Championships began in 1982. It is the premiere and most elite collegiate women's golf tournament where 102 of the nation's top collegiate women golfers will compete this year.

As the host of this event, UNCW will share this elite status. The NCAA only gives this opportunity to outstanding schools which have met certain levels of achievement in specified areas. The NCAA focuses on the graduation rates of athletes in an NCAA program and high academic eligibility standards for athletes.

This exciting event will give UNCW the opportunity to showcase not only its golf and athletic programs, but the city of Wilmington and the state of North Carolina as well. The championship will be broadcast on national television on Prime Sports Network.

Ticket prices:

$12 four-day pass

UNCW Women Receive Awards

The YWCA 1995 Women of Achievement Awards, now in their 11th year, honor women from New Hanover, Pender, Brunswick and Columbus Counties.

Women were honored in 10 categories: arts, business/industry, community service, education, entrepreneur, government, human services, professions, health and wellness and teen leader.

Mimi Cunningham, UNCW executive director of University Relations, won for community service. She has been president of AAUW and is the first woman to serve as president of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

Receiving certificates of recognition, Karen Colvin, purchasing assistant, and Elaine Penn, development officer, were recognized by their supervisors for doing an outstanding job.

Division of Business Affairs Insert

Included as an insert in this week's Campus Communique is a Business Affairs Desk Reference highlighting ongoing divisional processes designed to enhance communication in support of service quality and continuous improvement. Please feel free to tap in to these processes so that our division may better serve your needs. An updated organizational chart is also provided to assist you in locating Business Affairs' staff members and identifying services provided by the division.

UNCW Offers First Master's Program at CP&L

UNCW's restructured MBA program will be provided on-site at a local industry—the first time UNCW's Cameron School of Business has offered an off-campus degree program. The reason for this innovative first venture is “to be responsive to the business community that we are part of,” said Cameron's Dean Howard O. Rockness.

As partners in professional development, UNCW and CP&L have joined forces to offer an on-site Master of Business Administration at CP&L's Brunswick Nuclear Plant in Southport. The UNC system's General Administration gave its final approval in late March.

The UNCW/CP&L MBA program begins June 3 with an orientation and team-building program on the UNCW campus for approximately 32 students and their instructors. Classes will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings at the plant in Southport and one Saturday each month on the UNCW campus. The first enrollees are expected to complete the program in May 1997.

Professional Development/Teacher Credit Courses to be Offered

Schools Without Fear—A four-day seminar, designed for teachers, counselors and school administrators that focuses on strategies for creating a school climate conducive to achieving excellence. June 18-21. Credit: 2.0 units of teacher renewal credit. Register by June 2.

AquaFacts are Waterproof—An interdisciplinary, supplementary water education workshop for teachers in grades K-12. June 19-22. Fee: $30. Register by June 9.

Adjusting Our Sails, American Master Teacher Program for Children's Physical Education—Learn the strategies, techniques and skills for being an effective and enthusiastic physical education teacher and take the first step to be designated a “master teacher.” August 7-8. Register by July 17. Registrations received after July 17 will incur a $30 late charge.

For information about programs listed above, call ext. 3195.

RENTAL/SALE OF REGALIA

Fall Convocation will be held August 23. To rent regalia for this occasion, please call the UNCW Bookstore prior to August 1. The bookstore will be measuring for custom regalia September 6 to 8 and will be offering a 20 percent discount on all custom regalia during this sale. Please call ext. 3054 to make an appointment for a fitting. Also, Oak Hall Cap and Gown Company will have a representative available during that time.

RECEPTION FOR BRAYE

The UNCW community is invited to a breakfast reception from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., June 16, in the University Union, Room 106 (Career Services Center) honoring James C. Bray on the occasion of his retirement.

GOTHIC RENAISSANCE THANKS CHEMISTRY AND BIOLOGY

The production company Gothic Renaissance has acknowledged the help of Dr. Ned Martin, chemistry, Dr. Ronald Sizemore, biological sciences, and their staffs for their help with the pilot episode of American Gothic. Small items from these departments were loaned for set use.

WILMINGTON COLLEGE ALUMNI SOUGHT

Between 1947 and 1969, more than 12,000 men and women were enrolled at Wilmington College and 1,584 were awarded degrees (according to From These Beginnings: Wilmington College 1946-1969). Now, UNCW is trying to locate those men and women so they can be part of the first reunion weekend celebration, being planned for October 6 to 8. The UNCW Alumni Association is seeking the addresses and phone numbers of Wilmington College alumni so it can inform them about reunion plans as they develop. If you attended or graduated from Wilmington College or if you know the addresses and phone numbers of any Wilmington College alumni, call 251-2682.

A SPECIAL THANKS

Jeanne Harmon and Janie Hauser would like to thank everyone for their prayers and support during the recent death of their brother John Harmon.

SERVICE AWARDS PROGRAM UPDATE

The service awards program committee distributed more than 600 tickets May 15 to 18 — the most enthusiastic reception ever to our awards program. We were able to accommodate every employee who requested tickets during this period; however, no additional tickets are available at this time.

We will "wait list" employees who would still like to participate, but did not pick up tickets last week. If you picked up tickets that you subsequently discover you will not be able to use, please return them to Human Resources so they can be redistributed to other employees.

We are looking forward to a great program on June 8 with Virginia Adams as our "celebrity" MC, Jerry Shinn as guest speaker and the largest turnout in the history of this program.

STAR-NEWS DELIVERED ON CAMPUS

The Wilmington Star-News can now be delivered right to the residence halls for easy pickup by students. The Star-News is offering a sizable discount to UNCW student residents who wish to subscribe to the paper. This arrangement was reached with the Housing and Residence Life Office and is in effect beginning fall 1995. Also, faculty may want to consider use of the paper or parts of the paper in classroom assignments and activities.

CHANGES IN THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

Upon the retirement of School of Nursing Associate Dean Dr. Betty Reynolds, the following changes will become effective. Doretha Stone will assume the position of interim associate dean. Dr. Marsha Dowell will assume the position of director of the RN ACCESS Program and interim level III coordinator.

HOMESTAY FOR JAPANESE TEACHERS

New Hanover County schools are hosting a few Japanese assistant teachers. Homestays are needed for the teachers who will help Yoko Kano teach Japanese at New Hanover County Schools and UNCW. If interested, please call 452-5779.

UNIVERSITY STATIONERY TO BE UPDATED

UNCW is in the process of updating and revising its university letterhead for future use. For this reason, departments may not want to order large end-of-the-year quantities.

Business Affairs Desk Reference

This desk reference highlights ongoing processes (within the Division of Business Affairs) that are designed to enhance communication in support of service quality and continuous improvement. Randall K. Hanson, business law, had his article titled "Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress Claims in North Carolina: Recent Decisions Leave This Theory in Distress" published in the Journal of Legal Studies in Business.

Dr. Terry Mount, Spanish, presented a paper, "Berceo's 'Milagros': Witnesses, Evidence, Proof," at the 30th Annual International Medieval Conference held at Western Michigan University.

Dr. Maurice Stanley, philosophy and religion, presented a paper "The Fugitive: A Philosophical Review" to the Society for the Philosophic Study of the Contemporary Visual Arts at the April 1995 Chicago meeting of the American Philosophical Association, central division.

Dr. Wei Feng, mathematical sciences, and Jonathan T. Rowell, undergraduate student, had their paper "Coexistence and Permanence in a Four-species Food-chain Model" accepted for publication in the journal Nonlinear Times and Digest. This paper is partially from Jonathan's honors work in mathematics and supported in part by the Undergraduate Research Fellowship of UNCW.

Linda Moore, University Union director, has been awarded the 1995 Outstanding Professional Contribution Award by the North Carolina College Personnel Association. The award recognizes her work in establishing the North Carolina Leadership Consortium and her work to bring together five professional state organizations to explore collaborative ventures. Previous UNCW recipients of this award include Dr. William Bryan (1989) and Dr. Richard Mullendore (1992).

Dr. Walter Conser, philosophy and religion, gave a paper "Cherokees and Christianity" at a conference on Native Americans and Native American Studies in North Carolina at UNC Chapel Hill.

Installing Micros

Most microcomputing systems are now delivered fully configured (including pre-installed software) with good installation instructions. As a result, faculty and staff are encouraged to unpack and install their own microcomputing equipment including connecting external components such as the mouse, keyboard, monitor and speakers. Once the equipment is unpacked and installed, call Hardware Support at ext. 3096 if you have any problems or questions, files that need to be transferred from another system or if the equipment needs to be connected to the campus data network. Should you require the installation of additional software, call Academic Computing Services at ext. 3883. Self-installation does not violate any warranty, as it did in the past.

Gas Pumping Schedule

Summer hours:

Monday-Thursday: 7-8 a.m., 12:30-1:30 p.m., 3-3:30 p.m.

Friday: 7-8 a.m., 9:30-10 a.m.

Student Time Sheets

The student time sheet deadline for May is 3 p.m., May 29. Time sheets must be in the Payroll Office (Alderman Hall, Room 217) by that time. The student time sheet deadline also will be posted in "Bulletin" on the fax for seven days prior to the payroll deadline.

Evaluations Due

Performance evaluations are due in Human Resources by June 1. Please note that the first column heading on the second page of the evaluation form should read key responsibilities and results or primary job factors rather than performance rating.

Transcription Equipment Needed

The Department of Communication Studies is in need of transcription equipment (Dictaphone and tape recorders) for approximately two weeks around the end of June. Any departments that have such equipment to lend, please call ext. 3448.

Please welcome the following new employees: Kathryn Batten/Library Services; Dawn Wilson/VCUA.

Inventory Printouts

Inventory Printouts are due in the Fixed Assets Office by May 31.

Shared Leave Needed

Shared leave donations are being accepted for Cynthia Murray, Physical Plant -housekeeping, and LaFonta McNeil, project design. Both employees are facing leave without pay and need our help. Please send vacation leave donations to Human Resources.

Purchasing Reminders

Renewal requests are due in Purchasing May 31. Please return them to make certain your recurring orders are processed by July 1. Call ext. 3153 with questions.

All equipment and supply orders should be requisitioned by now. We asked equipment requisitions be submitted by April 30 and supply requisitions by May 22. State appropriated purchases need to be delivered and invoiced by June 30. Suppliers need adequate delivery times in order to accomplish these year-end requirements. If you have questions about a particular purchase, please call the appropriate agent.

Processing timely paperwork this time of year is critical. Please be attentive to receiving goods and signing off on PO pink and partial receiving copies quickly. Working condition problems can be corrected with applicable warranties. Address specific questions to ext. 3156 or 3158.

ACS Offers New Service

Academic Computing Services (ACS) is initiating a new software support service request system which necessitates a different method of handling and assigning priorities. Part of this system requires that all software service requests go through one central number. Beginning June 1, consultants will not be receiving direct phone calls, and all service requests are to be placed through ext. 3883. All calls will be entered into a service request tracking system and forwarded to the appropriate consultant. Customers will be notified by e-mail as to the consultant handling their service request along with the associated priority (emergency, critical, regular or deferred priority). If you need to reach a consultant about a software service request in progress, the best way continues to be e-mail. ACS appreciates your patience during this transition, and we hope you continue to see improvements in our service!

Cable Honored With the 1995 General James H. Doolittle Educator of the Year Award

Dr. Larry Cable, associate professor of history, has been awarded the 1995 General James H. Doolittle Educator of the Year award. Dr. Cable is the most prized guest lecturer at the United States Air Force Special Operations School.

"His outstanding work includes developing symposia themes and papers, lecturing on a wide variety of topics in many of our courses, and advising faculty and staff," said James L. Hobson, Jr., Major General, USAF Commander. "He is a mainstay of our special operations and regional affairs education effort."

Every year more than 200 guest speakers, including heads of state, ambassadors, retired and active duty generals, flag officers, college professors and other unique subject matter experts support the USAF education programs.

"Each year we recognize an outstanding scholar and educator from this group through this award," said Hobson. "We are proud to be so closely associated with as fine an academic as Dr. Larry Cable and deeply appreciate his service."

North Fourth Street Partnership Receives $30,000 Grant from Z. Smith Reynolds

North Fourth Street Partnership, Inc., a Wilmington neighborhood-based development organization, announced a $30,000 grant award from the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem. The grant will be used to promote the sale of memberships in a supermarket planned for North Fourth Street that would serve a neighborhood where most residents do not have access to private transportation. The nearest full service food store is approximately five miles away.

The grant application was written by UNCW's Dr. Bolton Anthony who serves as special assistant to Dr. Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor of the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. Dr. Anthony is a member of the community-owned supermarket committee of North Fourth Street Partnership, Inc.

Partnership President Harry Forden stated, "We are very pleased to receive this grant and thank UNCW for its continuing assistance in our efforts to revitalize the Brooklyn area of Wilmington."

"UNCW is very interested in working with the Wilmington community," explained Chancellor James R. Leutze. "Dr. Anthony's role in writing the grant proposal is a wonderful example of how the community and the university can work together to build a better quality of life for all residents."

New UNCW Logo Introduced . . .

Please note that the official UNCW logo has been updated and improved. Any new letterhead ordered (once old stock is depleted) will boast the new, stylized logo.

Hadley Named Dean of Graduate School and Research

The Office of Academic Affairs is pleased to announce the appointment of Dr. Neil F. Hadley as dean of the Graduate School and Research.

Dr. Hadley is currently a professor of zoology at Arizona State University and will assume his new duties at UNCW July 1.

The auction will benefit the 120 children that the program serves in Wilmington. The proceeds will help continue the much-needed preschool and after-school programs that are offered to children to enable them to reach or exceed their grade level. Any item or items that you can donate to this cause will be greatly appreciated. Please contact 763-8201, and someone will arrange to pick up your donation. For more information, you may call the Leadership Center at ext. 3797.

CAPE FEAR RIVER DOCUMENTARY REELS IN NUMEROUS AWARDS

UNCW has received several awards for its public television documentary titled River Run: Down the Cape Fear to the Sea.

River Run, which premiered on UNC-TV in June 1994, chronicled a three-day, 200-mile journey from the headwaters of the Cape Fear River to the Atlantic Ocean which explored the river's history, ecology, relation to commerce, issues affecting it and its future.

Awards presented to UNCW for River Run include:

- The Silver Reel from the International Television Video Association.
- Two Awards of Excellence from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) District III.
- A special merit award in conservation communications from the 1994 Governor's Conservation Achievement Award Program awarded by the N.C. Wildlife Federation.
- Take Pride in North Carolina 1994 media award from the N.C. Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resource, Division of Parks and Recreation.

Designers Showcase a Tremendous Success for UNCW Alumni Association

No matter how you look at it, the UNCW Wise House Designers Showcase can be deemed a tremendous success.

During the 21 days in April and May that the alumni house was open to the public, more than 5,000 visitors viewed the once derelict mansion which was transformed into a breathtakingly beautiful home through the handiwork of 17 local interior designers.

The showcase took more than a year of planning by the UNCW Alumni Association and Friends of UNCW, who co-sponsored the event. Altogether, more than 800 people from numerous community organizations donated their time and talents to keep the showcase operating smoothly day after day.

As a result of this combined effort, $76,500 was raised for the UNCW Alumni Association. These profits are being turned over to United Carolina Bank, as partial payment on the $400,000 renovation loan taken out by the Alumni Association in 1993.

Pat Corcoran, alumni relations director, reports that the association still owes UCB $200,000 plus interest, which it expects to raise over the next two years through various fund-raising events.

"We are delighted that with the support of the Friends of UNCW and numerous volunteers we have been able to achieve our fund-raising goals," she said. "Our alumni association is young, yet willing and eager to meet our fund-raising challenge. We thank everyone for their support in making the showcase a glowing success for UNCW and our community."
